Concern Mounts As Condition Of Dulles Declines

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John Foster Dulles, stricken with cancer and pneumonia, may die in a matter of days, friends said Saturday.

They reported the strength of the 71-year-old diplomat was ebbing and that he was growing weaker every day.

The former secretary of state is in Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

Members of his family have gathered here. Dulles has been bedridden since last Saturday when it was discovered he had pneumonia.

The State Department reported Friday the pneumonia has persisted and "there has been some further decline in his general condition."

Dulles has been valiantly battling cancer since Feb. 13 when evidence of a new outbreak of the malignancy in his abdominal tract was discovered in the course of a hernia operation.

In November, 1956, cancer had been discovered in the same area but an operation apparently was successful.

This time the condition was inoperable. Dulles underwent massive X-ray treatments and an injection of radioactive gold in an effort to continue as President Eisenhower's foreign policy architect.

However, on April 12, he cut short a recuperative stay in Florida and returned to the hospital where a new malignant condition was found in the neck area. It was then he resigned as secretary of state although agreeing to serve as a special foreign policy consultant to the President.

Doctors reported at first that Dulles was responding satisfactorily. But more recent medical bulletins reported a decline in his general condition.

Three members of the family who live elsewhere were reported in the city Saturday. They are a son, John Dulles, an engineer in Mexico City; a daughter, Mrs. Robert Hinshaw, New York City; and a sister, Mrs. Margaret Edwards, Rye, N. Y.

Ike, Family Visit Mamie's Ill Mother

DENVER (UPI)—The family of President Eisenhower, spanning four generations, gathered Saturday night at the bedside of Mrs. Eisenhower's 81-year-old mother, Mrs. John S. Doud.

The chief executive, after his first visit to the new Air Force Academy at nearby Colorado Springs, flew to Denver for a quiet family evening. Sunday he will fly back to Washington, leaving here at 11 a. m. met.

Eisenhower was met here at Lowry Air Force Base by his wife, who came from Washington earlier in the week to be with her aged mother when she celebrated her 81st birthday last Wednesday.

The President brought with him his son, Maj. John S. Eisenhower, and his wife Barbara, and their four children, David, 11; Barbara Anne, 9; Susan, 7, and Mary Jean, 3.

The family drove first to the Brown Palace Hotel where they will spend the night. They went to an eight-floor suite where the President has stayed a number of times, and in the late afternoon drove to the modest home of Mrs. Doud not far from downtown Denver.

The President did not go to the Doud home immediately upon arrival in Denver because the ailing woman was asleep at the time. Mrs. Doud is now confined to the second floor of her house, suffering from a number of ailments of the elderly.

It was in this same house that the chief executive suffered a heart attack in September, 1955. Eisenhower has visited Denver twice since, but only for brief periods.

Non-Stop Flight Record Sought

BOSTON (UPI)—Flying grandfather Max Conrad, attempting to set a record for the longest non-stop flight in a light airplane, was reported about one-third of the way across the Atlantic Saturday night.

Air route traffic controllers of the FAA here said Conrad specified Orly Field, just outside Paris, as his destination, but they believed he would try to make Frankfurt, Germany, without touching down at Orly depending on the amount of gasoline he had left and the weather.

State Solons Prepare For Second Round

By Sam Hanna Staff Writer

BATON ROUGE — Louisiana legislators will return to the capitol tomorrow with three days to file their final bills and three weeks to listen to Gov. Earl K. Long.

The Governor, who is full of political vigor, says the only personal appearance he plans to make this week will be in behalf of a bill to oust Sec. of State Wade O. Martin Jr. from the state Voting Machine Board.

But with a fourth gubernatorial term in mind, Long will guide pet bills he wants passed. To do that he may float from chamber to chamber and committee to committee.

The house convenes at 1 p. m. Monday with the senate coming back in at 7 o'clock. Both knocked off for a long weekend.

Long was the whole show last week climaxed by a hip-swinging address Wednesday night. Otherwise, there wasn't one squabble in either chamber.

Long's record $458-million general appropriations bill sped on schedule to the House appropriations committee before adjournment Thursday.

The bill, showing a $76-million increase over last year, will be heard in committee this week.

Meanwhile, the legislature is considering a record-breaking $719-million budget. It includes $201 million in federal funds and the rest in state money.

On federal funds, Rep. Lester P. Vetter of Coushatta has a bill up for consideration to curb federal spending by creating a commission to harness the problem.

Vetter expects trouble from some top state officials warm toward the practice of using federal monies to subsidize state spending.

Farmer Gives Eggs Away As Protest

STOUGHTON, Mass. (UPI)—A New England farmer gave away 5,520 eggs Saturday as a protest against "the great American coffee break" which he says is a factor in the depressed state of the egg industry.

"It's never been so bad in the New England egg industry," said Sebe S. Garjian as he waved away the last of the steady stream of "customers" who drove in one driveway and out the other all morning long to take advantage of his protest offer.

"I'd do it again," Garjian said. The Stoughton poultryman said he "kind of admires" Australia bound farm rebel Stanley Yankus of Dowagiac, Mich. But, he added, he has no intention of imitating Yankus, who gave up his farm and planned to move to

Poplarville Still Tense; FBI Silent

POPLARVILLE, Miss. (UPI)—Expectations that a break was near in the three-week-old Mack Charles Parker lynch investigation reached a new high Saturday.

An authoritative source close to the FBI investigation of the Negro's jailhouse abduction and slaying said at least seven Mississippians would be arrested "pretty soon." The general feeling here was that the break would come in the next day or two. The FBI declined comment.

At least four white men from this area have told United Press International that the FBI has questioned them at length about their whereabouts April 25 when Parker was dragged from his cell.

FOUR QUESTIONED

One report this week quoted the FBI as saying there were no prime suspects in the case, but special agent R. W. Bachman, in charge of the investigation, assured United Press International that no FBI personnel had made such a statement.

The four men who said they have been questioned extensively are the Rev. James Lee, a missionary Baptist minister who lives

Russia Okays Nuclear Ban Inspections

MOSCOW (UPI) — Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev has written President Eisenhower that Russia would be willing to allow a definitely limited number of veto-free nuclear inspection teams on its soil to enforce an international nuclear test ban, it was disclosed Saturday night.

The official Soviet news agency Tass disclosed that Khrushchev had explained the Russian position in letters sent Friday to President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan discussing the problems of the stalled nuclear test ban talks in Geneva.

Khrushchev said the Soviet Union was ready to "undertake to guarantee the timely and unimpeded access of inspection groups to any region within the Soviet Union" to check on suspected nuclear weapons tests.

FIRM ON LIMIT

But the Soviet leader was firm in insisting that Russia wants a limit placed on the number of inspections that would be carried out under any East-West agreement to prohibit nuclear tests.

"The very idea behind our proposal is to do away with the so-called 'veto' question in sending groups for on-the-spot inspections," Tass quoted Khrushchev as saying.

Khrushchev's letters were in reply to letters from Eisenhower and Macmillan which urged Khrushchev to help break the deadlock in the Geneva nuclear talks.

"We believe that agreement on a number of inspection tours to

Former Cuba Army Pilots Go To Prison

HAVANA (UPI)—A revolutionary tribunal at Camp Freedom Saturday convicted 18 former Cuban Air Force and Army pilots on charges of "genocide" and "assassination" and sentenced them to prison terms ranging from three to 20 years. Three other defendants were acquitted.

Three former airmen also were convicted in absentia on the same charges by the tribunal in the Superior War Court of the Cuban Army Headquarters outside of Havana.

All were charged with having participated in or cooperated with air bombardments of five cities during the two-year rebellion which overthrew Dictator Fulgencio Batista.

At La Cabana Fortress, another revolutionary tribunal handed down a death sentence in absentia to former Police Col. Esteban Ventura, convicted of assassinating three students in a Havana apartment.

Ventura fled with Batista last Dec. 31 and was reported to be in the Dominican Republic. There were reports that he forced his way aboard Batista's escape plane at Gunpoint.

Premier Fidel Castro Friday ordered the end of "war crimes" trials of civilians by revolutionary tribunals and said civilian cases still pending would be turned over to civil court.

But he said that the trial of former military personnel by military courts would continue. Friday, "war crimes" tribunals across the country convicted 15 defendants, sentencing them to prison terms of six months to 20 years.

Ike Visits Air Force Academy

President Eisenhower waves to the crowd as he leaves the Air Force Academy on a tour of the Air Force Academy near Colorado Springs. In the car with the president is Maj. Gen. James E. Briggs, Superintendent of the Academy.

Profits Rise May Balance Ike's Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rising prosperity may balance President Eisenhower's 77-billion-dollar budget even if Congress doesn't vote the extra revenue he wants.

A record 50-billion-dollar total of corporation profits is in sight this year, government economists said Saturday. That is three billion dollars more than the budget-makers estimated in January.

The Treasury will take about half the gain, at the 52 percent tax rate on corporate earnings. This would add 1 1/2 billion dollars to revenues in the fiscal year starting July 1, substantially more than Eisenhower asked in higher taxes, postal rates, and fees.

Mother Saves Daughter As Shark Attacks

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — A hungry 4-foot shark attacked a 37-year-old woman in shallow water at Indian Rocks Beach Saturday. Fast action by the victim's mother saved her from possible serious injury.

June Goldback, a visitor from Milwaukee, Wis., suffered only minor scratches on the foot, upper thigh and hand. A physician who treated her said no stitches were required.

Mrs. Goldback said she and her mother, Clara Winkler, also from Milwaukee, were bathing in shallow water when she felt the shark grab at her foot.

She twisted loose and before she could get to her feet the fish struck her on the thigh. It grabbed her hand as she struggled to free herself.

Mrs. Winkler grabbed her daughter and pulled her toward the shore. The shark released Mrs. Goldback and swam away.

Man Is Toppled Into Car's Path

A Monroe Negro was in city jail last night in lieu of $1,200 bond after he pushed a white man into the path of a car on DeSiard Street yesterday while fleeing from an employee of a downtown store, Monroe Police said.

The Negro was identified as E. L. Robinson, 22, Rt. 2, Box 198, Monroe.

Authorities said Jerry Gray, employee of a clothing store in the 300 block of DeSiard, was chasing the Negro after the store manager had recognized him as having given before when buying clothes.

Gravel Pit Tift Brings Charges

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Two men filed assault charges Saturday against two officials of Baton Rouge Teamsters local No. 5.

The charges grew out of a gravel pit picket line tift at Greensburg, 50 miles northeast of here.

A spokesman for Sheriff Duncan Bridges of St. Helena Parish said these charges were filed:

Aggravated assault against Crowe Peele, assistant business agent for the teamsters local, by Leroy Morgan, employee of Robin Hood Sand and Gravel Co.

$500 BOND SET
Trespassing against Peele by Robin Hood, owner of the firm. Simple destruction of property against Peele by Hood.

Aggravated assault charges against Ed G. Partin, business agent for the Baton Rouge teamsters local, by Oren W. Russell, sand and gravel hauling contractor, of Baton Rouge.

Bond was set at $500 for each charge, the spokesman said. Ossie Brown of Baton Rouge, attorney for Partin and Peele, said his clients have been advised by 21st judicial district court officials they have been released without having to post bond.

Brown was in Greensburg to probe the charges. He said he will ask an early arraignment.

Both Peele and Partin denied the charges.

Peele, a former professional heavyweight boxer, was National Collegiate Athletic Assn. champion while attending Louisiana State University.

Charges against the two men originally read "threatening a life."

The sheriff's office at Greensburg later sought to change the charge to attempted murder, but after deputies contacted Dist. Atty. Duncan Kemp the charges were

ON FT. POLK CLOSURE

Dodd Chides Long In Leesville Talk

LEESVILLE, La. (AP) — State controller William Dodd, a candidate for governor, Saturday chided Gov. Earl Long's handling of the Ft. Polk closure as Dodd and members of his ticket stumped through west central Louisiana.

The Dodd group appeared here, at Many, Roberline and Natchitoches.

In Leesville, Dodd said, "our present governor couldn't find time during the past three years to go to Washington on behalf of Ft. Polk, and now this military installation is closing."

"As a result of the closure, this entire parish will lose millions of dollars. Yet, poor Ole Earl, who was too old and sick to help Ft. Polk, has suddenly become revived, and during the past two weeks, has made two trips to Washington, both of which coincide with horse racing at Louisiana and Baltimore."

With Dodd were William J.

Says Parts 'Worthy Of Discussion'

GENEVA (UPI) — Russia Saturday rejected as a cold war trap the Western package plan for Germany, but said some parts of it were "worthy of discussion" at the Geneva foreign ministers conference.

Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, in a burst of personal diplomacy during the weekend recess of the Geneva foreign ministers conference, spoke out in Moscow on the cold war issues of Germany and a nuclear test ban. In neither case did he close the door to negotiation.

These were the day's developments:

Khrushchev insisted the Western one-piece package plan must be broken into separate parts. His tone was remarkably mild.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter informed Andrei Gromyko the West would refuse a summit conference unless the ministers made enough progress to warrant it.

Sources said Russia tentatively agreed to a meeting of experts to consider Western scientific information designed to make a nuclear weapons test ban foolproof.

Khrushchev sent letters to President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan that "touched on the question" of nuclear inspection teams operating on the territories of the three nuclear powers. He pledged Russia would "strictly adhere" to a ban pact.

Herter made a swift trip to Rome for conferences and promised that the West would fight to seat Italy first if the big four ministers conference is expanded. Much negotiation lay ahead. Khrushchev, speaking on his award of a Lenin prize for peace served notice that Russian strategy now was to split apart the Western package on Berlin, German reunification and European security. At the same time, the Soviets would try to divide the Western big three on the issues involved.

The U.S. delegation disclosed that Herter informed Gromyko

Nine Persons Die As Fires Raze 2 Missouri Homes

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Nine members of two Missouri families—seven of them children—perished in fires that destroyed their newly-acquired homes within the space of 4 1/2 hours ending early Saturday.

The family of Robert Bennett Sr., 29, was wiped out as flames engulfed the frame house they recently purchased in Riverview Gardens, a north St. Louis County suburb.

Bennett suffocated along with his wife, Lawanda, 28, and their children, Diane, 9; Robert Jr., 2; and Sherry, 1. Investigators said the parents apparently had got the baby from a crib but were overcome before they could open a window.

Earlier, four children of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Wray died in a blaze that swept their farm home near Neelyville, Mo., 160 miles south of St. Louis.

The victims were Michael, 9; Margie, 11; Charles, 7; and Joyce, 4. The parents escaped with another daughter, Toni, 2, but Mrs. Wray suffered burns on the hands and face in rescuing the child.

Each of the families moved into its home three weeks ago. Defective wiring was listed as a possible cause of each fire.

ON BORROWED YACHT

Happy 'Liz, Eddie
On Honeymoon

BARCELONA, Spain (UPI) — Elizabeth Taylor and Eddie Fisher sailed away Saturday on a yacht for a honeymoon cruise she said would be too short.

"I have only a week, although I wanted a much longer honeymoon with Eddie," the beautiful four-times married actress told newsmen. She blamed movie commitments.

The newlyweds boarded the borrowed yacht Olmco in Barcelona harbor less than two hours after their arrival by plane from New York. Fisher took advantage of a brief stopover in Lisbon to buy his bride an $80 bracelet.

Destination of the yacht, loaned by movie producer Sam Spiegel, was a closely-guarded secret.

Fisher himself said "we don't know where we are going." But there was speculation that the yacht might be heading for the Mallorca Islands in the Mediterranean.

During the stopover in Lisbon, Fisher asked "what is Mallorca Island like?" and added "I see from the map it is quite close to Barcelona."

Despite the overnight flight from New York, Fisher and his actress wife, married in Las Vegas Tuesday, appeared rested. Both smiled and posed readily for photographers at the airport.

"I'm happy to be in Spain again, even though it is only for such a short visit," Miss Taylor said. She came here with her late husband, Mike Todd, just before he died in a plane crash last year.

"I'm enchanted as you say here to be at the side of my husband," she continued, while Fisher beamed happily.

Hundreds of admirers jammed the waterfront as the two sped to the yacht aboard a hired launch. The captain and his six-man crew, wearing white uniforms with blue trim, lined the rail. Miss Taylor rose from her seat in the launch to wave to the fans on shore.

The yacht, rented by Spiegel from a wealthy Swiss, had been stocked with fine wines, champagne, caviar and other delicacies for the honeymooners. Aboard were a French maid for Miss Taylor and a French chef equally adept at preparing American dishes and continental cuisine.

The yacht boasts a master bedroom with an over-sized bed said to be a copy of the one Christopher Columbus slept in on his way to discover the new world.

Damages Denied
In Wreck Case

HAMBURG, Ark. (Special) — A jury of 11 men and one woman deliberated for slightly over two hours last night before ruling in favor of the three defendants in suit which grew out of the death of four girls in a wreck here a year and a half ago.

Plaintiffs in the case were listed as C. W. Henderson, Mrs. Bernice Henderson, Dan Bunn, Mrs. Jessie Bunn, Mrs. Bernice Chapman and Mrs. O. C. Grim, parents of Myrtle Bunn, Jimmie Nell Russ, Kay Carver and Faith Henderson.

The suit asked $100,000 for each death for a $400,000 total. No damages at all were awarded.

Defendants were Jesse Harold Harrelson, driver of the truck involved in the collision with the girls' car; Otis Taylor, Negro whose car was pulled off the side of the highway but allegedly remained to some extent in the roadway, and the V. J. Tovatt Co., listed as the employer of Harrelson.

Two Are Injured
In Head-On Collision Here

A head-on collision about 11:30 last night on Oliver Road injured two Monroe residents, but the extent of the injuries was largely undetermined at press time.

The victims were rushed to a local hospital by Hixson ambulance.

An officer said Glenn Anderson, about 45, suffered a possible broken leg and broken nose.

Mrs. Betty Rochelle, riding in the other car with her husband, was in a state of shock with undetermined injuries. Her husband was not believed to have been hurt.

ON ARMED FORCES DAY

Air Research Chief
Defends 'Eggheads'

WASHINGTON (UPI) The nation flexed its military muscles Saturday in observance of Armed Forces Day. The theme was "power for peace."

Top officials of the Army, Navy and Air Force addressed special celebrations in New York, Kansas City and Savannah, Ga. All three branches staged demonstrations and displays of their pet weapons.

In a speech prepared for delivery in Savannah Saturday night, Lt. Gen. B. A. Schriever, head of the Air Force's Air Research and Development Command, came to the defense of "eggheads," whom he described as the nation's salvation.

"It is a national disgrace that the term 'egghead,' as a synonym for intellectual excellence, has become a derogatory expression," Schriever said. "Let me tell you that it is the 'eggheads' who are saving us — just as it was the 'eggheads' who wrote the Constitution of the United States."

Schriever also reported on the Air Force's "urgent, all-out effort to develop and to operationally deploy our own long range ballistic missiles." One of these, the Atlas, will become operational this year, he said.

What the nation needs today and in the future, Schriever said, is "optimum deterrent power — the power to knock out not only the enemy's economic and governmental organizations and facilities, but also his military installations."

Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, said in a speech prepared for delivery at Kansas

City that submarines carrying Polaris missiles will be capable of "retaliation so certain, so inevitable, that any attack upon us becomes national suicide for the aggressor."

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff, in a speech prepared for delivery to the New York chapter of the Military Order of World Wars, outlined a five-point program for deterrence of war.

All the armed services must participate in such a program, he said, and "we must overcome any impression that we are a country which can respond with a big bomb and little else."

To deter all-out war, the nation must have nuclear retaliatory force, a tight air defense system, strategic deployment of armed units overseas, and effective anti-submarine forces, Taylor said.

The fifth factor, he said, is a well-coordinated means of coping with limited war, with all services participating.

165 TO GRADUATE

HS Valedictorian
Is Peggy Busbice

After having attained an average of 97.515 for her four years in high school, Peggy Busbice has been named valedictorian of the 1959 graduating class of Ouachita Parish High School. In second place with a four-year average of 96.636 is Barbara Gulley.

Miss Busbice, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Busbice of Sterling, is a member of the National Honor Society, was featured editor of the school newspaper, and was a member of the yearbook staff this year.

Miss Gulley, also of Sterling, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Gulley. She is a member of the Honor Society, and has been a member of Lionettes for three years. Her picture was included in the beauty section of the yearbook this year. Miss Gulley also served as a member of the school newspaper staff and of the yearbook staff.

OTHERS

Other students included on the Honor Roll of graduates are the following, who have an overall "A" average for four years: Peggy Osborne, Martha Parish, Rudy Jones, Carolyn Fuller, Sandra Boyd, Mary Coon, and Catherine Masters.

Dr. Joe J. Mickle, president of Centenary College, will be the principal speaker when 165 seniors receive diplomas at the graduation exercises, May 29 at 8:15 p.m. in the Ouachita Parish High School Auditorium.

Baccalaureate services will be held May 24 at 3 p.m. in the school auditorium with the Rev. Paul McComb giving the invocation, and the Rev. W. H. McFadden, minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Monroe, delivering the baccalaureate message.

Civil Defense Funds

Unconvinced that Civil Defense efforts thus far have been of much material value, the house appropriations committee turned down a $2 million request for the balance of the current fiscal year and $12 million sought for the next fiscal year for the purpose of additional CD activities.

The committee appears to share the view of Senator Stephen Young (D-Ohio), who said earlier this year that most of the nearly one-half billion dollars appropriated for civil defense during the last nine years "has been wasted."

The Federal Civil Defense Administration already has 2,501 employees. Another 1,400 would be added on local levels at federal expense if congress should override the house committee's action. This is considered unlikely.

Chiefly because it is unconvinced of the soundness of theories and operations of civil defense, congress has never supported the Civil Defense Administration with any great degree of enthusiasm. The appropriation committee's recent action is further evidence that congressmen believe no concrete evidence of the value of the civil defense work has been supplied.

Civil Defense's mission is to train civilians in the matter of self-preservation if another all-out war should occur and if this country should be threatened by attack from air, sea or land. It wants to substitute sensible action for fear and panic if such an attack should occur. Some of the proposed objectives of Civil Defense have included bomb shelters, special police and firemen training for civilians, escape route instruction, and use of protective devices, such as gas masks.

So far there has not been much evidence of any accomplishment along these lines by Civil Defense.

Civil Defense officials have contended that they have not been able to get enough money from congress to make the program effective. On the other hand, many members of congress and many civilians believe there is not enough public interest to justify the present expenditure of money, much less any increase in funds. They see no way of jarring the people out of their apathy unless war should break out or become far more imminent than at present.

The present Civil Defense operation got its start when it appeared that the Korean conflict might trigger another world war. During the intervening period there has been a revolutionary change in weapons, modes of attack and prospects for mass survival in the event of enemy assault.

CD has vacillated considerably between the shelter and evacuation concepts and has conducted "exercises" which probably confused CD participants as much as the public. Some Civil Defense "mass meetings" have attracted "crowds" which consisted almost entirely of the CD officials and paid workers.

Each year when appropriations are being considered, congress reminds Civil Defense of its lack of realistic planning and administration and makes the reminder pointed by reducing the CD budget. This year is like the others.

Commenting on the reluctance of Congress to make appropriations, the Memphis Commercial Appeal has this final word to say:

"No agency of government on which nearly a half-billion dollars has been spent in less than a decade can claim that it has been neglected. There seems to be little to show for the expenditure and it is this lack which caused Senator Young to charge that the money had been wasted. There must be a workable civil defense plan but there is little evidence that it has yet been produced. A thorough overhauling of what the country has civil defense-wise is a pressing need."

Air-Car Is Reality

Announcement has been made by Curtiss-Wright Corp., airplane manufacturing concern, that it has "come down to earth" in one phase of its manufacturing. It has put cars on air, six to 12 inches from the ground, and they are available for use for experimental purposes.

For many years the automobile and the airplane have been far apart, one traveling on terra firma and the other flying. Now, unlike Rudyard Kipling's east and west, they are about to meet—in a vehicle that will soon be in common use.

When motorists first began riding on air the air was confined in rubber tires, and that is still the conventional way. When airplanes first began to fly they flew high into the air, and that is the way they still do, except that they go to far greater heights and at far faster speeds.

Ever since the first plane was flown by the Wright brothers at Kitty Hawk, N. C., in 1903 people have been wondering when the horseless carriage and the flying machine would merge and people would be able to fly in vehicles that resembled automobiles and traveled close to the ground when they wished to do so. That day has arrived and the vehicles have been produced. Some of these vehicles are able to travel on the ground or rise into the air while others ride the air but stay close to the ground. The latter are able to travel with equal ease over land, water or mud, so long as the surface is reasonably smooth.

It may seem strange that Curtiss-Wright Corp., a pioneer in aircraft manufacturing, should enter the flying auto field, but both airplane and automobile manufacturers have been moving in this direction.

At present the air-car is being offered in limited quantities for experimental off-highway use and testing. The firm will decide from experimental use on the size, power and design of the mass production model, which is expected within the fairly near future.

The air-car does not have conventional wheels, axles, brakes, clutches, transmissions and frame. It uses a conventional, piston-type gasoline engine ranging in size from 50 to 200 horsepower, well within the range of engines used by automobiles. It will carry one to four passengers and travel forward, backward, sideways or turn in a circle. It was described as oval-shaped and about the same length but slightly taller than an automobile. Weight will range from 1,000 to 2,000 pounds. A propeller in the back sucks air in from a top opening. The air emerging from vents at the bottom provides the cushion of air. Operating costs are said to be low.

Now that the air-car has been brought into reality both by airplane and automobile manufacturers, a vast new field of manufacturing has been opened. It will not supplant the other two giant fields but will augment them.

This vast new area of manufacturing is one of the things on which industrialists base their expectations of unprecedented prosperity during the next few decades.

Protestants Get Into Big Dispute Over China

The protestants have got themselves into a row over China. A resolution was adopted by a World Order Study Conference, sponsored by the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., which proposed recognition of Red China by the United States and that Red China should be recognized by the United Nations. This resolution is reported to have been written by Dr. Ernest Gross who used to be in the State Department in the good old days when Dean Acheson was secretary of state.

So, Representative Walter H. Judd, who used to be a missionary in China, and Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, Rev. Daniel Poling, Bishop Herbert Welch and over 7,000 Protestant clergymen denounced the Gross Resolution. In fact, Dan Poling, who edits the Christian Herald and who is a great preacher and writer, led in the protest against the Gross Resolution. Dr. B. A. Garside wrote an article for the National Review, setting forth why Christian clergy should oppose the recognition of Red China. Among other things, he said:

"The Chinese Communist regime is inherently atheistic, and the enemy of every form of religion. It has compiled a massive record of imprisonment, torture, and sadism in its persecution of the adherents of every faith — Christianity, Buddhism, Mohammedanism. Authentic records of the suffering and martyrdom of many thousands of missionaries and Chinese Christians comprise a chapter of both tragedy and heroism rarely equalled in history — and that chapter is still being extended."

Rev. Irving E. Howard in Christian Economics said: "Reacting quickly to the unfavorable opinion, the National Council of Churches prodded Dr. Ernest Gross, chairman of the Department of International Affairs, to make a public statement to the effect that what had occurred at the Cleveland Meeting 'was the action of the World Order Study Conference and not of the National Council of Churches.' While this may be technically true, the meeting at Cleveland was called by the president of the National Council of Churches and was authorized by the General Board of the National Council of Churches in May, 1957. Furthermore, the same names appeared at Cleveland which appear at every National Council Meeting..."

"Dr. Herbert S. Mekeel, president of the National Association of Evangelicals, has denounced the immorality of such recognition. 'Red China's leaders have scorned every known moral principle in the treatment of her own people and of other nations.' Dr. Mekeel continued: 'Chinese Reds have out-distanced their Russian masters... nothing has been too base, vile, or cruel if it gains their ends.'"

A statement issued by the Clergymen's Committee, organized to protest the Gross Resolution, said: "We firmly believe that the action taken in Cleveland does not represent the thinking of the overwhelming majority of American Protestants, clergy and lay. We believe that it must be taken as merely the point of view of those delegates who voted for it. Further, we believe that this action is inconsistent not only with the standards of the United Nations but also with the clear principles of morality and Christian faith."

Enough for quotations! What is shown here is that those who drafted and arranged for the passage of this resolution did not count on the emotional response in this country to the attempt to influence public opinion favorably to Red China. Gross did not realize that to many Protestants as to men and women of other faiths, Red China is more hated than Soviet Russia, for Red China intervened in the Korean War, killed and brainwashed American troops and attempted to shoot its way into the United Nations.

Did Ernest Gross believe that Dan Poling whose son went down in one of the most dramatic events in naval history, when four chaplains of various faiths linked their arms and accepted death to save lives—will such a man forget the barbarity of the Chinese murders of Americans in Korea? It is too hard to forget and forgive such barbarism. It will take the Chinese Reds a long time to win the respect not only of Westerners who do not understand their inhumanity but of the peoples of Southeast Asia who are ashamed of them. What Ernest Gross, who has been in the State Department, believed he would accomplish by a captive resolution, is difficult to grasp. But nothing would please the Chinese Reds more than American recognition and they undoubtedly bring pressure to bear.

Over-Nutrition Ups Delinquency

NEW YORK (AP)—Human nutrition has reached the point where experts feel, that by controlled feeding, a population can be matured earlier, enjoy a longer prime of life, or extend its actual longevity.

But which of these three goals does a society want? "They are quite different things," pointed out Dr. Robert S. Goodhart, scientific director of the National Vitamin Foundation, a nonprofit organization.

"What is optimal nutrition? It depends on what you want. 'If we and the Russians are engaged in trying to build up big armies, we can do this by maturing our youths faster, but they'll be dying of coronary attacks and other degenerative diseases in their 40s and 50s."

"The earlier an animal matures the earlier it dies," Dr. Goodhart said it would be possible to add potential years to a child's life by keeping him thin and small and postponing the development of his maturity as long as possible. But the price would be a lowered vitality.

"Later I myself would probably want to take him out and shoot him, because he would be useless to society," he said.

"The idea of merely living as long as possible is, it seems to me, a lousy ambition."

Dr. Goodhart feels the average child fares best if fed a diet that allows him to mature at his own pace rather than one that spurs him into a forced growth.

"A lot of us are concerned," he said, "about mothers who worry about the fact their child is smaller—even though he may be actually healthier—than the boy next door."

"In trying to make him grow taller by overstuffing him with calories and proteins, these mothers merely may be bringing him to his final stature."

"The question is whether forced-growing does anything more than bring on this early maturity."

The rise in juvenile delinquency, Dr. Goodhart says, may be, in part at least, explained by a conflict in what American society expects of its young people.

"We are feeding them diets that mature them earlier physically and mentally," he said, "but at the same time we are trying to keep them children longer emotionally."

"This is particularly true in the upper classes, which want to send their sons and daughters through college and don't like them to get married until they are well into their 20s."

This, he thinks, creates an area of explosive tension.

Six Mississippi Residents Hurt In Car Accident

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Six Mississippians received minor injuries Friday night when a car hit their taxicab as they returned to their hotel from dinner.

The six were Mrs. Elizabeth Cossar, Stuart McCloskey and teenagers Pat Stamm, Kay Fruelet, Linda Boyav and Peggy Gastrell, all of Vicksburg, Miss.

The six were here for the presentation of the melodrama "Gold In The Hills" aboard the stern-wheeler Sprague.

The melodrama is enacted by Vicksburg citizens aboard the old Mississippi River boat now owned by Vicksburg. The Sprague is here for the Pittsburgh bicentennial.

And Unto Dust—

If ever you have any doubt... That God is real and true... Consider all the blessings good... He has bestowed on you... Consider every breath of your lungs... Have taken since your birth... Each moment of this life that you... Have been allowed on earth... Why were you ever born and why... Are you alive today?... And what enables you to strive... To live your chosen way?... Somebody had to give you life... Who else could that one be... Except Almighty God, The King... Of all eternity?... And someday you will have to die... As everybody must... And God will be your judge, as He... Evaluates your dust.

Frontiering Is Tough As Ever

WASHINGTON, D. C. — No body ever said it was easy to be a pioneer, but frontier - breaking today is as tough in many ways as it used to be. My case in point is a "college" president, Austin H. Welch, an established engineer - educator in his mid-50's, with a vision in his head and one foot across the border of accomplishment.

All that Mr. Welch wants to do is make his College of Advanced Science, Canaan, New Hampshire, a reality. You'd think that would be easy enough in this age when the worship of scientific education is virtually a religion. We have a former university president in the White House and an unusual number of professors in the Senate. A new National Defense Education Act went on the books from last year, and Soviet Russia is breathing down our necks in a race for world technological supremacy and survival.

Mr. Welch, a graduate of Worcester Polytechnic Institute, Worcester (Mass.) and from 1954-50 a faculty member of the University of New Hampshire, is a believer in the law of supply-and-demand. The demand exists, as hardly anybody would dispute, for intensive two - year graduate courses in physics. The purpose would be to bridge the gap between our theoretical scientists and working engineers. Mr. Welch was lucky at first. Some three years ago Mount Cardigan prep school, at Canaan, received an endowment and moved to a new location. This left an educational plant open, and Mr. Welch plunged at the opportunity. He acquired the school campus and equipment.

In the old days a pioneer had to cross rivers, mountains and deserts. He had to face savage men and beasts. Today the frontiersman of - ideas - finds it equally hazardous to advance. He must fight his way through the modern wilderness of governmental - corporational - stand - patism. Mr. Welch, as I have learned, ran into many obstacles.

The prep school insisted upon restrictive educational covenants to prevent any competition with its curriculum. The Attorney General's office (N. H.) had legalistic quibbles about the granting of a charter. Two potential faculty members, both well equipped to teach advanced physics, ran into trouble about the security clearances. One was German - born, the other proved to be a "questionable" case.

Industry showed itself avid for graduates, but generally not much interested in graduates - to - be. Foundations were skeptical, and at least one wealthy "angel" proved cynical. He offered to raise a six - figure sum, but only if he could put a no - good relative on the payroll. Most discouraging of all was the interpretation given to last year's huge, "emergency" Federal aid bill, voted in the name of "defense." The money was available to "new" programs, but only in established institutions.

Some of the journey, of course, was downhill and under pleasant circumstances. Senator Styles Bridges and Congressman Perkins Bass showed interest and encouragement. Several individual firms reached down and made financial contributions. Two were publishers - Henry Holt and Company and the Conover-Mast magazine group. Two were fabricators - Norfolk Shipbuilding - Drydock Company and Globe Manufacturing Company. Oddly as it seems a large investment company came through with a donation. So did a well - known whiskey distillery. In addition to money, the venture has attracted a top - level board of trustees. It includes a former Dartmouth College president, an Associate Justice of the State Supreme Court, a Remington Rand vice president, a U. S. Army brigadier general of engineers who was once a Rhodes Scholar in physics, as well as two prominent businessmen from Connecticut and Massachusetts.

Still, after three years of active struggle, the College of Advanced Science is not a going concern. It has its campus, its primary equipment, its president, its trustees, some of its staff, part of its funds - but not a student body, not an upcoming class of graduates.

Despite the wailing of politicians and the bleating of educationist press agents, the American desire for expanded educational facilities seems frustrated in 1 - dare - not inhibitions and tangled in the red tape of over-organization.

Well, the American frontier literature sings lustily of tall mountains and foaming streams. The covered wagons on the deserts were not air - conditioned, and the Indians were not filled with loving kindness. My guess is that where there's a will, there's a way. Mr. Welch and others like him will get there yet.

BASCOM TIMMONS

Might Investigate La. Voting Rights

WASHINGTON — The Civil Rights Commission has reported a spurt of voting rights complaints from Louisiana and is still considering holding a full-scale investigation of them.

The Commission said it received 95 complaints from Louisiana which claimed interference with their voting privilege since the agency began operation in 1957. Sixty - four of these were sent since last Feb. 16.

The statistical breakdown appeared in newly - released hearings of a House Appropriations subcommittee headed by Rep. John Rooney (D) N. Y.

The often confusing testimony by Commission Chairman John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State University, and Commission Staff Director Gordon M. Tiffany revealed these points:

1. Of the 79 sworn voting complaints received between Feb. 16 and April 30, when the closed hearings were held, 64 came from nine Louisiana parishes. Fourteen were from Webster parish, 11 from De Soto, and others were from Bienville, Bossier, Caddo, Claiborne, Jackson, Ouachita and Red River parishes.

No explanation for the increase in Louisiana complaints was given and no names of complainers were released.

2. Hannah testified that the commission is still considering "one more" open hearing on voting conditions, apparently like those held in Alabama last fall.

Asked for details by Rep. Prince H. Preston (D) Ga., Hannah added: "We may have to have another one because so far, we have not been able to get the degree of cooperation from local officials that makes it possible for us to find the facts (in one of the states)."

From other sources, it was learned that the Commission discussed holding a public hearing in Northern Louisiana when it met in Atlanta last month, but instead decided to postpone action until its May meeting.

In the meantime, Tiffany conferred with Louisiana officials in Baton Rouge concerning Louisiana law that closed certain election records except to local residents who petition to see them. Tiffany is known to have reported back to the Commission, meeting in Chicago May 6, that he had no success but the Commission resolved to try another but so far unspecified approach to collect the information.

Any decision to hold an investigation has thus been postponed until the Commission's next meeting, in Los Angeles in mid-June. The Appropriations hearings also revealed that the Commission has received a total of 253 sworn complaints of alleged voting violations since 1957. Of these 104 are from Alabama, 88 from Louisiana (plus seven sworn complaints), and 40 from Mississippi.

The rest are mostly from Southern states, but New York, Missouri, Illinois and Indiana are also represented.

The Commission said it had also received 498 so-called "regular" complaints unrelated to voting but protesting police brutality, housing discrimination, and other grievances. The largest number of these came from New York.

Hayes Proclaims His Candidacy For Re-Election

BATON ROUGE (AP) — State Insurance Commissioner Rufus B. Hayes Saturday formally announced he will seek re-election in the December democratic primary.

Hayes pledged to continue fair and impartial administration of state insurance laws. He said need for such administration was growing in the insurance field.

Hayes, chairman of the democratic state central committee, is a graduate of Louisiana College in Pineville and of the Louisiana State University law school.

He is a former district attorney for East Baton Rouge Parish and former chairman of the Louisiana Board of Tax Appeals. Others who have announced for the post include Paul Tate, 32-year-old Mamou assistant district attorney and Harley McCall, independent Lake Charles insurance agent.

The first settlement of Boston was by Puritans headed by John Winthrop in 1630.

FROM PRISON TO FREE HILLS OUTSIDE

Reporter Views Drama Of Depressing Angola

(Editor's Note: News-Star and World reporter Sam Hanna made a tour the past week of the state penitentiary at Angola. In the following dispatch he tells of what he saw and felt.)

By SAM HANNA

BATON ROUGE — Angola State Penitentiary sprawls over 18,000 acres in a corner of West Feliciana Parish across the river from Mississippi. The Mississippi River surrounds it on three sides and you wonder how anybody could escape, but they have.

A guard stops all visitors at the main gate and takes a quick look into their car trunks. It wouldn't have taken much to get something in or bring something out.

We drove down a blacktop road to the administration building and talked to two associate wardens, J. Wayne Allgood and Ernest Welch. Ernest Welch was a school teacher in East Carroll Parish before coming to Angola three years ago.

A few minutes later Allgood escorted us on a tour past the automatic gates, bars and metal-finders and towering fences with nests of barb-wire on top.

The first people we saw were two deputies from Morehouse Parish. "What are you doing down here?" they asked.

On the way out we bumped into Hets Curry, working as Angola athletic director. The last time we saw Hets Curry he was a jarring guard called "Ironman" at Tallulah High School around '47 or '48.

The "opulation" at Angola lives in dormitories. The floors are clean and the bunks are good. They have television. Each dormitory has a guard.

A whistle gives the chow signal and the "citizens" file in long strings down open corridors to the mess hall. They look young. They are young. Average age at Angola is 25.

In the rear of the mess hall we talked to Ben Johnson, Grevenberg labeled Ben Johnson the "vice king." Ben Johnson is a Ben in on a Narcotics charge.

He says Grevenberg planted a "squealer" in his midst and framed him. "Mr. Clinton," Ben said to Ed Clinton of the Baton Rouge papers, "Is there any hope?"

Long's "forgotten man" committee has given hope to those who can't afford lawyers for parole fees. Ben had a big wad when he started. He gave it all to his lawyers.

The first row of inmates we walked past were those who could not adjust to life in prison. They were on us. But some dropped their heads. One was a spastic, were "squealers" and "trouble-makers" who "live in the grease."

We got the feeling that all eyes H's eyes rolled as though he was beckoning to Allgood.

In the library the editor of the Angolite, which proudly calls itself the "south's only prison weekly," took off his glasses and shook hands.

He was caught with "ole wood-eater," the infamous Angolite editor who couldn't stay out.

We made arrangements to exchange papers and he returned to his busy duties. He said he works from 6 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. some nights. He says he needs an assistant. But he's expecting one. He told us so.

We walked down off the corridor and across the yard. A long file of inmates got the "shake-down" treatment as they stepped one by one through a gate from the workshops.

In a workshop we saw next year's license plates. Although the legislature hasn't approved the change, the license plates are being made. They read, "LSU Centennial."

TRUCK PLATES

Truck plates will be red in base color trimmed in yellow. Auto tags will be purple and gold—the L.S.U. School colors.

Making license for the state is the biggest business at Angola. We stepped off toward the death house and passed a little rose garden. It is nursed by a young man who murdered a homosexual.

Inmates convicted of murder and manslaughter make the best trustees and guards.

Located next to the death house is a small building that looks like a skinned toolshed. They opened the door and past a row of seats we could see the silvery outline of the electric chair.

"That's it," explained the trusty, "That's it with the strap hanging down." Prisoners sentenced to die come to the death house 24 hours before the execution. They're given a chance to say a final word before switches are thrown.

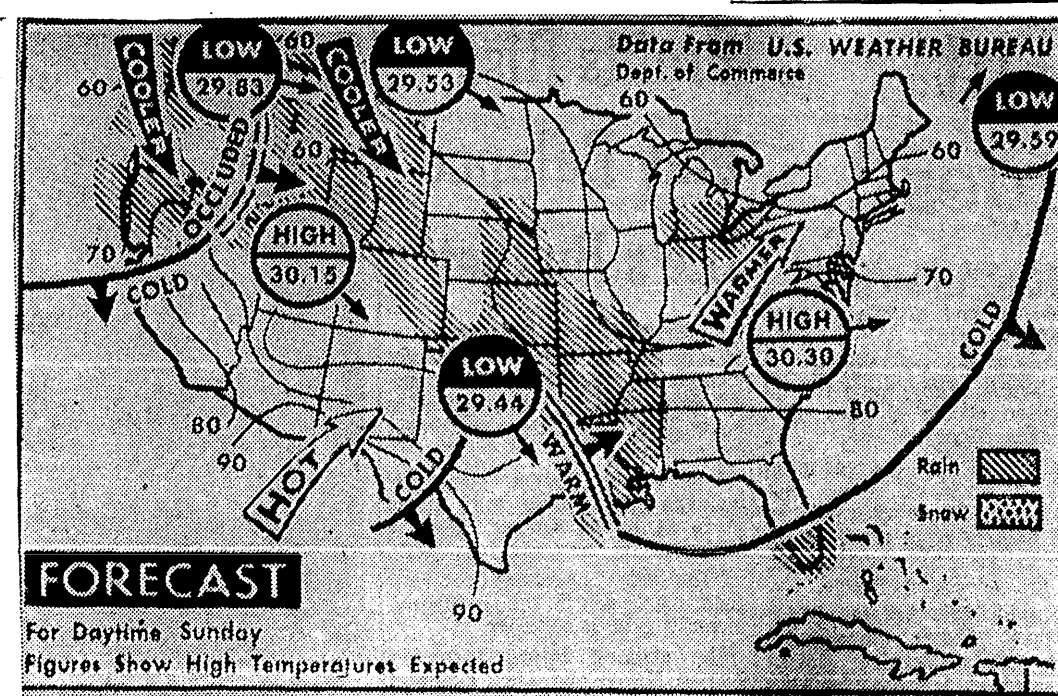

Allgood has never witnessed an execution. Clinton has covered 33 in Louisiana and 19 out of state. He was the only reporter who would go.

He saw a man talk for an hour and a half once before the first charge was given.

Asked if he had anything else to say, the doomed man's last words were, "Yea, sit in my lap, you..."

We came to the main gate. On a hill nearby sat the hospital and a building for prisoners in solitary. Brodie Davis was in there.

The gate opened and we drove into the free hills outside the prison. Angola is depressing.

Triplets Born To Couple Here

Good news came in triplicate at St. Francis Hospital last night. Two boys and a girl, were born to Mr. and Mrs. William Rex Mathieu, of 501 North McGuire. Attendants reported they were in good condition, but no statistics were available on their weights.

The first vessel to fly the Continental flag in the American Revolution was the schooner Hannah, built at Beverly, Mass.

changed to "threatening to kill, aggravated assault."
Another charge against Peele originally was given as breaking and entering, but was changed to trespassing and simple destruction of property.

Neither Peele nor Partin was under arrest. They were formally advised of the charges by a St. Helena deputy.

Partin said the charges stem from an incident some four months ago, involving sand and gravel hauling from the Hood location to Alex Ready-Mix Concrete Co. of Baton Rouge.

Hood said Peele threatened Morgan when Morgan stopped for gasoline at a service station. Peele advised Morgan, he said, not to drive his truck into the Hood gravel pit.

Partin denied Peele entered the "shack" at the pit without authority.

Partin said a guard gave all the teamsters and teamsters' pickets permission to use the "shack" and left open a window so they could use the telephone.

Russia Okays Nuclear Ban Inspections

be fixed in advance will obviate the necessity of having the matter voted or agreed on in the control commission or in any other agency," Khrushchev said.

Macmillan had proposed that an East-West control group authorize an inspection only after reviewing scientific data which indicated that an illegal nuclear test had occurred.

Khrushchev said: "Inspection teams could be sent for instance, within the limit of an agreed number at the request of any of the original parties to the agreement on the stopping of the nuclear tests, that is the United States, the U. S. S. R. and Great Britain, whenever the instrument readings of the control posts give reason to suspect any phenomenon as being a nuclear explosion."

The issue of controls and inspection have been major roadblocks in the three-power nuclear talks which began in Geneva last Oct. 31. The talks currently are in recess.

"We are prepared to undertake to guarantee the timely and unimpeded access of inspection groups to any region within the Soviet Union where phenomena suspected as being nuclear explosions might be observed," Khrushchev said in the letter to Eisenhower.

Profits Rise May Balance Ike's Budget

ocratic leaders seem increasingly anxious to repudiate the "spender" label, and Eisenhower's aides have become correspondingly more hopeful.

One administration economist believes 1960 profits may reach 50 to 51 billion dollars, about 5 billion above any previous year.

"The budget prospects look very good right now," the economist recently told a reporter.

The striking improvement in jobs in March and April suggests that wage earners, as well as business managers, may pay more taxes than the Treasury expected of them.

The budget anticipated about 34 billion dollars in personal income tax collections in the fiscal year starting July 1. This was based on the estimated 374 billion dollars of personal income in this calendar year.

Many critics in January called that an unrealistic guess because the income rate then was only about 360 billion and joblessness had stayed disturbingly high despite the otherwise notable recovery of business activity.

Then April brought a drop in unemployment and a rise in employment about twice the normal size for the season. In March and April alone employment gained 2 1/4 million, and unemployment dropped by 1,100,000.

Since every billion dollars of income adds about 150 million dollars to income tax collections, the Treasury could benefit appreciably by these lengthening payrolls and fattening paychecks, although less handsomely than from the spectacular climb of corporate profits.

Officially the administration has not changed its January budget estimates—77 billion dollars of spending, with receipts matching that total and leaving a scant 70 million dollar surplus.

The Treasury and Budget Bureau are not expected to revise the estimates until they issue the midyear budget review in September. By then Congress presumably will have stopped appropriating, gone home, and won't be around to spend any extra revenues that turn up.

But Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson has hinted that he expects improvement. In his April 30 speech to the annual meeting of The Associated Press, he said: "Today I believe there is even more evidence to support this (77 billion dollar revenue) estimate than there was last January."

This clashed with an earlier estimate of the House Ways and Means Committee staff that revenues would fall more than a billion dollars short of Eisenhower's goal.

Says Parts 'Worthy Of Discussion'

flatly that there would be no summit conference just because Khrushchev wanted one. He stressed the U. S. insistence that the foreign ministers must make progress before President Eisenhower would sit down to a meeting with Khrushchev.

There was belief that Russia might give just enough to win the summit meeting. It was learned that the U. S., Britain and France were preparing for such a meeting in mid-July, possibly in San Francisco.

Khrushchev revealed the Russian position on the Western plan for Berlin, German reunification and European security in an apparent attempt to test Western unity.

The Western package was presented as an indivisible whole—all or nothing. The Soviets countered with a demand that there be a separate peace treaty made with each of the two Germanies and then a discussion of the Soviet demand that the Western powers clear out of West Berlin and turn it into a "free city."

Khrushchev stressed that this remained the Russian goal. It would be up to Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to try to exploit the Soviet stand and probe for weaknesses in the Western united front.

"Questions must be taken separately and not together," as is being done by the Western powers into one big knot which cannot be untied," Khrushchev said.

He said the Western plan was actually nothing but "the plan of the cold war, the plan for the conduct of policy from positions of strength."

The Soviet Premier specifically rejected the Western proposal for a European security system unless the Allies first "liquidated" military bases in Europe and withdrew armed forces from foreign soil.

Such a demand would mean the end of NATO and the return home of all U. S. forces abroad.

The West has been rejecting such Soviet proposals for years.

Western diplomats believed that this time Gromyko would try to break the Berlin issue off from the rest of the Western plan and seek agreement on the German city separately.

U. S. sources said the West was willing to discuss Berlin separately, but only on condition that any settlement of the divided city be tied into the rest of the Western package plan.

Jeff Lee and Walker said the FBI asked them to take lie detector tests but they refused. Lee said he and his father were advised by the agents to hire a lawyer. All have denied taking part in the lynching.

Activity was stepped up during the last three days by the more than 40 FBI agents here on the case.

acting today. I'm afraid the poor old fellow has come to the end of his row. He is sick, tired and ready for a rocking chair."

At Many, Dodd said, "I will make the political climate so attractive to the public and industry, that we will get the payroll producing operations our economy so badly needs."

At Roberline, Dodd said, "Oil and gas royalties from production on state-owned lands are increasing at a rate sufficient to take care of the increasing needs of education and our other expanding programs."

"These oil revenues can be budgeted because they are recurring revenues. And this money... makes additional taxes unnecessary."

At Natchitoches, Dodd said, "I am 100 per cent for the increased pay for school personnel. I will continue the old age pensions, our charity hospitals and such other programs as are needed for the sick and underprivileged. But I am opposed to the waste and extravagance that now has become a part of many of these programs."

Franklin Area Brochure Ready

WINNSBORO (Special)—Presentation of a new Franklin Parish brochure is scheduled here Tuesday at a special joint meeting of the Winnsboro Chamber of Commerce and the Winnsboro Lions Club. Morris M. Wimberly, director of the Louisiana State Dept. of Public Works, will be the featured speaker at the event, which is slated at a noon luncheon at a local motel.

Finis C. Howard, prominent Winnsboro businessman, headed the 89-member Franklin Parish Development Board, which made the survey for the brochure. The survey of Franklin Parish resources and facilities was compiled into the 113-page brochure and published by the Louisiana Dept. of Public Works.

Scheduled to attend the meeting are all Lions Club members, all Chamber of Commerce members, members of the Franklin Parish Police Jury, Mayor Robert F. Mulhearn, of Winnsboro, Mayor R. A. Brown of Wisner, Senator R. E. King, Representative Lastz Womack, Mrs. Walter A. Chachere, and Mrs. Guy A. Luno.

This brochure is the first printed for Franklin Parish since 1946, authorities said.

Superior

Miss Charlene Cortero, junior speech major at Northeast College, recently won a superior rating at the college speech festival for her reading of the poem, "Go Down Death."

She was rated and reviewed by Dr. Donald C. Streeter of the University of Houston, and was acclaimed for her artistic voice control and general sensitivity to thoughts that bring out the fullness of the poem.

Other schools which sent representatives to the festival are Louisiana State University, Southwestern Louisiana Institute, Tulane and Southeastern.

Art Seniors Exhibit Today

Marcel Bloch and Betty Woodhead, first art majors to be candidates for degrees at Northeast State, prepare display of their works which will be shown to the public today from 3 to 5 p.m. in the Student Lounge of the Fine Arts Building. (Northeast photo by Ben Bradford)

Art Exhibit Is Featured At Northeast

Featured today on the Northeast State campus will be an exhibit of the work of the first graduating seniors in the art section of the Fine Arts Division. Betty Woodhead of Sterlington and Marcel Bloch of Pineville will have a display of representative pieces of their work which they have done since they entered the college here.

The public is invited to view the exhibit in the Student Lounge between 3 and 5 p. m. A coffee hour also is planned for the afternoon affair.

Both students have studied with Mrs. Gregor Goethals and Ed Schutz of the art faculty.

Included in the display will be oil paintings, sculpture, graphic

Forgery Suspect Posts Bond Here

A West Monroe teen-ager, Linda Taylor, 17, 204 Pine St., West Monroe, was out on $2,000 bond yesterday after being picked up by West Monroe Police Friday and charged with three counts of forgery, officials said.

Detectives with West Monroe Police said the girl cashed a check for $45 on May 1, and two checks, one for $30 and one for $200, on May 4. All checks were cashed at a West Monroe bank, authorities added, with a forged signature.

Thelbert Lewis, 17, Powell Avenue, Monroe, was being held in the Monroe City Jail yesterday for questioning in connection with the forgeries, officials said.

It was not believed charges had been filed against Lewis last night.

State Closes Highway 83 Near Louisa

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana Highway Department Saturday ordered State Highway 83 closed to traffic between Louisa and the Cypermort Point resort area because of a damaged bridge. Highway Director R. B. Richardson said a tug and barge towed the bridge Friday night and caused $5,000 to $10,000 damage to the swing span bridge over the Intracoastal Waterway. Richardson placed a note of urgency in the notice because weekend crowds normally go to the beach resort area over the bridge. Cypermort Point is about 30 miles southeast of New Iberia on the Gulf of Mexico. Highway Department crews under district supervisor J. E. Jarman of Lafayette began repair work on the bridge immediately.

Jarman indicated the repairs will require about 10 days. The Highway Department did not immediately have the identity of the tug and barges. Goodrich built the first rubber tire factory in Akron, Ohio, in 1870. Jarman indicated the repairs will require about 10 days. Legal Obstacle On Pearl River Project Cleared

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — The last legal obstacle to construction of a 25-million dollar reservoir on the Pearl River was cleared Saturday with announcement that contesting landowners would not make another court appeal.

The State Supreme Court had approved the project earlier. Dr. Ben N. Walker Sr., and Lewis L. Culley said they had decided against appealing to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The project, authorized by the 1958 Legislature, calls for construction of an earth dam across the Pearl River north of here to provide a 20-mile-long lake for recreation and industrial uses.

Senator Claims South's Schools Are In Jeopardy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Lister Hill (D-Ala.) charged Saturday that the proposed civil rights bills might lead to the destruction of the South's educational system.

Hill, who testified against the bills before the Senate judiciary subcommittee this week, said they were "unwarranted, unnecessary and indefensible."

He said one of the measures would provide "the engine of possible destruction of our educational system in a large part of the country during this crucial hour when we are engaged in an economic, educational and scientific struggle" with Russian communism.

"I can find nothing in any of the so-called civil rights bills to merit the approbation of a free people," the Alabama Democrat said.

Hill said some of the measures would permit the U.S. attorney general to "meddle in law suits" and would replace "established criminal procedures with government by injunction."

Abdalla Elias Awarded JC Honor Title

The Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce announced recently that Abdalla Louis Elias, 17, a St. Matthews High School senior, has been named this year's winner of the organization's Self-Reliance Award, which is presented annually to the local high school senior who "makes the best use of his or her time," according to Jaycee President Joe Rabun. Formal presentation of the award is to be made May 25 at the St. Matthews Junior-Senior prom. Elias and his father, Louis, will be presented to Jaycee membership May 18.

Bob Cooper, chairman of the Self-Reliance Committee, said St. Matthews was the only school to participate this year. "We were late in getting the project started, but will start our surveys in September or October to determine the 1959-60 winner," he commented.

AWARDED

Elias was awarded the honor for his outstanding school, church, and vocational activities. He has been a class officer the last three years and currently serves as vice president of the student council. He was president of the junior class last year.

He is also present president of the Latin club in high school, and he was a delegate to Pelican Boys State.

In church, he is an altar boy, belongs to the Catholic Youth Organization, and is a member of the Sodality Club. He is an active leader in the Boy Scouts Organization, and he plans to study to become an Orthodontist after graduation.

Railroad Train Topples Depot In Derailement

SAULSBURY, Tenn. (UPI) — A fast Southern Railroad freight was derailed here Saturday. The train knocked flat the one-story frame depot, but nobody was injured.

About 10 or 12 cars were derailed, and some of the cars started burning. Firemen from Grand Junction, LaGrange and Bolivar were called to extinguish the fire.

C. E. Cox, cashier of Hademan County Savings Bank, said it was "lucky" that the depot was not staffed at the time.

Mrs. M.H. Lageman, who works in the depot Mondays through Fridays, was at home when the train crashed into the depot shortly after noon CST.

The derailement occurred about the middle of the train. The first cars and the cars in the rear were standing. But the middle section hit the depot and rolled over a twisted mass of wreckage.

The downgrade is considered steep where the mishap occurred. The freight was heading east toward Chattanooga, Tenn.

CONSOLATION

BURLINGTON, Vt. (UPI) — Thurston Adams, chairman of the University of Vermont agricultural economics department, said food prices may be higher than in pre-war days, but a day's wages brings in a lot more groceries.

He said "People are buying more and better food for the same share of their income as 20 years ago."

AT WEST MONROE HIGH

Diplomas Await 245 Graduates

DIFFERENT TWIST

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Juan is a favorite theater theme, but playwright George Axelrod has found an entirely new switch on the story for his new play, "Good-bye, Charlie."

This is the author's description of the script which is due on Broadway next season: "The story is about a modern Don Juan. Before the play opens he has been shot by an irate husband. As punishment he is compelled to return to earth as the most beautiful girl in the world."

Wing Leader

Is Monroe Cadet

James Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Green, 619 Lakeshore Drive, Monroe, has been designated wing commander with the rank of cadet colonel in the Reserve Officer Training Corps at Louisiana Tech, Ruston. The announcement of the commander for the coming year was made recently by Lt. Col. Homer E. Patty, professor of air science at the college.

Green is a junior student majoring in chemical engineering.

Serving as deputy wing commander with the rank of cadet lieutenant colonel, will be Henry Grady McMath of Strong, Ark.

A 1956 graduate of Ouachita Parish High School, Green is completing his third year at La. Tech. He succeeds John Lolley of West Monroe, who held the position for the second semester of this school year.

The remaining senior officers in the ROTC program will be as signed by Green and McMath.

Car-Train Crash Fatal For Seven

MATTOON, Ill. (UPI) — Seven teenagers returning home from a formal high school prom were killed Saturday when a passenger train slammed into their car at an unguarded country crossing near here.

Some of the victims were hurled 100 yards by the impact of the collision.

Although there were no witnesses on the immediate scene, persons who saw the mishap from a distance the train "opened the car up like a tin can."

Six of the car's eight occupants, all dressed in party formal and dinner jackets, were dead on arrival at Memorial Hospital here. They included three girls and three boys. A fourth girl, Dorothy Thomas, 18, died several hours after the crash.

Ivan Moon, 22, believed to have been the driver of the car, was the only occupant of the auto still alive. But hospital authorities said he was still unconscious and in "very bad shape."

Those killed instantly in the accident were identified as Jerry Hill, 18, Ilene Moon, 16, Lyle Pfeiffer, 18, his sister, Loraine, 17, Judy Keen, 18, and Jerry Ray Hays, 19.

Hill, Pfeiffer, Miss Thomas and Miss Keen were to have graduated this spring from Shelbyville High School, 23 miles west of here, where the annual junior-senior prom was held Friday night. The prom also was a birthday celebration for Miss Keen, who was 18 Friday.

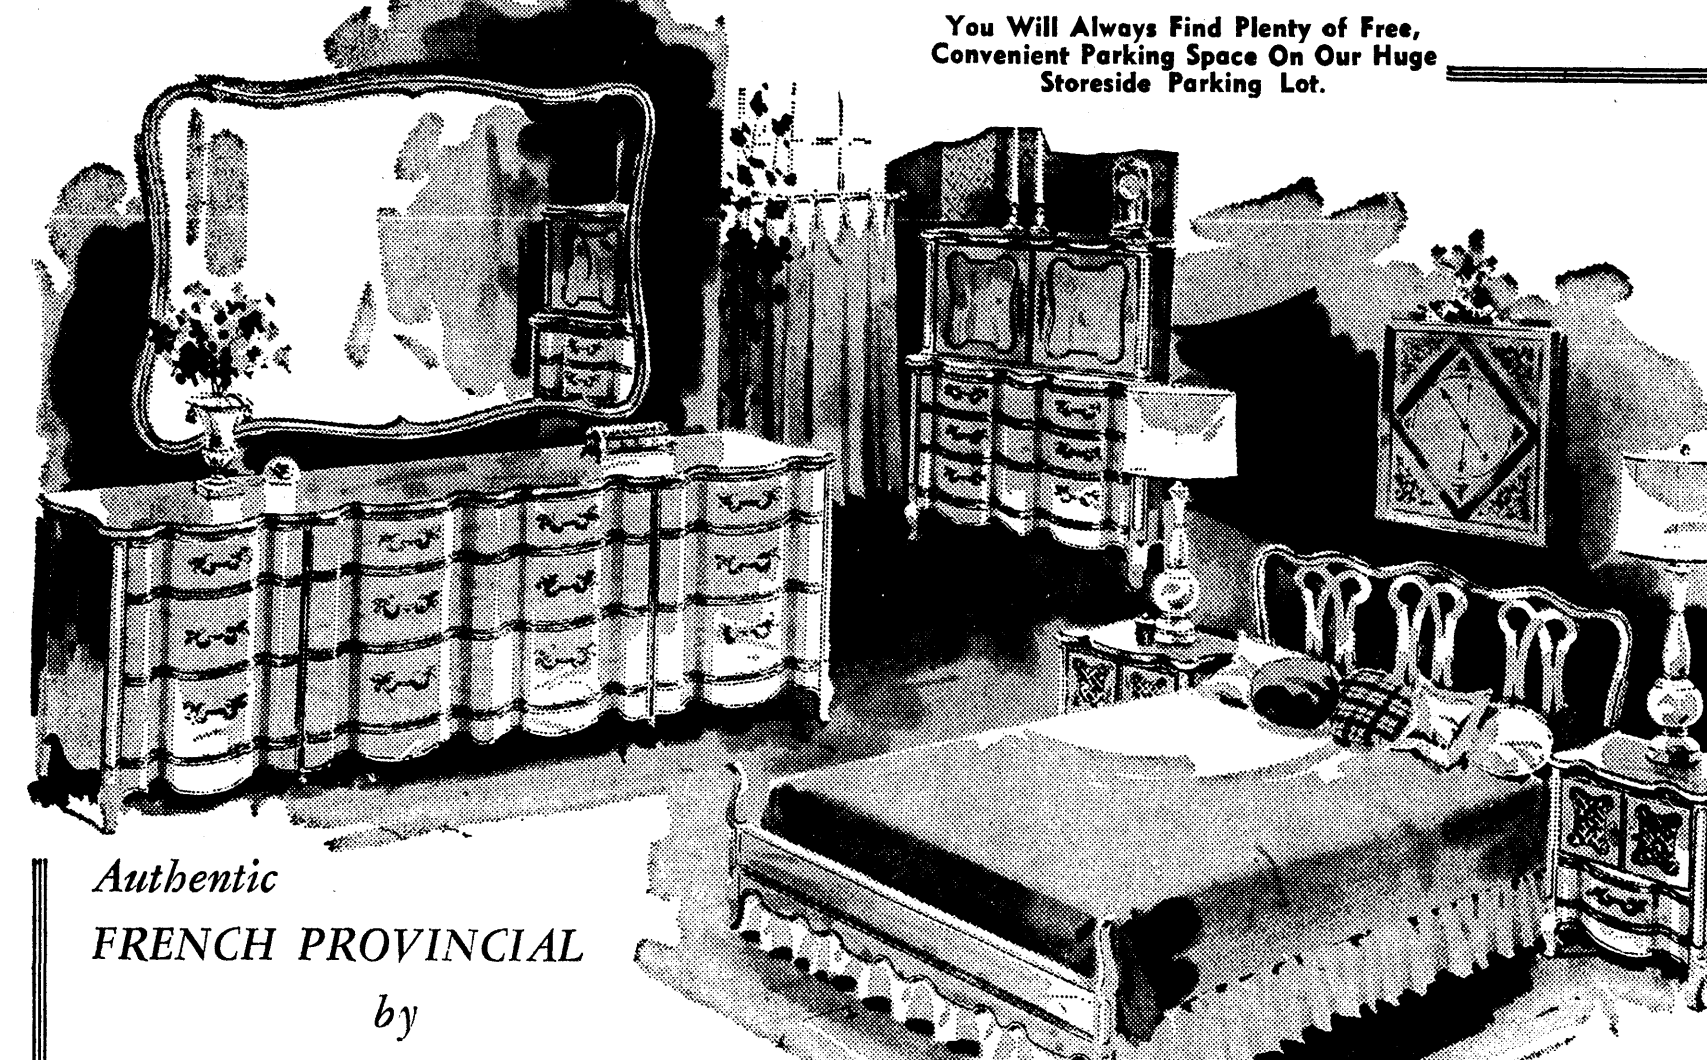

Miss Moon was the highest ranking girl scholastically in the junior class, and was to have been inducted into the National Honor Society Monday.

C. R. Segley, principal of Shelbyville High, said the bodies were so badly mangled he could not even recognize the dresses of the girls, which he had seen at the prom only a few hours earlier.

Shelbyville was the scene of frenzied confusion shortly after the accident, Cole County Deputy Coroner J. E. Caudill said, when police and hospital personnel called parents in attempts to identify the dead. Many of the children had not arrived home yet from the prom.

"I have two girls myself," Caudill said. "When they called me, I only knew that they weren't home."

The engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Margaret Webb and Dr. James Prewett Guerriero is announced today by her mother, Mrs. George W. Webb of Tallulah. Dr. Guerriero is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Michael Guerriero of this city. A late June wedding is planned.

Miss Martha Riser, a sophomore student at Newcomb College, women's division of Tulane University in New Orleans, has been selected as one of the students for study in the Tulane-Newcomb Junior Year Abroad Program. Miss Riser will study at the University college of the University of London next year.

Trinidad, W. I. visitors in our city until June 1 are Mr. and Mrs. William B. Jackson Jr. and three children. Pictured left to right are Doug, Mrs. Jackson, Polly and Donny. Mrs. Jackson is the former Miss Billy Harper, daughter of Judge William M. Harper. Mr. and Mrs. Jackson are being extensively entertained during their visit.

At right: Leaving Monroe with their families in the near future to make their new home in Orange, Texas, to the regret of their many friends are left to right Mr. and Mrs. L. Slade Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Joe M. Powell. Many lovely parties have been given them prior to their departure.

MISS JANICE DIANA BUTLER

Broom-Butler Wedding Date Set-June 13

Miss Janice Diana Butler's wedding to Hardy Mathew Broom Jr. on June 13 is announced today by her mother, Mrs. Ardelia Platt. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hardy Mathew Broom of West Monroe. The ceremony will be performed by the Reverend Trotter in the Central Assembly of God Church.

Miss Sue Butler will serve as maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be Miss Virginia Ann Watson and Miss Vernie Gail Butler. Mr. Broom chose Bobby Broom to serve as his best man and Buster Maxey and Jimmy Bell as ushers. The couple will make their home in West Monroe.

Country Club Luncheon Honors Bride-Elect Miss Louise Lester

A beautiful luncheon was given on Saturday by Mrs. W. C. Feazel and Miss Lallage Feazel honoring bride-elect, Miss Louise Lester. This was held at the Bayou DeSiard Club. A pink and white theme was used throughout the luncheon. A white cloth covered the table with two very large pink Venetian glass compotes, one on either end of the table, and holding old fashioned nosegays of pink carnations, white mums and ivy trailing on the sides, they resembled a bridal bouquet. In the center was placed a pink candelabrum with burning tapers, matching the Venetian compotes. Attractive place cards were used picturing a bride and groom and the bride was holding a pink bridal bouquet. The bride-elect and the two mothers were presented pink and white carnation corsages by the hostesses.

A four course luncheon was served to the honoree, her mother, Mrs. A. J. Lester, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. William Norris Jr., Miss Amy Hood, Miss Mary Beth Rogers, Miss Coralie White, Miss Mary Elizabeth Heard, Miss Judy Carter and the two hostesses. The hostesses presented Miss Lester with a piece of her chosen silver as a wedding gift. Also a bottle of perfume as a graduation gift.

Miss Rhodes Honoree For Club Luncheon

Mrs. Allen Givens was hostess on Tuesday in the private dining room of the Bayou DeSiard Country Club at 12:30 p.m. honoring Miss Jo Rhodes, bride-elect of Patrick Collins of Houston, Texas.

Mrs. Givens chose a pale rose cloth for her luncheon table and the centerpiece was of pink and white carnations and stock artistically arranged in a cut glass bowl.

The honoree was presented a piece of silver in her chosen pattern by the hostess. Miss Rhodes was becomingly dressed in a white embroidered polished linen with a crushed yellow cummerbund, a yellow straw hat and white accessories.

Guests included were Mrs. F. C. McConnell, Mrs. G. C. Pierce Jr., Mrs. O. B. Wilson, Mrs. Howard Hunter, Mrs. Fred Bennett, Mrs. Sam Humphries, Mrs. John P. McKee, Mrs. Vance Rhodes, mother of the bride-elect, the honor guest and the hostess.

AN EARLY JUNE WEDDING is planned for Miss Betty Ann Rushing, and Richard Lamar Boutwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Richard Boutwell of Oak Grove. The announcement is made known today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rushing of Lake Providence. The wedding will take place in the First Baptist Church of Lake Providence with the Reverend J. D. Grey officiating.

Miss Joe Ann Cotton Honor Guest For Bridal Tea-Shower

A lovely tea shower was given for Miss Joe Ann Cotton, bride-elect of James Elliott Oliver of Shreveport. This was held in the home of Mrs. Faheam Cannon on Point Drive Friday evening from 7 until 9 p.m. Hostesses with Mrs. Cannon were Mrs. J. M. Gilstrap, Mrs. G. M. Heidenreich, Mrs. H. F. Shepard, Mrs. W. W. Stevens and Mrs. J. Herbert Walker.

Miss Barbara Cannon greeted guests at the door and in the receiving line were Mrs. Cannon, Miss Cotton, the honoree, and her mother, Mrs. W. A. Cotton. Miss Cotton was becomingly dressed in a white linen sheath dress.

Roses were used in profusion in the reception suite, calendulas in the den and sweet peas on the patio.

The party table in the dining room held an arrangement of new Dawn roses and baby breath flanked by pink tapers.

Serving at the punch service were two aunts of the bride-elect, Mrs. Inas H. Gwin and Mrs. Irene H. Johnston. Miss Kay Cotton presided at the guest book. Assisting in serving were Mrs. Sara Lou Sims, Miss Mary Katherine Walker, Miss Virginia Peyton and Mrs. Billy Joe Laird.

Lt. Joseph Bowmar C.A.R. Climax Year's Activities With Trip To Vicksburg

A wonderful trip to the Vicksburg battlegrounds climaxed a fine year for the members of the Lt. Joseph Bowmar Chapter, C. A. R. En route the group enjoyed a delightful refreshment hour at the Omega Plantation near Tallulah. Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. J. G. Wyly and her daughter, Mavis.

Upon arrival at Vicksburg the Monroe members joined the members of the Sarah Randolph Boone Chapter for a picnic lunch in the park. Following the lunch the entire group visited the museum which provided the historical background of the War between the States in this area. Ranger Jim Coleman gave a highly interesting and educational talk on the siege and defense of Vicksburg.

The group then toured the National Military Park by bus. The itinerary included Confederate Avenue, Union Avenue, and the many state monuments and memorials.

Impressive memorial services were held at the Louisiana and Mississippi Memorials. At the Louisiana Memorial, Don Jones, president of the Vicksburg society, presented to Dottie Amman, incoming president of Lt. Joseph Bowmar Society, and Patty Proffit, outgoing president, a wreath to be placed on the Memorial. The services were led by Sage Redding, chaplain of Lt. Joseph Bowmar. In charge of the service at the Mississippi Memorial was Barbara Balthis, chaplain of the Sarah Randolph Boone Society. Assisting her was Don Jones, chapter president.

Martha Riser Selected For Jr. Yr. Abroad

Miss Martha Riser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Riser has been selected for study in the Tulane - Newcomb Junior Year Abroad Program for the 1959-60 school year. Dr. John H. Stibbs, dean of students at Tulane University, announced recently.

Under the program, superior students in the college of arts and sciences and Newcomb spend their third year of college studying at selected universities in Europe.

Students have a choice of 25 universities in six European countries, Dean Stibbs said.

Dr. Haley Thomas, program director, said the students will sail for Europe in August, and will return July, 1960.

Miss Riser, one of 45 Tulane students selected for the program next year, will study at the University College of the University of London.

Miss Riser, who lives at 1408 Forsythe, is a member of Chi Omega social sorority at Newcomb.

This is the sixth year that this program has been very fortunate to have been represented by three girls, other than Miss Riser. They were Miss Geney Wilson, Miss Linda Hornbeak, and Miss Margaret Louise Taylor.

Leaf - Petal Garden Club Holds Meeting

The April meeting of the Leaf and Petal Garden Club was hosted by Mrs. Billy J.

Croswell on South 9th. The meeting was opened with the club's prayer presented by Mrs. M. I. Davis, president. After the meeting was called to order, old and new business was debated. Mrs. Robert Newcomer discussed plans for arrangements to be made and entered in the flower show sponsored by the Monroe Garden Club. Main event of the evening was the distribution of the new year books for 1959-1960. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Six million television sets were produced in the United States in 1958.

Suit Pantry To A T-Bone

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—Housewives in the future may be able to open their pantry shelf and select a T-bone steak for dinner.

That's possible, says Arthur

Mauch, a Michigan State University agricultural economics professor.

"We soon may be able to sterilize food with gamma rays so that a T-bone steak can be stored on a shelf in the pantry, to be dusted off and barbecued years later," he said.

Everyone is talking about satellites and rockets these days, but how well do we understand the terms? Here are a few definitions in a space dictionary which crossed our desk this week:

ESCAPE VELOCITY—speed of the help at quitting time.
MARTIAN—music for soldiers to march to.
METEOR—something you forget to put a nickel in.
NEW FUEL—nothing like an old one.
ROCKET—noise made by the kids while you are phoning.
RE-ENTRY—simple method of balancing the books.

One of the loveliest parties of this—or any other—season was that which honored the JOE POWELLS and the SLADE BROWNS at the Paragon club last Saturday night. Hosts were the LEE VANDERPOOLS, the HENRY BIEDENHARNS, JR., the EVANS ETHRIDGES, the JOHNNY SHERROUSES, JR., and the KIRT TOUCHSTONES.

Copper and brass appointments were used with yellow flowers throughout the club. In the entrance and the main dining room were Bird of Paradise flowers and specimen yellow cysanthemums. Yellow gladiolas in an outstanding vertical arrangement were placed on the circular buffet table on the porch.

Unusually interesting food was served from the long buffet table which extended down one wall of the dining room. Marinated carib meat was served in patty shells. There was turkey, ham, tiny hot meat balls, teri-yaki, assorted cheeses, broiled bacon-wrapped olives, liver pate. On a table across the room was a large swan carved from ice, centering a platter of shrimp. A cup in the swan's back held the sauce for dipping the shrimp.

Among the several hundred guests who called between seven and nine were a number from out of town. MILDRED and WILLARD HALL, (she is Joe Powell's sister) were here from Beaumont, Texas. Charlotte Eih- broons are used throughout the house, with accents of turquoise and orange.

The champagne beige of the living room walls is exactly matched by the draw draperies of Fortisan silk. Furniture is a slightly darker shade. Two particularly interesting pieces are the end table of honey-beige marble, and the circular coffee table of white and gold tile with brass legs. The dining table is placed at one end of the room before a Japanese panel painted in gold and black.

The guest room and the daughters' bedroom open from the front hall. BRENDA and SUSAN have a daintily feminine room, with an all-white bath. Their draperies and dust ruffles are of white chintz printed with fancily-dressed French poodles. Coverlets are of quilted white chintz.

The master bedroom and bath are farther back, opening from the family room, thus giving the effect of a separate wing. Champagne beige is used for the painted wall, for the silk draperies, and for the quilted silk bedspread. A scenic paper printed with stalks of gold bamboo is on the wall at the head of the bed. Brown tile in the master bath is accented with gold tile on the countertops.

Heart of the house is the kitchen and family room, a most livable room, paved with terrazzo and paneled with walnut. Turquoise appliances are built into the walnut walls in the kitchen section, and a walnut island separates the working area from the rest of the room.

Two walls of the room are of glass. The corner is formed by a raised fireplace of beige Roman brick. Flat cushions of turquoise and orange invite the visitor to be seated. An outdoor fireplace backs up to this one. A paved patio protected by the roof overhang curves around the two glass walls of the family room.

MATT HIRSCH, who is leaving for Europe soon, was named guest of honor at a super party on Joe's Ark Friday night. Hostesses for the evening were MILDRED SWIFT, ADRIENNE GASTON, MARY LEE MILAM, and ANNA GRAY NOE. Matt was surprised with a handkerchief shower. Some thirty ladies attended the party.

Incidentally, FRANCES M-HENRY reported having a nice visit with Matt's daughter, SUZANNE SOLOMON, while in Louisville. Frances spent two weeks in Kentucky with her daughter CORNELIA, and her husband, GRANT THOMAS, in their new home.

The ARTHUR SMITHS, JR., entertained with a dinner party at home last Sunday evening. Pink roses arranged horizontally in a silver bowl centered the table in the pink dining room. SYDNEE served an unusual menu of steak with rice dressing, green beans, Hollandaise, asparagus salad, and pineapple supreme to eight guests.

The CHARLES NUNNALLS, JR., of Alexandria, were guests of Louise's mother, LETA TISDALE, last weekend. The JIMMY NOES, JR., of New Orleans were also here for Mother's Day, with the JAMES A. NOES, SR.

Guests of the H. G. PROPHITS, JR., are MRS. HARRY PROPHIT and son DON PROPHIT of Fort Lauderdale, Florida. They arrived yesterday and will be here until June 10, when they leave on a six weeks tour of Alaska.

JAY WINK celebrated his sixth birthday Saturday with a back yard party for twelve little boys. 'Twas a luncheon party, with hot dogs the main course, lemonade, ice cream and birthday cake completed the menu.

A group of the junior high set attended a party at JEANNE ROWAN's home Saturday evening. Yellow roses were used on the dining table, where punch, sandwiches, and cookies were served. Some twenty young people danced to the hi-fi between 7:30 and 10.

On his eighth birthday Saturday, BUDDY DENT had a baseball party. Nineteen little friends came and played ball. Cupcakes, soft drinks, and ice cream were the refreshments after the game.

Also eight years old was GEORGE WATLEY, who had a home party for seven little friends Saturday. The group played games, with DICKIE TOUCHSTONE the winner in the potato race and in the sack race. JOHNNY SANCHEZ and JERRY TRIPLETT won the three-legged

MISS DONNA SUE SHIVELY

Miss Shively Will Wed S. D. Buford

Mr. and Mrs. David Sebastian of Jonesboro announce the engagement and approaching marriage today of their daughter, Donna Sue, to Skippy Duncan Buford of Atlanta, Georgia. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Holmes Buford of Jonesboro.

A June 21 wedding is planned at 4:00 p.m. in the Jonesboro Methodist Church with the Reverend G. A. Morgan officiating. The bride-elect has chosen Miss Loyce Kilpatrick as her maid of honor and Mrs. William McDonald Jr. as matron of honor. Misses Kay DeCou, Olivia Ann Colvin, Robbie Johnson and Virginia Ann Buford will serve as bridesmaids.

Mr. Buford has selected John C. Nichaud Jr. as his best man and for ushers, Dale Buford, Tommy Shively, Carl Smith, William H. Buford Jr. and Wayne Hammons.

She is descended from Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Walker of Jonesboro and Mrs. Lecky C. Shively of Wayatt and David Shively of Jonesboro. She graduated from Jonesboro - Hodge High School and will graduate from L. S. U. this month.

He is descended from the late race. Hot dogs, ice cream, and birthday cake were served.

On the lighter side, but full of truth, is Ogden Nash's "I Never Even Suggested It."

I know lots of men who are in love and lots of men who are married and lots of men who are both,

And to fall out with their loved ones is what all of them are most loth.

Many the swain who has finally admitted that the earth is flat. Simply to sidestep a spat:

Many the two-fisted executive whose domestic conversation is limited to a tactfully interpolated Yes.

And then he is amazed to find that he is being raked backwards over a bed of coals nevertheless.

These misguided fellows are under the impression that it takes two to make a quarrel, that you can sidestep a crisis by nonaggression and nonresistance.

Instead of removing yourself to a discreet distance. Passivity can be a provoking modus operandi.

Consider the Empire and Ghandi. Silence is golden, but sometimes invisibility is goldier.

Because loved ones may not be able to make bricks without straw but often they don't need any straw to manufacture a bone to pick or blood in their eye or a chip for their soft white shoulder.

It's my dut, gentlemen, to inform you that women are dictators all, and I recommend to you this moral:

In real life it takes only one to make a quarrel.

Shower Honors Miss Mitchell Bride-Elect

Miss Martha Jane Mitchell, June bride-elect of James C. King was honored at a lovely tea-shower in the home of Mrs. R. W. Lawson in Ruston on Saturday afternoon from four until six o'clock. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Sidney King, Mrs. D. M. Cruse, and Mrs. T. J. Pearce, Jr.

Guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Lawson and presented to Miss Mitchell, her mother, Mrs. John A. Mitchell, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. Cedric King. The honoree was wearing a model of pale blue organza, matching shoes, and a dewey carnation corsage.

Lovely pink carnations in a silver compote centered the coffee table in the living room. The console was centered with an arrangement of pink carnations and ageratum. Selections on the stereo player drifted through the reception rooms during the afternoon.

Mrs. Sidney King ushered guests into the dining room where Mrs. T. J. Pearce, Jr., presided over the tea service. Pink tapers in silver candelabra cast a glow over the arrangement of pink carnations, silver hearts, lovers' knots centered with a replica of Miss Mitchell's engagement ring. The pale pink damask cloth formed a lovely background for the arrangement. Assisting in the courtesies were Miss Sherry Rainwater and Miss Judy Mitchell, sister of the honoree.

The many lovely gifts were displayed in the spacious informal living room. Miss Karen King and Miss Lynda Rainwater invited the guests to view the many gifts. In the music room Miss Ellen Riser presided over the bride's register displayed on the table with a single lighted taper. Small wedding bells graced the base of the candelabra. A replica of the wedding invitation was framed in gold to remind the guests of the wedding date, June 16.

Mathys - Hesler Vows Pledged On May 8

An impressive double ring ceremony was held in the chapel of First Methodist Church in West Monroe on May 8 at 8:00 p. m. uniting in marriage Miss Wilma Elaine Hesler and Albert Donnie Mathys Jr. Rev. W. D. Milton performed the ceremony in a setting of white stock, gladioli and candy-tuft.

Two Egyptian brass candelabra held lighted cathedral tapers. Mrs. Jena Lewis of Shreveport at the organ rendered nuptial music and sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, Robert E. Hesler. Her dress was of white slipper satin with fitted bodice, crosslaced with matching satin the full skirt hung gracefully over nylon net and taffeta to a ballerina length. The hemline was scalloped with daisies of eyelet embroidery. A crown of seed pearls held in place her nylon net veil. She wore a sweetheart locket and pearl earrings. Her bouquet was a white orchid feathered with white carnations on a white Bible.

Mrs. Edward B. Taylor matron of honor, was attired in a pastel pink nylon organza with fitted bodice and full skirt over nylon net. She carried a white Cymbidium Orchid feathered with white carnations. Her accessories were white. Miss Judy Hesler and Miss Sherry Taylor wore identical pink nylon dresses, they each carried wicker baskets of pink carnations entwined with matching satin ribbons. Pink and white flowers formed their headress.

Serving as best man was Paul F. Stewart, Edward B. Taylor Jr., was ring bearer, Greg and Dickie Hearne were candlelighters. The ushers were B. G. Wardlaw and Robert P. Holtzclaw.

Mrs. A. D. Mathys, mother of the groom, wore a pastel green spring suit and matching accessories and a white orchid corsage. Mrs. Robert E. Hesler chose a navy sheath with white lace bolero and white accessories, her corsage was a white cymbidium orchid.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony. The bride chose an aqua printed floral spring suit to travel in with matching gloves and hat and she wore the orchid from her bouquet. After a wedding trip on the Gulf Coast the couple will make their home at the Layton Place.

Areme Club Meets In Poulan Home

The Areme Club held their regular meeting Thursday, May 7, in the lovely home of Mrs. H. T. Poulan, assisted by co-hostesses: Mrs. L. E. Higgins and Mrs. E. B. Hales, Jr.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. George Morgan, president. The minutes were read and approved by Mrs. E. B. Hales, Jr., secretary.

The entertainment committee had Mrs. Marcus Mapp, give a book review on Jean Kerr's novel, and those who have not read it are eager to do so. Mrs. Mapp was later presented with a lovely gift by Mrs. B. L. Mulhern for her most interesting entertainment.

Delicious refreshments were served from the dining table which was covered with a red linen cloth, centered with a beautiful spring arrangement of red lilies. Those enjoying the meeting were: Mrs. Marie Roe, Mrs. J. M. Wyatt, Mrs. W. R. Flanagan, Mrs. Oscar Johnson, Mrs. Ethel Newport, Mrs. C. H. Standard, Mrs. C. V. Collier, Mrs. F. M. Culver, Mrs. Minnie Gill, Mrs. J. E. Baugh, Mrs. E. H. Miller, Mrs. G. E. Spencer and Mrs. T. Mickel.

Sterlington HDC Celebrates Nat'l HD Week

The Sterlington Home Demonstration Club celebrated National Home Demonstration Week with varied activities. On the first day, Mrs. O. H. Manhart and Mrs. J. R. Williams attended a local flower arrangement display, where Mrs. Williams was one of the judges.

During the week, the club displayed some of the articles made by seven of the members in a local store window.

On Monday, several of the members attended a meat cutting demonstration at a West Monroe store. Members attending this were Mrs. D. W. Layburn, Mrs. D. Riley, Mrs. D. Glenn, Mrs. L. R. McClain and Mrs. Manhart.

A special meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Manhart on Thursday afternoon and plans were completed for the fair booth to be made up for the parish fair held in October. Members present were Mrs. Glenn, Mrs. Layburn, Mrs. S. O. Sharp, Mrs. A. Stonehart and the hostess, Mrs. Manhart.

Corsage making was the demonstration given at the home of Mrs. J. R. Williams on Friday afternoon. Several beautiful corsages were made out of sweet peas, roses, gladiolas and day-lilies. Mrs. J. R. Williams, a garden club member, gave the demonstration to Mrs. Layburn, Mrs. Manhart, Mrs. F. Earl, Mrs. D. Wilkes, and Mrs. Glenn.

Sterlington had five entries in the Parishwide Dress Review which was held Saturday morning in West Monroe at the Agriculture Building. Mrs. D. Wilkes made a dress for herself and daughter, Charlene; Mrs. Sharp made one for herself and daughter, Judy; and Mrs. R. Farmer made a dress for her daughter, Sandra. Miss Judy Sharp won 2nd place in the age 1 to 6 division.

The final activity of the week was a picnic held at the Arkansas club house on Saturday evening. Each member brought a covered dish. Members and guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Layburn and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Alexander and son, Mrs. Glenn, Mrs. Manhart, and Mr. and Mrs. Sharp and family.

SIGN AGREEMENT

LONDON (UPI)—The independent television network Friday called on producers of commercials to use discretion. Among forbidden ads were those in which children were "worrying their parents with such words as 'ask mummy ... ask daddy'" and scenes in which children "demand rather than ask for something they want, or eat with bad table manners."

MISS SYLVIA ANN KENNEDY

Announcement Party Is Given Margaret Webb

TALLULAH (Special)—In a beautiful announcement party attended by friends from Monroe, Vicksburg, Lake Providence and Tallulah, the approaching nuptials of Miss Flora Margaret Webb and Dr. James P. Guerrero were made known. Mrs. Hugh Montgomery and Miss Cornelia Kell were hostesses at the delightful affair which took place at the Montgomery home on North Mulberry Street.

The handsome silver service was placed a branched silver candelabrum holding white tapers.

Guests were also privileged to stroll in the garden at the rear and view the many old fashioned shrubs and blossoms. From a white table in the garden a group of tea girls, Judy Kell, Peggy Webb, Hester Ferris and Beverly Mitchell served punch.

The hostesses were assisted in the courtesies by Miss Mary Jane Jackson, Mrs. William Ferris, Mrs. King Tribeschmann, Mrs. James Garrett, Mrs. W. Z. Adams, Mrs. George M. Webb, Mrs. W. E. Regenold, Mrs. William Yeger, Mrs. R. W. Gandy, Mrs. Field Montgomery, Mrs. William S. Spilman, Miss Alma Maxwell and Mrs. Edward Yeger.

Quantities of pale pink roses with sprays of mock orange and daisies were attractively arranged in the living room and elsewhere were arrangements of Louisiana native iris blooms. Miniature ivy and small pink rosebuds decorated the table on the porch where delicious iced punch, tiny sandwiches and cakes were served. In the dining room where coffee was served from

May 3 Wedding Date In Lake Providence

On May 3 at 4:00 p.m. in the Grace Episcopal Church in Lake Providence Miss Shirley Grace Johnson became the bride of Richard David DeLabar of Easton, Pennsylvania. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melville Wilroy Johnson of Lake Providence and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel David DeLabar of Easton, Pennsylvania.

The Reverend H. Newton Griffith performed the double ring ceremony. Acolytes were John Byerley and Grady Lightfoot.

Each window of the church held a single lighted white candle with green ivy at its base. Brass containers held white gladioli stock and greenery and lighted cathedral tapers. David Edward Tschabold Jr. rendered the nuptial music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Dorothy Johnson of Baton Rouge who sang, "O Perfect Love" and Schubert's "Ave Maria."

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a gown of Chantilly white lace and tulle over satin, the fitted bodice had tiny satin covered buttons to the waistline in the back, it featured a Sabrina neckline and long lace sleeves ending in a point over the hands. The full skirt was fashioned of lace and designed with a lace chapel train. Her fingertip veil of French illusion fell from a half crown of lace and pearls. The bridal bouquet was of stephanotis centered with a white purple throated orchid and was carried atop a white leather bound Episcopal Prayer Book. Her pumps were white satin. A pair of family heirloom gold earrings were the only-ornament she wore.

Miss Gloria Sue Deason of Tallulah, maid of honor, wore a taffeta model of aqua with a V neckline, full gathered skirt with matching chiffon cummerbund attached to the bodice and draped to the back forming sashes falling gracefully to the hemline with matching slippers, white wrist length gloves and a bandeau of matching color of the dress covered with lilies of the valley. She carried a nosegay of feathered carnations with maline and white satin streamers.

Julia Levy, a cousin of the bride of Little Rock, Arkansas, was flower girl and she wore a floor length white organza dress, with over skirt and waist length bertha of all over white embroidery. Her wide pink satin sash was caught to the back in a large bow. She wore a white net bonnet with a pink satin band with white flowers. She carried a white woven straw basket of white chrysanthemum petals.

The bride's brother served as best man, A-2C Charles Melville Johnson of Logansport, Indiana. Ushers were Jerry Johnson of Little Rock and George Hill of Cabot, Arkansas.

Mrs. Johnson, the bride's mother wore a navy sheath with empire waist and white accessories. Mrs. DeLabar, the groom's mother, wore a white organza sheath lined with multi-flowered cotton, and with this she wore an apple green straw hat and matching pumps. Her other accessories were white. They both wore shoulder corsages of white carnations.

At the close of the ceremony the minister gave the bride the nuptial lighted candle from the altar to blow out and to burn again on

Miss Margaret Webb Doctor J. P. Guerriero Plan Late June Wedding

Of wide acclaim throughout Northern Louisiana and Mississippi is the announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Margaret Webb to Doctor James Prewett Guerriero. Miss Webb is the daughter of Mrs. George W. Webb and the late George W. Webb of Tallulah. Dr. Guerriero is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Guerriero of Monroe.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Tallulah High School and also Stephens College in Columbia, Missouri. Continuing her studies at Louisiana State University she received a Bachelor of Science degree. While at Louisiana State University she was a member of Delta Delta Delta social sorority. Miss Webb served her internship in Dietetics at University of Kansas Medical Center in Kansas City, Kansas.

each anniversary she reviews her vows.

Dr. Guerriero is a graduate of St. Matthew's High school in Monroe. He received a Bachelor of Science degree from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute in Ruston, his pre-medical training at Loyola University in New Orleans.

During World War II he served as a Lt. (j.g.) in the U. S. Naval Reserve.

He then attended and received his Doctor of Medicine degree at University of Lausanne in Lausanne, Switzerland.

Further graduate work was done at University of Edinburgh in Edinburgh, Scotland, Rotunda Hospital in Dublin, Ireland, and Grenoble, France.

He then interned at Charity Hospital in New Orleans, Louisiana and served one year of residency at Suburban Hospital at Bethesda, Maryland and a year at Mercy Hospital-Street Memorial, Vicksburg, Mississippi.

Dr. Guerriero is now associated with the Street Clinic in Vicksburg, Mississippi.

The wedding will take place in June.

Mrs. A. T. Van Veckhoven, president; Mrs. V. J. Sampognaro, first vice-president, and Mrs. Anthony Lasuzzo, treasurer.

Mother's Club Meets At H. P. Country Club

Our Lady of Fatima Mothers' Club installed officers Tuesday, May 12th at a luncheon held at the Highland Park Country Club. Mrs. Guy Popham, speech instructor from Northeast State College, also, a member of the Mothers' Club, was the mistress of ceremonies. She called on Father Martinez for the invocation, and then expressed thanks to Mrs. L. A. Breard, Mrs. H. C. Richter, Mrs. Howard Landry and Mrs. Eugene Galligan for the beautifully decorated table, which carried out the vacation time theme. Clever place cards, fashioned in the shape of traveling bags, bearing names of famous resorts, marked each place. Sea shells held an arrangement of spring flowers, arranged on green place mats with salt and very small coral shells scattered around them.

The following officers were installed by Mrs. Marvin DuBos, a past president of the year 1956-57. President — Mrs. A. T. Van Veckhoven; First Vice President — Mrs. V. J. Sampognaro; Second Vice President — Mrs. Carey Messina; Secretary — Mrs. John Gebhardt and Treasurer — Mrs. Anthony Lasuzzo.

Father Martinez spoke to the members — complimenting them on the past year's achievements and congratulating the new officers.

The members were treated to a style show of vacation clothes. The following members modeled clothes from Camp's Dress Shop, Bermuda shorts by Virginia High — of Play-knit cotton co-ordinates, cut with a bright swarth across a scoop neck with sleeveless blouse and matching stripes banded the box pleated skirt.

Pedal pushers by Margaret Richter — Fuller's Sailone separates. The little boy shirt was sleeveless with mitered stripe collar with matching stripes on the waistband of the pedal pushers.

A black and white checked suit by Nita Brinson. Cotton check three piece suit ideal for travel. Matching skirt and jacket in black and white check with white sleeveless blouse. Jacket banded with white pique stripes and a black hat to complete her outfit.

Shirley Smale modeled a black washable cotton voile dress. The sheer look was emphasized with rows of lace and tucks on the bodice front above a full pleated skirt. Shirley wore a smart black straw with white accent.

Roselle Tucker modeled a sheath made of very crisp white eyelet. Simple lines gave emphasis to the lacy cotton eyelet fabric.

Ellenor Mahr modeled a lovely blue sheer sleeveless parasol chiton dress for a cool evening.

DeVile, vice-president; seated, Mrs. Charles Kitchingham, secretary and Mrs. R. W. Gregory Jr., treasurer.

TWIN CITY STUDY CLUB met on Thursday to install new officers for the coming year. Standing, left to right, are Mrs. Ed Whalley, president; Mrs. W.

W. Hinson, vice president; seated are Mrs. Bud Leake, treasurer and Mrs. George Cox, secretary.

Twin City Study Club Holds Luncheon Meeting

The Twin City Study Club held its May 7 Luncheon Meeting at the Holiday Inn restaurant. This luncheon climaxed the end of another successful club year for the Twin City Study Club. Hostesses for this lovely occasion were Mrs. H. T. Milford, Mrs. John McCarter Jr., and Mrs. Ralph Murphy.

The luncheon tables were decorated with gold colors, using small Mexican hats for place cards. This fitted in well with the study of Mexico, which the club has enjoyed through the year.

The meeting was opened by club president, Mrs. Quinten McLemore, and Mrs. Calvert Frantom gave the invocation. Mrs. McLemore then welcomed the guests, Mrs. Fred Grant, Miss Frances Flanders, Mrs. H. L. Sampson, and Mrs. Joe F. Smith.

The club had as guest speaker, Miss Frances Flanders. Miss Flanders gave a very interesting talk on "A Summer Reading Program" and gave literature on same to each member and guest. This information outlined a very good summer's reading.

A complete reading of the club minutes was given by Mrs. Wallace Hinson, recording secretary.

After this report, Mrs. Perry Daniels gave a treasurer's report.

After the short business session Mrs. Ralph Murphy added much to the meeting by giving a nice report on her trip to Lake Charles as delegate to the Sixth Annual Convention of the L. Federation of Women's Clubs. She brought information that should help the club in the next year's work.

The officers for the Club year 1959-60 were installed by Mrs. R. P. McKay. Mrs. McKay did a most interesting job of the installation. The new officers being:

Mrs. Edward Whalley, president; Mrs. Wallace Hinson, vice-president; Mrs. George Cox, recording secretary; Mrs. Coe Webb, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Bud Leake, treasurer; Mrs. John McCarter, Jr., reporter; Mrs. Quinten McLemore, parliamentarian; and Mrs. W. D. Albritton, historian.

After the new officers were welcomed the club presented a lovely silver tray to the outgoing president, Mrs. McLemore, in appreciation of her timeless effort put into the club work throughout the year.

Club Has A Dinner Party

The Bobashela Book Club met last week at the Highland Park Country Club for a dinner party. This was the last meeting of the year. Mrs. Jesse Heard and Mrs. Bailey Grant were co-hostesses. The dinner table was made very festive with a Maypole centerpiece, the ribbon wrapped pole had pastel satin ribbon streamers that led to nosegays of sweet peas nestled in marine. Individual corsages of sweet peas marked the place for each guest.

The outgoing president, Mrs. Earl Cox, was presented with a silver tray.

Lakeshore HDC Meets In The Matthews Home

The Lakeshore Home Demonstration Club held its monthly meeting in the home of Mrs. Marie Matthews on Oaklawn Drive. After the business meeting Mrs. Don Ladburn and Mrs. Julia Glenn from the Sterling Club gave a demonstration on sweet rolls and breads. During the recreation period Mrs. J. D. Collier gave a talk on weaving trays and hats. She showed some of her work and offered to give lessons to the members.

Mrs. Matthews served refreshments and sweet rolls from the demonstration to the following members: Mesdames Tiny Albritton, Ruby Burns, Joyce Egloff, Allie Kight, Dorothy Oglesby and the following guests: Mesdames Ruby Brinson, Betty Brinson, Clara Rochelle, Lela Oglesby, Isabelle Ladburn, Julia Glenn and Mrs. Collier. The May meeting will be held with Mrs. Allie Knight on Azalea Drive with Agent Audrey Dawson showing, "How to Control My Time."

Garden Study Club Meets At Country Club

The Garden Study Club met at Highland Park Country Club for their May meeting. Mrs. W. G. Haynes was hostess.

The president, Mrs. C. H. Tait, presided over the business meeting. The lesson assignment was Color Harmony, representing Dawn, Mid-day and Cool of the Evening. A work shop was held, the members making an arrangement studying proportion.

Mrs. C. A. Caldwell gave the horticultural hints. Later refreshments were served to the following members: Mrs. G. F. Becker, Mrs. C. A. Caldwell, Mrs. H. S. Coon, Mrs. A. L. Dickerson, Mrs. Morris Harrison, Mrs. C. T. Johnson, Mrs. John P. Lewis, Mrs. W. L. Mitchell, Mrs. C. H. Tait and Mrs. W. G. Haynes Jr. and little Kathy Haynes as guest.

NEW P.T.A. OFFICERS for the coming year for Kiroli School in West Monroe are left to right - Mrs. Lerd B. Hennessy, parliamentarian; Mrs. Henry Hoffman, president; Mrs. W. E. Breard, vice president; Mrs. Ralph Migouirk, treasurer, and Mrs. T. O. Moreau, secretary.

Welcome Branch Book Club Closed Its Year

Magnolias formed the setting for the annual luncheon as Welcome Book Club brought to a close its club year. Members met in a private dining room of the Bayou DeSiard Country Club on Wednesday where they enjoyed lunch and a delightful program. The T-shaped table held clusters of beautiful magnolia blossoms. These were also used in arrangements on occasional tables around the room.

Mrs. A. S. Gunter presided and presented Mrs. W. H. McGee. Mrs. W. E. Regan of Birmingham Alabama, Mrs. Fred E. Poe, Mrs. R. M. Kettering, Mrs. J. R. White and Dr. Irma Highbaugh of Coffeetown, Kansas who were guests for the occasion.

In a short business session the President appointed Mrs. Zell Smith and Mrs. S. C. Swain on the auditing committee. Excerpts from a most interesting letter from Mrs. Brown of Venezuela was read. She gave a resume of each country in South America, its Government and people. She emphasized the need for Economic aid to the lands to the South as a means of underlining our "Good Neighbor Policy." This was in keeping with the year's study which the club had enjoyed.

Mrs. L. F. Bewick, Program chairman, presented Mrs. May Smith White who delighted her audience with a review of her recent book of Poetry, "Upon Returning." Mrs. White showed some original etchings of scenes in Louisiana used to illustrate this volume. Nostalgic feelings of days gone by steals over one as they listen to Mrs. White read her poems. "Upon Returning" is a book of poetry written as one looks back upon other days and events. Mrs. White added to their beautiful words in the manner in which they were read.

Mrs. J. Norman Coon conducted a brief installation service for the new officers of the Club. As she pinned a ribbon each, its color

The Moment Musicale Coterie Meets

The Moment Musicale Coterie held its final meeting of the year in the home of Janet Vanderpool. Co-hostesses were Alyce Smith and Nancy Jane Wilbert.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Katherine Martin and the following program was presented, Music Notes, Alice Hayes, "Musette in G," Barbara Ann Graves, Waltz, Pam Baker, "The Old Music Box," Paula Meek, "Cora Chowder," Wanda Phillips, "Sonatina," Nancy Jane Wilbert, "Valse Milonna," Alyce Smith, "Little Suite," Kay Odom, "Solfege," Jeanie Brice, "At Evening," Nancy Gilliland, "Fluttering Leaves in A Minor," Janet Vanderpool and "Sobatina from fifteen children Pieces," Donna Jean King.

In addition to the members present on the program were Carolyn Anspach, Sallye Breard, Betty Heard, Mary Lucille Myatt, Janis Powell, Janna Rorex and Mary Jo Simonton. Guests were Phamie Colpin, Peggy Marx and Mrs. Heritage.

Refreshment were served by the hostesses and their mothers, Mrs. F. L. Smith Jr., Mrs. Lee Vanderpool and Mrs. A. K. Kilpatrick.

For a chicken shortcake calculated to draw enthusiastic comments from your guests, add tender canned blue lake green beans, sauteed fresh mushrooms and sliced water chestnuts to the creamed chicken mixture. Spoon over split buttered baking powder biscuits. Delicious!

Ed Hislop Home Scene Of Announcement Party

The beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hislop Jr. in West Monroe was the setting on Saturday from 6 to 9 p.m. for the announcement party of Miss Barbara Faye Hale bride-elect of Kent Ewing. Hostesses were Mrs. Hislop, Mrs. R. C. Pittard, Mrs. J. C. Lolley, Mrs. George Screpitis and Mrs. W. N. Brasher.

Miss Millie Hislop greeted guests at the door. In the receiving line was Miss Hale in aqua silk oranza with blue accessories, her corsage was of pink sweet-heart roses.

Mrs. T. P. Hale, mother of the bride, was dressed in a white lace dress and white accessories. Mrs. Leslie Ewing, the groom's mother wore an ice blue bemburg cotton dress with blue accessories. They each wore corsages of white carnations tied with pink and blue ribbon.

In the living room a dresden cupid held a wedding invitation made of stock flanked by blue candles.

The party table held a maypole in the center of pink and blue candytuft, and white stock, with ribbons from the may pole to little dresden bridesmaids.

Miss Betty Screpitis, Mrs. Brasher, Mrs. Elsie McKay, Mrs. Fred Riser and Miss Faye Parker served at the punch bowls while Mrs. Billie Gaston, Mrs. Helen Le-

NO MORE CANDY

LONDON (UPI) — British European Airways (BEA) announced Friday it has stopped giving free candy to passengers. An airline spokesman said candy was first given to passengers to prevent ear "popping" at higher altitudes, but installation of pressurized cabins makes the jaw-chomping unnecessary.

Fevre, Miss Polly Riser, Mrs. Louise Danna, Miss Wanda Adcock and Mrs. C. B. Welch assisted in serving. Several hundred guests enjoyed this delightful affair.

Mrs. Minnie E. Mangham tries her hand at modern equipment

(Staff Photos By Bill Coleman)

IN MONROE RECALLED

Early Days

By BOB LUCKETT
Staff Writer

Nowadays Monroe is the bustling trade center of northeast Louisiana and has a population of nearly 50,000. It hasn't always been so.

There are a few people now living who can remember when Monroe was a sleepy little southern village with not much more to offer than a resting place between Shreveport and Vicksburg.

To get some conception of just how far our city has advanced in size and importance, one would have to have seen it in the latter part of the nineteenth century.

Mrs. Minnie E. Mangham, 209 Smith Avenue, did.

Today she celebrates her 83rd birthday anniversary.

Although an octogenarian, Mrs. Mangham could easily pass for sixty. Frequent smiles and youthful eyes deceive. Or are they true indicators of age?

EARLY WORK

One would hardly call Mrs. Mangham a pioneer. Nevertheless, in her own way, she is.

For she had her part in ushering into modern times one of our most taken-for-granted necessities, the telephone.

She was one of the first telephone switchboard operators in this section of Louisiana.

Mrs. Mangham, who was then Miss Cooper, came to Monroe in 1895 with her mother, half-sister and brother. They made the trip from Vicksburg by rail.

The journey of about 80 miles took almost all day. There was no bridge across the Mississippi then and the train had to be ferried across the vast watery gash car by car.

As the train puffed into the Monroe depot, which was on North Second Street, Mrs. Mangham's first impression of the town was that it "looked like a big mud hole."

There were no paved streets, no sidewalks. Wagonwheels sunk down to their hubs in the river of mud that was DeSiard.

Not infrequently cows could be seen jogging down the streets. DeSiard was about three or four blocks long and boasted one hotel, a string of gas lights, two banks and several stores.

Monroe and West Monroe were connected by an iron umbilical cord through which the railroad traffic of the day flowed.

The Cooper family moved into a house located at Oak and Seventh streets.

James T. Cooper, Mrs. Mangham's brother, was general manager and "flunky" of the Cumberland Telephone Company, Mrs. Mangham recalls.

Cumberland's one operator in Monroe quit.

Since the telephone was comparatively new during this period, trained switchboard operators were hard to find.

OPERATOR

But Cooper had to have an operator, and his sister seemed to be the only person he could persuade to take the job.

So, Mrs. Mangham was hired. The new "very green" operator took her place at the then complicated switchboard which was located over a men's clothing store on DeSiard.

Seven days a week she "worked the board" from 7 a.m. until 6 p.m. For this she was paid $15 a month.

"It was hard work but I didn't mind it then," said Mrs. Mangham.

At that time, Mrs. Mangham remembered, there were about 150 telephones in the Monroe area.

Now there are about 25,000. She even remembers the numbers of the two Monroe banks. The Merchant Farmers Bank's number was 22, and Monroe First National Bank's was 1, she said.

For entertainment, Mrs. Mangham told, she used to go for buggy rides and attended "every play that came to Monroe."

"People didn't have such a bad time during those days," Mrs. Mangham smiled.

STILL ACTIVE

Shortly after her arrival in Monroe she joined the First Baptist Church which today is in the same location. She is still an active member.

In 1898, during the Spanish American War, Mrs. Mangham married her soldier fiancé who was home on leave. She said, goodbye to the telephone switchboard.

Two weeks ago Mrs. Mangham was given a guided tour through the Southern Bell Telephone building.

It had been over half a century since she had been inside a telephone office.

The contrast between then and now registered on Mrs. Mangham's face as company representatives explained in detail the complex electronic equipment.

Yet, after all the years, she asked questions that only an experienced operator could ask.

When she sat down to the modern switchboard with its puzzling maze of plugs and snake-like wires and put on the operator's earphones, she smiled and said, "It has been a long time."

Continuing the tour, representatives asked if Mrs. Mangham was tired and wanted to rest. "Heavens no," she replied, "I'm having a picnic!"

Back at her home Mrs. Mangham proudly showed pictures of her three grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

As she displayed the photographs, Mrs. Mangham reflected, "I've had my ups and downs, but I'm still here."

EAST, WEST CONFERENCE

Effort To Ease Tensions

By BEM PRICE
Associated Press Writer

Foreign ministers of the East and West are gathered in Geneva for another effort to ease cold war tensions. Behind the diplomatic language lie the stark realities of military power.

War, or the threat of war, has been called the logical extension of diplomacy. Undoubtedly the relative military strength of the two leading powers at the conference table, the United States and the Soviet Union, will have a bearing on the success of the meetings.

Whether at the foreign ministers' level or at the summit, both great nations must confer in complete awareness that each has the capability of destroying the other with thermonuclear weapons.

One of the overriding factors may well be a belief by one side or the other that it has, or soon will have, a superior system of delivering these weapons, a system capable of achieving a one-punch knockout.

SYSTEM

Behind each great power is a system of alliance.

The United States is linked with 14 other nations in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. These NATO nations have 3,365,000 men under arms, scattered from the United States and Canada to Norway and Turkey.

The Soviet Union and her European satellites have approximately 3,200,000 men under arms. The Soviets alone have 175 divisions, about 160 of them stationed west of the Ural Mountains.

The Communist nations can muster about 35,000 military aircraft; the NATO nations around 49,000. The Soviet Union is believed to have more actual combat type aircraft.

The Soviet Union has about 500 submarines, the NATO nations about 205. Included in the latter total are six atomic-powered U.S. submarines. The United States is building 27 more.

In major surface combat vessels the NATO navies outnumber the Soviet's about 3-1. The Soviet Union has no aircraft carriers. Whether this NATO surface fleet is capable of meeting the huge Soviet submarine threat seems debatable.

While the NATO forces apparently are equal or superior to those of the Soviet Union and her allies in Europe, there are from the Western point of view two disturbing factors:

(1) To date the Western powers have been unable to agree on the size, disposition and control of the NATO forces. NATO's chief, Gen. Lauris Norstad, says he needs more men and equipment.

(2) The Soviet Union's so-called conventional forces could be concentrated easily and possibly could overrun Western Europe before local reinforcements could be mobilized or dispatched from the United States.

For the West, the second point raises a vital question: if the Soviet's land forces overwhelmed Europe, would the United States seek their destruction with atomic weapons? The prospect of becoming atomic targets is not inviting to allies.

Any consideration of the Soviet's conventional forces must take into account that the Red army has been completely re-equipped since World War II.

While U. S. intelligence sources are forbidden to discuss the Soviet's missile capabilities it is known that by 1947, using captured German production facilities, the Soviets were in the business of making large numbers of 400-mile-range ballistic missiles designated as the M101.

EXPANDED

The Soviet missile program has expanded rapidly since. Already operational in the Soviet forces are four long-range surface-to-surface missiles believed capable of delivering atomic warheads. The M102 and M103, with a 1,000-mile range; the T3, a true ballistic missile with a 5,000-mile range at 17,000 m.p.h.; and the T4A, a winged air-breathing missile with an estimated range of nearly 12,000 miles at supersonic speed.

M103 bases have been built throughout the Baltic states aimed at Scandinavia and West Germany. Installations have been built in Thuringia and East Pomerania aimed at Italy. Other M103 bases in Czechoslovakia are aimed at Germany and Western Europe.

In addition to these long-range weapons, the Soviets have a series of battlefield type missiles plus an excellent anti-aircraft missile.

Any examination of U. S. military posture must begin with the fact that inside the Pentagon there is no firm agreement on what should be the size and shape of U. S. forces, nor whether the United States should be equally prepared to fight an all-out atomic war or a so-called conventional war.

The Air Force generally has argued that the best deterrent to war is the ability to retaliate in massive fashion with atomic bombs.

While conceding the necessity for such a capability, the Army and Navy have argued that an atomic stalemate is possible; that the West should be well prepared to fight nonnuclear wars.

In brief, the Army and Navy have argued for what is called a balanced force. By and large, the present administration has supported the massive retaliation concept of the Air Force.

The backbone of the nation's atomic deterrent capability is the manned aircraft.

The United States has 500 to 600 heavy bombers (compared to the Soviet's 150 to 200) and 1,500 medium bombers. The Soviet Union has 1,500 to 2,000 heavy bombers. There are intelligence estimates that the Soviet Union has leapfrogged the heavy bomber phase of transition to missiles.

In the missile field the United States has two 1,500-mile-range missiles, the Thor and the Jupiter. The U.S. arsenal also contains two intercontinental range missiles, the Snark and the Atlas, with a third, the Titan, in an advanced research stage.

As of now the United States has four Thor squadrons based in Britain and has reached an agreement with Italy to place a Jupiter squadron in that country.

CONCEDED

Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy has conceded that the Soviet Union might have two or three times as many such missiles as the United States in 1962-63. But he maintains that the Strategic Air Command will give this nation a continued military edge.

Like the Soviet Union, the United States has a variety of limited range missiles for battlefield use and the mighty Army-developed anti-aircraft missile, the Nike-Hercules.

As for the ability to fight a non-nuclear war, both the Army and Navy say they are growing weaker, not stronger. Only the Air Force insists it is not afflicted with creeping obsolescence.

Questioned on the modernity of the fleet, a Navy spokesman replied: "At the present rate of shipbuilding, we are replacing less than 5 per cent of our ships annually. We will have to more than double our shipbuilding program to maintain the fleet at its present strength."

STRENGTH

The U.S. fleet now contains 891 active ships, including 396 warships of all types. President Eisenhower's 41-billion-dollar defense budget proposes to cut this number to 864 active ships, including a large aircraft carrier, and for the modernization of 13 ships.

At present the Navy has an inventory of 10,533 aircraft. Under the budget this would be reduced to 9,300 aircraft, 41 per cent of which would be jets.

There are 21 aircraft carriers in the fleet. Fourteen are of World War II construction or design. Between now and mid-1966, the Navy figures 10 will become obsolescent.

As for the Army, it is something like a business with a 14-billion-dollar inventory which is going broke at the rate of 200 million dollars a year.

The Army figures that by spending eight billion dollars over the next five years above and beyond the 1.4 billion it is now allotted for hardware, the nation could have a ground force equipped with the latest technological devices.

As for manpower, four years ago the Army had 20 divisions of 17,500 men each. By midyear, Army strength will be down to 14½ divisions of 14,500 men each.

In terms of over-all numbers the Army will be reduced from 1,109,000 in 1955 to 870,000 men by mid-1959.

This is the background against which the diplomatic drama of Geneva opened.

History Of Bush Pilot Is Colorful

By HUBBARD KEAVY

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—The history of commercial aviation in Australia can be written around one man—The bush pilot who started it all 39 years ago.

He is tall, rangy and ruddy and probably weighs about four pounds more than he did when he was selling airplane joyrides 40 years ago. He is 64, has friendly blue eyes and smiles without effort.

Sir Hudson Fysh is the name and Qantas is the airline. Only one airline in the world, KLM of Holland, is older than Sir Hudson's. Australians cannot help speaking of Qantas as Fysh's airline, but the government owns it, lock stock and forthcoming jets.

Australia is so isolated that it must maintain communication with the rest of the world. To compete with other airlines, millions of dollars were needed for postwar expansion. In a country whose population is less than that of Pennsylvania's 11 millions—but whose area is as great as the whole United States—private enterprise could never raise these millions.

FORESIGHT

Foresighted, as well as patriotic, Sir Hudson made no objection when the government offered to buy all of Qantas' stock.

Did young Fysh, just out of the war, intend to start an airline?

"Well, no, we didn't plan it that way," he said. "We had just come out of the war—men of 23 who were boys of 19 when we entered. If we had been able to stay home we'd have learned a trade or profession. But all we knew was flying."

Fysh got a wartime plane and began barnstorming and taking people for rides. A short ride was $2, but a loop was $10. Ex-flying Lieutenant Fysh profited the loop passengers. Gradually, Fysh and his partner began hauling passengers over some of the dreadfully remote areas of the northern country. Pretty soon they had an airline and they called it by the impressive title of Queensland and Northern Territories Airline Services. The initials eventually became the official name.

Sir Hudson, in his shirt sleeves, sits with a large pad in front of him and draws rough little sketches to illustrate his points.

"The great hope for international peace is travel to other nations. We will best foster friendship by tourism, by getting people to know each other."

TRAVEL

He wasn't just speaking of air travel. What he was saying was that all forms of transport—planes and ships and trains—must make it possible by lowering costs for the man in the street to travel.

Although Qantas and its founder are pro-British, and have many ties with the mother country, commercial realism dictates the purchase of equipment. The line now flies California-made Constellations and it soon will take delivery on seven Boeing 707 jets—42 million dollars worth. Qantas was the first airline to fly completely around the world and it will be the first to fly jets over the Pacific.

With jets the California—Australia flight will be pared from 34 to 17 hours.

Many interesting and wonderful things have happened to Fysh and Qantas in his rise from bush pilot to chairman of the board, but a picture on his office wall is significant. It is a single engine biplane. He points to it when you ask what his greatest thrill was.

"It was when that plane, back in 1920, landed in Australia after flying from England. It was breathtaking. I'll never forget it. I reckon, maybe, it told me we'd be flying over the oceans some day."

Strauss Is Given Even Chance In Voting Tuesday

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. E. L. (Bob) Bartlett Saturday rated Lewis L. Strauss' chances for Senate confirmation as secretary of commerce as "only 50-50 or maybe a little better."

The Alaska Democrat, a member of the Senate Commerce Committee which is considering the controversial nomination, said he still was undecided how he would vote when the committee takes up the nomination Tuesday.

But Bartlett reflected the thinking of many Capitol observers when he rated the odds as almost even at the moment, with Strauss probably holding a slight edge.

Nineteenth Century Operator "Works The Board"

Step Toward Outer Space

By LEON BURNETT

WASHINGTON (UPI)—One way you look at it, the Wright Brothers' first flight was modern man's first shaky step toward outer space.

Have to give those Chinese credit, though. They were using missiles—or "arrows of flying fire"—as early as 1232 A.D. In fact, all man's efforts to break or evade the law of gravity, no matter how halting, have foreshadowed the era of satellites, ballistic missiles and plans for manned voyages into the greatest unknown of them all.

This approach is taken in a fact-packed little booklet, "Missiles, From Concept to Countdown," produced by the Aircraft Industries Assn. In layman's language, the publication concisely traces the history of man's efforts to get himself, and his explosives, off the ground.

MILESTONE

Among the milestones: In the 1780's, Indian troops lobbed a fairly advanced form of rocket at the British, against whom they were matched in the Second Mysore War.

As the 19th century began, Britain's Sir Walter Congreve came up with something new in rocket fuels. This enabled the British to put the Americans with ship-launched rockets in the War of 1812, which in turn inspired Francis Scott Key's line "and the rockets' red glare..."

An American by the name of William Hale brought stability to the rocket when he rigged it up with nozzle vanes, causing it to spin like a bullet.

The rocket really began to come of age in 1915, when the Navy and a private contractor worked out a missile that could be guided. No longer was it a mere matter of "aim, fire and hope."

CONCLUDED

But the AIA concludes that the Wright Brothers really made the big step. They got into the air for a few seconds, and thus touched off study and research in aerodynamics and propulsion that were to produce the roaring military and scientific machines of today.

Things began to speed up after that day at Kitty Hawk. During World War I, the Army experimented with a radio-controlled pilotless aircraft known as "The Bug." It wasn't used against the enemy, but it worked.

Between the wars, a lot more research went on. Then, toward the end of World War II, the German's came up with the V-1 "buzz bomb" and the even more potent V-2 rocket.

After Germany's defeat, the United States and Russia staged a tug-of-war over German rocket scientists.

It paid off, though a little belatedly for the United States. There seems little doubt that German know-how figured heavily in Russia's successful orbiting of the earth's first artificial satellite.

Dr. Werner Von Braun, a German who chose the United States, headed the scientific team that put this country's first satellite into orbit with a big mixed-breed rocket known as the Jupiter C.

PAUL MARTIN LOOKS 'EM OVER

The La-Ark Baseball League raises the curtain on its inaugural season Friday night with games here, in Dubach, and at Bastrop.

It's amateur ball but it promises to fill the void left by the departure of professional and semi-pro ball from the immediate area of the Twin Cities, Bastrop, Crossett, Oak Grove and Dubach in recent years.

While the Monroe Sports are in Bastrop for their opener Friday, the West Monroe Volunteers will move into Legion Memorial Stadium here for a night scrap with the invading Crosssett Millers. The other league opener sends Oak Grove to Dubach. Second openers will be played Sunday with Dubach at Monroe, West Monroe at Oak Grove, and Bastrop at Crossett.

Meanwhile, Ed Head, who has figured in more departments of baseball of about every class than any other man in these parts, is all set for his role as the league's president. Being president of a league is a new role for Head who has been a high school, minor and major league player, worked a no-hitter as a Brooklyn farm club in the Southern Association, American Association, Eastern League and other minor circuits, and was field and general manager of the Monroe Sports of the Cotton States and Evangeline Leagues.

With his league ready to get away to an expected good start, Head has sent out messages of thanks to press and radio for their "fine support" in helping the progress of organization.

"All members of the La-Ark Amateur Baseball League and I want to thank each of you for the fine support you gave us in the organizing of the league," wrote Head in letters to area press and radio. "All of us know the project could not have been accomplished without your support."

"All of us think we have started a very worthwhile program for boys that have passed the American League age. As one of the board directors stated at the first, a boy in this age group could get into a lot more trouble than in the younger age group."

"Reports from each town are that their merchants are giving them fine support as they are beginning to realize just what the program is being started for."

"We plan to hold baseball clinics for the boys that want to learn more about the game. To show what proper teaching can do: Last year at Bastrop (Head was manager of the Barons in the Big Eight League then) we had two boys, Tom Wells a pitcher, and Tom Schwaner, a shortstop. Neither of these boys had been offered more than a chance to tryout with any major league club or one of their farm clubs. Wells signed with Los Angeles for $40,000, and I saw in one of the New Orleans papers that Schwaner had received an estimated $50,000 from St. Louis. Both of these boys had, as we say in baseball, the tools but did not know how to use them."

For $40,000 and $50,000 in bonuses to sign, we'd say Head certainly helped them find out what those tools were for.

So help the boys get away to a big start Friday. They have worked hard to organize this league. They're going to work just as hard to please you.

ALL ARE STARS

Just to make it official so they will be eligible for selection to the all-state double-A baseball team, we want to inform that the Neville High Tigers that Coach Charlie Brown's entire lineup has made the all-district team.

A rule of the Louisiana Sports Writers Association stipulates that an athlete must make his all-district team in order to be eligible for all-state selection. Neville is the only school in district 2-AA to participate in baseball and thus the entire Tiger team that was eliminated by Menard of Alexandria in the state title playoffs is designated as all-district.

The writers are due to make their selections in all classes next Sunday at Alexandria.

TENNIS RELIC

Twenty-eight years ago a Barksdall Faulk Grammar School pupil passed the school's tennis courts after the 1931 Men's City Singles Tennis Championships had been played. The players had departed, but they had left their neatly drawn tournament bracket.

Charles Copeland, the school kid of yesteryear who had no particular interest in tennis, preserved that bracket through the years. Copeland is now an artist in the city engineer's office. The other day he told Frank Smith: "If you're the Smith I think you are, I have something I think will interest you."

So he brings out the old tournament bracket and sure enough, the same Frank Smith was listed in the pairings with S. L. McConnell, Ernest Bradley, O. B. Morton, Howard Howell, Bill Carter, Raymond West, Max McDonald, Raymond John, Durwood Griffin, David Pace, Mike John, Julius Sapp, Robert Randle, L. D. Cason, John Parsons, Douglas Page, William Wenner, Burt "Jinks" Sperry, Arthur Doehla, Darwin Nichols, Lynton Ethridge, Dale Lawhead, and Robert Morgan.

Some of them are deceased. Some still live in Monroe, and some we have lost track of. But most of them are remembered by Monroe residents of 1931.

Smith is real proud of the well preserved bracket, thanks to the care of Copeland.

Jerry Smith Wins Feature

Jerry Smith, driving V-8, took a trophy donated by Howard Griffin.

In the bug feature, Red Futch, driving No. 4, crossed the finish line first, followed by Bob Shoenmaker in No. 9.

Runnersup to Smith in the feature event were Futch in No. 6 and Billy Bayles in No. 11.

Indians Win GSC Track Title

Gulf States Conference Track Champs

Northeast's "tireless dozen" track team, which walked off with first place honors in the annual Gulf States Conference meet at Natchitoches last night, is pictured above. Coached by Lew Hartzog, the Indian thinclads also won the Southwestern Recreational Meet in Fort Worth, Tex., the LSU Invitational and the Northwest-

3RD STRAIGHT TITLE

LSU Thinclads Sweep To 17th SEC Championship

By SAM HANNA
Staff Writer

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Striking across the sunny track, LSU Tigers swept the 27th Southeastern Conference Track Meet here yesterday for their 17th SEC championship with 61 3-5 points.

The Tigers were not in need of the crippled Billy Cannon and almost doubled second place Georgia Tech in total points scored.

It was LSU's third consecutive SEC championship.

Sprinter Ralph Fabian paced the Tigers, winning the century, the 220 yard dash and the 220 yard low hurdles. LSU won two first places in field events—the broad jump and pole vault.

Staged before about 3,000 fans for the first time in Baton Rouge, the meet was like the past football season, with LSU out front and Tulane dragging up the rear.

Teams running behind LSU scored as follows:

Georgia Tech, 31½ points; Auburn, 30 1-10; Alabama, 28½; Florida, 21 1-10; Vanderbilt, 20 1-10; Kentucky, 17; Georgia, 13 1-10; Tennessee, 7; Mississippi State, 5; Ole Miss, 3; and Tulane 1.

Although Fabian drew most attention from the hometown crowd, Fred Abington of Vanderbilt deserved equal honors by setting one of two official new records of the day.

In addition, Abington capped the two mile with a 9:32.6 time.

Abington ran the mile in 4:12.2 to break the old SEC record of 4:14.8 set by Ed Murphey of Tennessee in 1957.

Auburn Richard Crane set the other new mark of the day by throwing the shot put 55 feet and 1½ inches. The old record, set in 1957 also, was held by Fred Berman of Georgia Tech with 54½ feet.

Cannon, who has been running the 100-yard dash in 9.4 seconds this year appeared in the shot put contest only. He placed third with a heave of 51 feet and 5½ inches.

In the preliminaries yesterday, Cannon, hobbled by a pulled muscle, failed to qualify.

The All-American halfback said later his injury should be healed in a month. He expects to be at full speed by this fall.

With Cannon out of the running and a 4 to 6 mile per hour wind blowing against the sprinters, the 100-yard dash was short of SEC expectations.

Fabian won it in 10 seconds flat. He took the 220-yard dash in 21.4 seconds and the 220-yard low hurdles in 22.8 seconds.

Fabian's 220-yard low hurdles time bettered the SEC record of 23.1 seconds, but was not counted because of the windy conditions.

LSU's other first place wins came with Floyd Engerson, a 22-foot broad jump, and Jesse Father, a 13-foot, 4 inch pole vault.

Tiger freshmen also walked off with top honors by winning the 440-yard relay, 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash and mile relay.

LIST FISH AWARDS

Cheniere Plans Will Be Talked

The proposal to purchase Cheniere Lake for the public with a parish bond issue will be discussed at public meetings over the parish in the next few weeks, it was decided at a meeting of the board of directors of the Ouachita Unit of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation.

The unit's leaders also announced the list of awards for the annual fishing contest, and set the date for the annual fish fry.

A. S. "Bud" Tidwell Jr., unit spokesman, said public meetings will be conducted at Bosco, Sterlington, and Calhoun to discuss the June 23 bond election which sportsmen hope will save Cheniere lake for the public. Dates of the meetings will be announced later.

The unit's annual fish fry will be held Friday night, June 19, beginning at 7 o'clock, at a site yet to be designated.

The board of directors, at its Friday night session, also voted "one hundred percent" to support Pete Menefee and "to congratulate him on his appointment as commissioner of the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission."

The annual fishing contest began May 1, but the list of awards has just been completed. The contest, for unit members, offers monthly awards for the biggest bass, bream, and "spec," and grand prizes for each division after four months.

Grand prizes will be: Bream — Three horse power motor for first, and a wristwatch for second.

Specified perch — Sive and half horse outdoor motor, first; 22 caliber automatic rifle, second.

Bass — Twelve — foot fishing boat, first; transistor radio, second.

The awards for each month are: Bream — May 25, ice box, first; tackle box, second; outdoor motor oil, third; June 29, ice box, first; tackle box, second; outdoor motor oil, third; July 27, ice box, first; tackle box, second; outdoor motor oil, third; August 24, ice box, first; tackle box, second; outdoor motor oil, third; September 21, ice box, first; tackle box, second; outdoor motor oil, third.

Spec — May 25, ice box, first; tackle box, second; outdoor motor oil, third; June 29, ice box, first; tackle box, second; outdoor motor oil, third; July 27, ice box, first; tackle box, second; outdoor motor oil, third; August 24, ice box, first; tackle box, second; outdoor motor oil, third; September 21, ice box, first; tackle box, second; outdoor motor oil, third.

Shot put — 1, Richard Crane, Auburn, 2, Ed Nutting, Georgia Tech, 3, Billy Cannon, LSU, 4, Tom Redmond, Vanderbilt, 5, Ken Rice, Auburn, 55-1½

GSC VICTORS

Hartzog Jubilant Over Tribe Win

By AUSTIN ABRAMS
Staff Writer

NATCHITOCHES (Special)

"I'm glad the boys won this one and all of the rest of the meets they've been in," said Northeast Hartzog Coach Lew Hartzog, moments after the Indians captured the 1959 GSC track championship.

Hartzog, met by team members and fellow track coaches as he was being awarded the conference track coach of the year award, was greeted by his family at the track railing for first congratulations.

"It was a tough meet and I think we grabbed our lead in the 220-yard dash and in the 880 - relay when Tech dropped the baton," Hartzog added.

Going into the 220 - yard dash, Northeast led Northwestern, who finished second in the meet, 58 to 50.

Sparked by the Styron twins, Northeast clipped off first and second place and Roger Beumer, came in fourth to give the Indians 11 points and Northwestern failed to score in the event.

Speedy Styrons Spearhead Win

By BOB ANDERSON

NATCHITOCHES (Special)

Northeast's Iron twins, Dave and Don Styron, paced the Indians to a runaway triumph in the Gulf States Conference track meet last night as nine records were broken and one tied.

Northeast scored 88 3-5 points. Northwestern was a surprising second with 67 1-10. McNeese, last year's champion came in third with 59, and Louisiana Tech ran fourth with 58 4-5. South-eastern copped 15 points, and Southwestern 7 1-5.

The fleet Styrons scored 36 of Northeast's points, more than two of the conference schools totaled. Don scored 19 with wins in both hurdle events, a second in the 220 to brother Dave, and anchored the winning 440 and mile relay teams.

Dave won the 100 and 220, finished fourth in the broad jump and led off the 440 and mile relay teams for 17 points.

Northeast took eight of the 17 first places, including wins in all three relays. The Indians broke four records and tied another.

Records fell in the javelin, high and low hurdles, the mile and two mile, the broad jump, the 880, the pole vault, and the two mile run. Dave Styron tied the record of 9:7 in the 100.

Northeast's Dale Hoffpauir broke the javelin mark with a heave of 211 feet and ¼ inch.

Don Styron shattered the high hurdle mark with a 14.2 clocking and the low hurdles record with a time of 23.1.

Len Chisholm bettered his mile record by winning a great duel with Northeast's Buddy Eiland in the time of 4:16.0. It was Chisholm's best run of the year, a full second under his previous top.

Eiland came back to crack the two mile mark in a duel with McNeese's Jack Frater and Stan Krowski with a 9:41.9 time, almost 10 seconds under the record. Eiland duelled with Frater for the first six laps and then finished strong to beat out Krowski by about 15 yards. The spent Frater finished far back in fourth place.

Don Troutman bested his broad jump mark with a leap of 23 feet, 7½ inches and Clayton Fontenot of McNeese edged Tech's Russell Lewis in the 880 with a record-setting time of 1:54.1.

Jim Allen went over the rod at 13 feet, 2 and ¼ inches to break the pole vault record he held with two others.

Northeast's famed mile relay team won by approximately 40 yards to shatter the record with a 3:16.7 time.

Northeast took over the team lead after the century dash, the second event of the night and never lost it, building the margin in the late stages.

The javelin and discus were completed yesterday morning and the other 15 events last night.

Louisiana Tech lost a healthy chance for third place in the healthy duelling for the 880 relay. Battling for second place in the event at the end of the third lap, Tech's Bob McCrory and Jim Tullos, bloated their pass, dropping the baton, and failing to finish.

Southwestern was disqualified in the 880 relay and only four teams finished.

The mile and two mile produced the night's most exciting races. Eiland led in the first lap of the mile, but Chisholm took over at the end of the second lap and held the lead the rest of the way, finishing seven feet in front of the Farmerville freshman.

Frater and Eiland jockeyed for the lead in the first five laps of the two mile, with Frater in front by the sixth lap and Eiland went ahead easily but lost the lead in the seventh to Krowski.

Eiland, however, pushed himself to a driving finish on the eighth, overtaking Krowski and leading by 15 yards at the finish.

In the 100, Northeast's Don Reynolds and Tech's Pat Garrett finished in a near deadheat for second place.

Cond place behind Dave Styron, with Garrett edging into second place.

In the 880 dash, McNeese's Clayton Fontenot and Tech's Russell Lewis gave out on the final by about three feet.

Don Styron, running in the 220 for the second time this season, edged Garrett for second place in the event, as brother, Don came in with a 21.1 clocking, only 1-

MONROE, WEST MONROE ENTERED

La-Ark Amateur Baseball Loop To Open Play Friday

After several months of cracker barrel talks, hush-beating and recruiting, the long-proposed Louisiana-Arkansas amateur baseball league becomes a reality this weekend with a full schedule of games slated to open the circuit action Friday and Saturday.

The six-team loop, originated and promoted by Bastrop businessman Leonard Pratt, will play a 20-game schedule ending July 26. Entered in the league are Monroe, West Monroe, Bastrop, Dubach, Oak Grove and Crossett, Ark.

The league is made up of 18-man teams, with each player carefully screened to assure amateur status. Anyone who has signed a professional contract will be ineligible for play. Players are in the 18-year-old group and over.

Managers include Bob Carter, Monroe; Dave McKenzie, West Monroe; Lucian Smith, Oak Grove; "Jelly" Norris, Dubach; Bill Edwards, Crossett; and Leon Langston, Bastrop.

An all-star game, pitting the league leaders against the top players from the other five teams, is scheduled for July 11.

All games will be played on Friday night and Sunday afternoon each week with the exception of games in West Monroe and Oak Grove. West Monroe will play Saturday afternoon and Oak Grove will travel to Lake Providence for its Saturday night contests.

Games will be seven-inning affairs, except at Dubach where the encounters will be nine-inning contests.

Opening games Friday night send Oak Grove to Dubach at 8 and Monroe to Bastrop at 7:30. Crossett plays at West Monroe Saturday afternoon at 2:30.

SELECTED BY COACHES

Tribe's O'Conner On All-GSC Nine

NATCHITOCHES, (Special) — Representatives of the six member schools of the Gulf States conference elected new officers, named an all-conference baseball team, restricted baseball scheduling, approved a December invitational cage tourney, and voted down an unexpected attempt to change eligibility rules at a four-hour spring meeting Friday night at Northwestern State College.

Dr. Rivers Nesom, of Southeastern, was elected president; Edward Wylie, Northeast State, vice president; and Frank Rolufs, McNeese State, re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Much discussion resulted from a request of the presidents' council, made up of presidents of the six GSC Colleges, for a report and copies of proposed constitutional change, apparently motivated by excessive scheduling in some sports.

As a result, basketball games were restricted to 26, excluding post-season games, to conform to NCAA and NAIA policies, effective with the 1960-61 schedule. Baseball scheduling was restricted to 26 playing dates, excluding holidays, and rained out games were not to be rescheduled.

A yearly GSC invitational basketball tournament, beginning December, 1960 at Southwestern in Lafayette and continuing on a rotating basis, was also approved.

On recommendation of the tract committee it was agreed that formal presentation of all GSC trophies would be made at the annual meeting beginning Saturday night at Demon Stadium. The football committee recommended that GSC games be played under NCAA rules and asked the executive committee to study interpretation of rules governing work scholarships for athletes by member schools.

Although a request by Coach Morris Osborne of Francis T. Nichols College for admission was not approved because of eligibility requirements, member schools were urged to help the Thibodeaux college in every way.

The executive committee was asked to study the possibility of affiliation with the NCAA.

Sports Slate Workout Today At Northeast

The Monroe Sports, pointing for the La-Ark League opener in Bastrop Friday night, will hold another practice session this afternoon at three o'clock on the Northeast diamond, coach Bob Carter said last night.

Carter reported he was well pleased with the progress of the team in recent workouts. The squad will be cut to the 18-man limit after today's practice.

Little Boys

Chapman gave up only two hits as he pitched Louisiana Power and Light to a 13-4 win over Sinclair. Fowler accounted for both hits with two home runs. Hasenplough suffered the loss.

Farmer-Heard topped Pan Am 6-5, in other action. Jim Hunt tossed for the winners and Shepherd took the defeat. Venable led the farmers with 3-3 and Ezell collected two hits for Pan Am.

BAYER TWO STROKES BACK

Littler Moves Up At Hot Springs

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Steady Gene Littler of Singing Hills, Calif., made his move Saturday in the Hot Springs Open Golf Tournament and annexed the 54-hole lead with an even 200 total.

Littler showed total of 67-69-64 for the three rounds.

Big George Bayer, the second-round leader, slipped to a 1-under-par 71 and dropped into second place at 202. Bayer took a 5-stroke edge into the third round after firing a course record - tying 63 Friday.

Littler was the third leader the tournament has had in three days. Masters champion Art Wall Jr. of Pocono Manor, Pa., jumped out in front with a 63 on opening day.

Both Wall and Bayer had putting difficulties while everything seemed to drop.

Wall shot 71 and wound up in sixth place at 207. Jim Ferree of Crystal River, Fla., held third with 68 and a 204 total.

"I didn't play any better than I have the other two days, except for putting," Littler said.

Giants Score 9-2 Decision Over Redlegs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — First baseman Orlando Cepeda, benched three games for weak hitting, returned Saturday and drove in four runs with a single and a homer as San Francisco whipped Cincinnati 9-2.

Left-Hander Johnny Antonelli, after giving up two runs in the first inning, settled down to register his fifth victory against two losses. He held the Reds to six hits.

Cincinnati starter Brooks Lawrence ran into a batting barrage in the fourth as the Giants scored six runs as many hits before a sun-drenched crowd of 18,911.

EQUALS COMPETITIVE RECORD

Snead Cards Phenomenal 59 To Take 8-Stroke Lead

By GEORGE BOWEN

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—Sam Snead, in the twilight of one of golf's greatest careers, shot his best competitive round and one of the best ever in the United States—a fantastic 59—in Saturday's third round of the Sam Snead Festival.

Snead, who will be 47 on May 27, was 11 strokes under par on the 6,317-yard course where he has been pro for more than a quarter of a century. Only one other competitive 59 for 18 holes has been recorded by Earl Fry of Alameda in a Northern California tournament on a municipal course.

The Professional Golfers Assn. tournament record low is 60. It has been carded by seven golfers, the most recent being Snead himself in winning the 1957 Dallas Open.

The barrage of nine birdies and an eagle left Snead with a 54-hole total of 196—14 under par—going into the final round of the $10,000 affair Sunday.

He has an 8-stroke lead over runner-up Dutch Harrison of St. Louis, who started the day leading Snead by a stroke with a 36-hole total of 198. Harrison carded his third straight 68 for a 54-hole total of 204.

Husky Mike Souchak of Grosinger, N.Y., fired a 66 to move into third place at 205 followed by Ed Oliver of Denver at 206. Oliver also had a 66.

Snead's score does not count as a PGA competitive record because the tournament here is not PGA-sponsored.

"This is my highlight, I always wanted to break 60 in a tournament one time," drawled the lanky mountaineer.

Snead, who has won four of the past 11 tournaments on his home grounds, for once putted like a demon. His eagle 3 on the 483-yard 15th hole was scored on a 35-foot putt.

"I didn't know it could be so easy," he joked.

Snead thought his dream of breaking 60 expired on the next to last hole. A 6-foot putt for a birdie hit the cup and bounced out.

"I figured I had one more chance," he related. "So I fired right at the pin on the 18th."

That was his second shot, a No. 5 iron from 165 yards away. The ball sailed true as a homing pigeon, stopping only two feet from the hole.

Royal Orbit Streaks Home First In Richest Preakness

By RAY AYRES
BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — Royal Orbit, after trailing the field for half a mile, cut loose with a tremendous drive rounding the turn into the stretch at Pimlico Saturday and pulled away to win the $190,300 Preakness Stakes.

With jockey Willie Harnatz in the saddle, Royal Orbit, blocked repeatedly in the Kentucky Derby two weeks ago when he finished fourth, took the lead a full quarter of a mile from the finish.

Then with a tremendous drive through the stretch he pulled away from the 10 other thoroughbreds in the world's richest race for three-year-olds to haul down a winner's purse of $136,200.

Brookmeade Stable's Sword Dancer was second in the second jewel in racing's triple crown with Duce third.

Royal Orbit skimmed across the finish line four full lengths in front to bring a grin of contentment to trainer Reggie Cornell.

A year ago Cornell shipped the famed Silky Sullivan east for a crack at the triple crown classics only to have old Silky run miserably in both the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness. He was not kept around for the Belmont Stakes.

"Someday I'll be back with a better horse," Cornell vowed as he shipped the Irishman back to California.

Cornell was back sooner than expected and with a tremendous horse. Once Royal Orbit started to pick up his rivals as he charged down the backstretch, and made his bid on the final turn with his bright red silks shining in the sunlight, the 33rd running of the Preakness was all over.

Sword Dancer, nosed out of the Kentucky Derby by Tomy Lee and ridden Saturday by Willie Shoemaker, the boy who beat him at Churchill Downs, tried gamely.

On and on rolled Royal Orbit to complete the trip in 1:57 flat, the fifth fastest running of the Maryland classic but far off the track and stakes record of 1:54 3-5 set by Nashua in 1955.

Royal Orbit was third choice in the betting with First Landing the favorite and Sord Dancer the second choice.

First Landing, with Eddie Arcaro aboard seeking a seventh triumph in the Preakness, ran out of gas on the turn into the stretch and dropped out of contention once he reached the head of the straightaway. Arcaro, once his mount was beaten, did not ride him out and First Landing finished ninth.

Marauder, at odds of 198 to 1, was a surprising fourth with Festival King, a 225 to 1 chance, fifth. Then came Our Dad, Rico Tesio, Manassa Mauler, First Landing, Open View and Sundown 2nd.

Prep Sprinter Ties World Mark In Century Dash

ENGLEWOOD, N. J. (AP) — John Mostyn, 18-year-old senior from New Jersey's Bergen Catholic High School, broke the oldest existing schoolboy record and tied a world record when he was clocked in 9.3 seconds for 100 yards at the Englewood Memorial meet Saturday.

Jesse Owens set the schoolboy mark in 1933 with :09.4 while Mel Patton, Dave Sime and Bobby Morrow have :09.3 times in the book.

Mostyn was locked in :09.3 by four timers. One watch caught him in :09.2, another in :09.4.

Meet officials said they would submit Mostyn's mark as a national schoolboy record immediately. There was no wind gauges on hand, but Chief Judge Bill Carr said there was only a cross-wind when Mostyn hit the tape.

JUNE 17-19

Jaycee Jr. Golf Tourney Slated

The Monroe Jaycee Junior Golf Tournament will be held at the local Municipal course June 17 through 19, Jaycee committee chairman Louis Whitfield announced yesterday.

Sponsored by the Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce and a local soft drink bottling company, the tournament will be open to all boys of this area under 18 years of age as of Aug. 15, 1959.

Whitfield said competition would be held in two flights, a junior flight for boys 12 and under and a senior flight for boys 13 through 17.

Four senior players will advance from the local tournament to the state meet in Jonesboro July 7-10. Qualifiers in the state tournament will go to the national finals in Portsmouth, Virginia, Aug. 22-29.

Last year, Jim Harper, Joe Thomas, Steve Allen and Gene Adams went to the state meet from the Monroe tournament and Harper qualified for the national tourney in Phoenix, ranking among the top 10 until the meet's final day when illness forced him to withdraw.

Thomas missed qualifying for the national meet by two strokes last year. Clayton Cole qualified for the state tournament but was unable to make the trip and was replaced.

An entry fee of $3.00 will be charged for the local tournament. Also included in the tournament will be hold-in-one and driving contests.

Prizes will be awarded to the top two golfers in each flight.

Behra Turns In Best Time For Pau Cup Races

PAU, France (AP)—Jean Behra of France, turned in the best performance Saturday for two one-lap time trials for Formula II racing cars in preparation for Monday's Pau Cup races. Behra drove his Porsche Special around the 1.72 mile course in 1:36.2 on his first trial, then bettered it with a 1:35.7 performance, averaging 64.475 miles per hour on the second trial.

Masten Gregory of Kansas City, driving a Cooper, was second in the first trial with a 61.914 m.p.h. average. On his second trial he averaged 63.368 m.p.h. to place fourth.

INDIAN TO APPEAR

Double Main Bill At B&B Monday

The female wrestling segment returns to the B&B Arena Monday night in a double main event card, backed by a rematch between a couple of gladiators who are making themselves well known in local mat action.

Naval Academy Hires Forzano As Assistant

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Navy completed its football coaching staff Saturday by hiring Rick Forzano, backfield coach at Kent State, as an assistant.

Forzano fills a vacancy created by the elevation of Wayne Hardin to the head coaching job after the resignation of Eddie Erdelatz last month.

The 30-year-old Forzano will serve as offensive backfield coach.

Forzano never played collegiate football. He was injured playing freshman ball at Kent State in Kent, Ohio, and cotors advised him never to play again.

He moved into the college coaching field in 1956 as an assistant at Wooster college, and for the past two years he has been backfield coach at Kent State.

Cecile Blievens, a comely young lass reputed to be straight from an Indian reservation in the hills of Oklahoma, tangles with Olga Zapeda, Mexico City's contribution to the mat circuit, in one half of the double bill.

Frankie Kovak and Firpo Zybysko, who battled to a draw after a ring mishap last week, are paired in the other half of the main event attraction.

Both matches will be over an hour time limit with two falls to win.

In a preliminary last week, Zybysko and Kovak accidentally rammed their skulls together and were unable to continue, with the match resulting in a draw. However, both revived in time and were on opposite sides of the ring in an ensuing tag match. Again the bald-headed, mustachioed Zybysko came out on the losing end.

A 20-minute opener, featuring Al Massey of New Orleans and Prince Omar of Miami and Persia, will begin the night's action. The match will be decided by a single fall.

Other than having a reputation of being a fine grappler, little is known of the Indian maiden, Miss Blievens. Miss Zapeda has appeared here before on infrequent occasions.

Sin Not Real Main Doctrine Of Scientists

By LOUIS CASSELS United Press International

On Thursday evening in February 1866, a frail young widow named Mary Baker Eddy was seriously injured by a fall on an icy sidewalk in Lynn, Mass.

She was carried unconscious to a nearby home. For two days she remained in critical condition and her friends despaired of her life. Sunday afternoon, Mrs. Eddy asked for a Bible. She read in the ninth chapter of Matthew the account of Christ's healing of a man with palsy.

Although she had read the familiar passage many times before, Mrs. Eddy found in it, on this occasion, a new significance. After a brief prayer, she closed the Bible, arose from bed, dressed herself and walked into the parlor to greet her startled friends.

Out of this event, and Mrs. Eddy's subsequent reflections, grew on of America's major religious denominations—the Christian Science Church. Formally established in Boston in 1879, it now has more than 3,200 branches in 48 countries. In keeping with Mrs. Eddy's wish, the church does not publish membership statistics, but it is known to have several hundred thousand adherents.

EVIL IS "UNREAL"

Christian Science is usually identified in the public mind with spiritual healing. But the church's distinctive teachings about health can be understood only in the context of its basic theology, which is outlined in Mrs. Eddy's book, "Science and Health, With Key to the Scriptures."

Christians Scientists believe that God is "infinite good" and that all "reality" in the universe is necessarily good, because God created it.

The evil, sickness and death which men think they see in the world could not have come from God; hence they must be "unreal." They afflict men only so long as "erring human belief" causes them to seem real. When men achieve true "spiritual understanding," the "illusions" of sin and sickness vanish, just as a bad dream evaporates when the dreamer awakes.

Christians Scientists say that thousands of people have been healed of every kind of disease and ailment, from cancer to broken bones, by the application of this insight. They do not regard these healings as "miracles" but as the natural working of divine laws which are impartially available to all men.

It should be emphasized that, in Christian Science teaching, the "healing" that flows from apprehension of spiritual truth is not confined to physical illness, but also applies to family and business problems, social injustices, psychological tensions and moral confusions.—The Christian Science synonym for what other churches would call human sins.

JESUS THE WAY-SOWER

When Christian Science denies the reality of sin, it parts company with the main stream of Christian tradition. This holds that evil, however it got into God's creation, is a very real thing, and that Christ's mission on earth was to deliver men from its bondage and enable them to enter into a new relationship of love with God and each other.

Although Christian Scientists acknowledge Jesus in their formal creed as the son of God, their favorite term for him is "The Way-sower." They believe that Christ saved men, not from their sins but from their misconceptions, by demonstrating in his healing ministry and in his resurrection "the allness of soul and spirit and the nothingness of matter."

The Christian Science Church has no ordained clergy. The healing ministry is entrusted to "practitioners," men and women who are licensed for this service after careful examination of their understanding of Christian Science doctrines.

In local churches Sunday worship services are conducted by "readers" elected by the congregation. Most churches also sponsor one or more "reading rooms."

Centennial To Be Observed By LaSalle Church

JENA (Special)—The centennial of the New Union Baptist Church located near Tullis is scheduled for Sunday, May 24, it was announced today.

Services will begin at 9:45 a.m. and continue through 3 p.m. The noonday meal will be served on the grounds of the church and the public is invited to attend the day's services, according to the Rev. E. D. Dearmon, pastor.

The annual homecoming message, the topic of which is the church's 100th year, will be preached by the Rev. Harvey McCure at 11:15 a.m.

Following the noonday luncheon, there will be a 45-minute period of testimonials and special music. L. C. Russell will present a history of the church and all living pastors of the church will be recognized and honor will be paid to all deceased pastors.

At 3 p.m. the congregation and visitors will adjourn to the New Union Cemetery where a wreath will be placed on the grave of the Rev. Jim Mills who was pastor of the church for 28 years.

The centennial will highlight the homecoming which is held annually at the old church.

G. W. BLANKENSHIP Historian To Address Local Congregation

The College Place Baptist Church will have as its visiting speaker today at 11 a.m. G. W. Blankenship, past president of the Gideons of Arkansas.

Mr. Blankenship is associate teacher of the Brooks-Hays Bible Class in the Second Baptist Church of Little Rock. He is well known as a student of Civil War History and owns one of the largest libraries on Abraham Lincoln in the nation comprising some 1600 books and pamphlets. At the present time he is Public Relations Director for an advertising firm, member of the Board of Directors of the Little Rock and Assistant Mayor of the city. He is active in religious circles and speaks often from pulpits of churches.

At 7:30 p.m. all of the choirs of the church will present a Sermon in Song entitled "New Life for You." Participating will be the Church Choir, the Concord Choir, the Carol Choir, the Girl's Ensemble, the Girl's Chorus in an hour long presentation of gospel hymns and gospel songs, Mrs. L. N. Blair is director of this work, and Miss Betty Pope and Mrs. Joe Caskey assist her in directing the choirs.

College Place Baptist Church is this month celebrating the sixth anniversary of their present pastor, Reverend T. Earl Ogg. The church has had a tremendous strides forward in this period of time. There has been a total of 1423 additions to the church in this period of time. The Sunday School enrollment has increased from 867 to 1464 and the average attendance in Sunday School from 522 to 835. The Training Union has more than doubled in enrollment from 284 to 625 and the average attendance from 189 to 400. Likewise the financial side has increased from a budget of approximately $43,000 to $102,000. In the past six years $141,544 have been given to mission causes outside the program of the local church. The public is cordially invited to worship with this church which is located in the College Town area of Monroe on Sherrouse Avenue.

Choir Clinic Held For Area Methodists

A church music clinic for the Monroe District of the Methodist Church was held recently at the First Methodist Church here. Plans call for holding the clinic annually for the purpose of improving the quality of church choirs in the district. It was reported more than 50 church musicians of Methodist churches in the Monroe district attended the conference. Kenneth Adams, chairman, welcomed those attending the two-day session in a general assembly before classes began.

Classes were provided for the needs of all working in the music program of churches led by teachers of the Monroe area. Conducted by the Rev. Eugene Smith, director of the McGuffey Methodist Church, West Monroe; Sight Singing by R. Frank Parker, teacher of piano and voice, Monroe; Music Theory, Eloy Pomina, director of First Methodist Church and of Northeast State College; Le Roy Anspach, organist, St. Paul's Methodist Church, Monroe; Organ Playing, Dr. Marshall Bretz, Louisiana Tech, Ruston; Music Committee, Jack Dew, McGuffey Methodist Church, West Monroe.

The First Methodist Church of Rayville will serve as host for the clinic scheduled for 1960.

Dr. Bradley To Fill Pulpit At Covenant Church

Dr. Preston Bradley, minister of the People's Church in Chicago, will deliver the sermon at Covenant Presbyterian Church today at the morning worship period, at 11 a.m. Rev. Wayne Gray, pastor, announced.

Dr. Bradley is known as one of the foremost extemporaneous orators in the United States and has been invited annually to speak in churches in Europe.

Rev. Gray pointed out the services were open to the public.

In the northwest corner of South Dakota, a flying priest—the Rev. Donald E. Murray—combines flying and ranching for a group of boys from broken homes.

Independence Recalls Story Of Mormons

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—The dominant landmark in Harry Truman's home town is the oval copper dome of a still unfinished building.

It's the world headquarters of the 170,000-member Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

The Reorganized Latter Day Saints are related to—but are not to be confused with—the 1,400,000-member Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (Mormons).

The near completion of the building marks another milestone in the story of a denomination that is growing and thriving in an area from which it was once driven by mobs.

The site was dedicated in 1837 by Joseph Smith Jr., founding prophet and first president of the Mormon Church, which he had organized only the year before in Fayette, N.Y.

Independence was to have been the Zion of the Mormons, the City of God. But the promises of a bright future in what was then a frontier outpost did not last.

Two years after its dedication almost all evidences of the early settlement were obliterated by an angry mob.

The mob chased the Mormons across the Missouri River and burned more than 200 homes belonging to church members. Through the years, the property was lost to squatters and back taxes.

The Mormons scattered with many of them settling in Nauvoo, Ill. The Prophet Joseph Smith and his brother, Hyrum, were slain by a mob in Carthage, Ill., in 1844.

A critical division of authority followed the slaying of the leader. A quorum of 12 took over the leadership and it was this group that migrated to Utah in 1846 to establish the headquarters of the Mormon Church.

But some members did not go—among them the men instrumental in setting up the Reorganized Latter Day Saints in 1852. They took the position that the Utah group had departed from the teachings of Joseph Smith and, therefore, was an apostate group.

At a general conference of the Reorganized group in 1860, Joseph Smith III, oldest son of the founder, was called to the presidency. His sons, Frederick and Israel, later headed the church and last October, William Wallace Smith, a half-brother, became the fifth president.

It was not until 1906 that headquarters of the Reorganized Latter Day Saints was returned to Independence, the original choice of the founder, from which the Mormons had been driven three-quarters of a century before.

Plans Underway For Centennial Of Area Church

COLUMBIA (Special)—The First Methodist Church here is making plans to celebrate its hundredth anniversary on June 14, it was announced today.

"Judge Vincent Mouser is preparing to church history and it will be ready for presentation by that date," the church pastor, Rev. Douglas Williams said.

In addition, Mrs. Adele Redditt and Rev. S. A. Seegars were reported scanning the church rolls for the names of former members. It was hoped by members of the congregation a number of families would return to Columbia to celebrate the occasion.

An old-fashioned basket lunch following the morning service was included in the plans with special music under the direction of Owen Brown, Mrs. Charles Polard and Mrs. Earl M. Harris serving as organist.

Rev. Williams and Dr. E. L. Carroll, chairmen of the board of stewards of the church, were arranging the worship plans of the day.

Monroe Minister To Speak Today At Area Church

Dr. James T. Harris, District Superintendent of the Monroe District of The Methodist Church, will deliver the message at the Rayville Methodist Church today.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: Does it ruin your Christian testimony to wear cosmetics? I read about Jezebel, and I would like to have it explained.

ANSWER: Quite often people write me about the use of cosmetics. I have passed it off as irrelevant, inasmuch as I have considered this a personal matter. But so many have asked about it, I have decided to devote a column to my opinion on cosmetics.

Of course, cosmetics cover a wide range of items: perfume, powder, lipstick, rouge, etc. The Bible says: "Man looketh upon the outward appearance, but God looketh upon the heart." So, I think the motive employed in the use of beauty aids would determine whether it is right or wrong. If a woman makes up, as did Jezebel, to entice men in the wrong way, I think that would be wrong.

But if she uses beauty aids in good taste to make herself look neat and respectable, then I see nothing wrong with it. Some time ago a dear washed-out looking lady asked me if it was wrong to wear make-up. I thought how much nicer she would look with a little color in her cheeks, and a little color in her hair, and I said: "No, my good lady, I think you could use a little."

I don't think Christians need to look like a mortuary aid. They should not appear gaudy, nor artificial. But a sensible use of cosmetics, I think, is in good taste. I have known worldly people who don't use it, and committed Christians who do, and the other way around. Whatever we do should be for the glory of God.

THE HOME SHIFT

Meat Survey Set This Week

By MILDRED SWIFT

Sometime during the next two weeks, a Ouachita Parish housewife will come knocking at your door. That means that your name has been selected, at random, to help LSU with a meat survey. You, Mrs. Homemaker, will benefit from this survey.

Such a survey was run a few years ago that led to the better grade of pork you are now buying. It was learned, in that study, that you women wanted fat trimmed from the pork you bought. You wanted a pig raised that would produce less fat — a meaty type hog.

Now, back to the survey that begins in the Twin Cities, tomorrow. The representative will want some information from you. Please stop and give her about thirty minutes of your time. That will make you a part of an important study put on by your own university home economics department. The compiled information should be of great benefit to all of us in the near future.

GARDEN JOBS

The county agent tells us not to worry about the tip moth working on the new growth of our pines. According to those gentlemen, this tip moth will only prune your pines, making them denser. If you feel you must spray use 10 per cent DDT and repeat every ten days until the insects leave or die.

If you have found some of your bearded iris looking sick, turning brown, and the base of the foliage is water soaked, then you must have a rhizome rot. Unless it's a prized bulb, dig and discard. If you must keep the bulb it can be saved if the rot has just started. Dig the plant, cut away the diseased tissue, dust the cut surface, Sun for a day or two and re-plant. Disinfect the soil but best move the iris to a new location. Root pruning is a practice we'll have to do more about as our gardens become smaller. That is — if you're the average gardener and want to plant pretty heavy. Root pruning is done with a sharp spade. Just cut straight down. I wouldn't advise pruning all around a plant in one session. This would probably be too great a shock.

Root pruning a deciduous shrub now, that you plan to move next winter, would be fine. You'd encourage feeder roots. You'd sever very long roots that would break in the transplanting, anyhow. Nurseries practice this all the time. Remember when planting your hibiscus that those planted in the shade will not give you as many blooms. You'll get more bud drop, too. These plants belong to the cotton family and must have a well drained soil.

Hibiscus blooms only last one day, but they bloom so profusely you hardly notice that. The blooms keep just as well out of water. If you're using these blooms for corsages, place them in the refrigerator until you're ready to make the corsage or wear it.

ROSE TROUBLES
The most serious threat to roses is black spot, and I know you think we talk about that all the time. Leaf spot is a fungus disease. The organism gets into the tissues of the plant and once there, can't be ejected. An infected leaf will remain infected for its entire life.

The best plan is to prevent this black spot. It's important to

GOOD READING GUIDE

New Titles Added At Parish Library

By FRANCES FLANDERS

Ouachita Parish Libraries
Each week a number of new titles are added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Library. Among this week's additions are several books which are certain to have great appeal. "Cone of silence" is the title of David Beaty's new book. This is the story of civil aviation and the pilots who test the new planes, often at the risk of their own lives. It is a story of danger and romance and has just enough mystery in it to make it popular with a variety of readers. "The third choice" by Elizabeth Janeway is the story of a search into the human heart, told on two levels of characterization. Mrs. Janeway has succeeded in bringing to life, two women and telling their story well. This is a book you will not want to miss. "I'll die for you" by Stephen Ransome is an intriguing story of an impersonation which almost had fatal results. It is a story which the mystery enthusiast will not want to miss.

The young adult section is one of the most popular sections of the library and new books are placed here each week. Leading the list in this category is "The witch of blackbird pond" by Elizabeth G. Spenser, a very fine book which received the Newbery medal this year. Other books which will appeal to girls are "Carol of long chance mine" by Helen Reynolds; "Miss Gail" by Helen Miller; "Maid of honor" by Marjorie Paradis.

Young men will want to read "The mystery of Barrowmead Hill" by Bertram Edwards and "The five-dollar watch mystery" by Patrick O'Conner and they will be especially taken with "The global atlas" by Frank Debenham. All young adults who have a diet problem will want to read "The teen-age diet book" by Ruth West.

The field of non-fiction offers a great variety of material, ranging from the practical to the reudite. Some of the practical titles are "How to get that part time job", published by the Arco publishing Co.; "The ministry of preaching" by Roy Pearson; "Streamlining your executive workload" by Ray Josephs; "The farm journal and Country gentleman country cook-book" by Nell Nichols; "The gourmet kitchen" by Evelyn R. Patterson; "The intelligent layman's medical dictionary" by Harry Swartz; and "My camera pays off" by Ozzie Sweet. Two new scientific books are "Introduction to geophysics" by Benjamin F. Howell and "Modern chemistry" by Charles E. Dull. People interested in forests and forest products will want to read "The great forest" by Richard Lillard and "Forest management" by H. A. Meyer. While rose gardeners will be glad to know that we have the American Rose Annual for 1959.

Three new plays are "The last days of Lincoln" by Mark Van Doren; J. B. by Archibald MacLeish (which just won the Pulitzer prize for drama) and "The little moon of Alban" and "A wind from the South" by James Costigan. Artists will want to see "Picasso" by Roland Penrose; "French are of the 18th century" by Albert Glor and a biography of "Velasquez" by a new book on architecture is "The golden book" by Henry Hope Reed. There has recently been a great awakening of interest in books about the Second World War and there

Fine Showing Of New Styles

By AUDREY DAWSON

The women of the parish really did themselves proud in the 69th show last week. There were 69 entries and we had a wonderful day. The committee in charge of the event was Mrs. C. D. Henderson, Mrs. Leon Caldwell, Mrs. M. T. Salley, Mrs. J. G. Haynes and Mrs. Cleburne White.

COUNCIL MEMBERS

Please Home Demonstration Club members, don't forget our council meeting has been changed to Friday, May 29th at 10:00 a.m., Agricultural Building, West Monroe. This is a very important meeting. The president, Mrs. Henderson and program chairman, Mrs. Cleburne White, asked me to tell you we have as our guest speaker, Mr. N. E. Thames, district agent of Agricultural Extension, and we know you do not want to miss his talk.

SURVEY

Ten homemakers will begin the survey you have been hearing and reading about being conducted in the Twin Cities by Miss Betty Wood, assistant professor of home economics from LSU. Be sure, Mrs. Homemaker, if the ladies knock at your door, please give them just a few minutes of your time.

STORING CLOTHES

I believe old man winter is gone so it's time you, Mrs. Homemaker, get your winter clothes ready to take a rest for the summer. Molds and insects are the two most harmful enemies of clothes. Thorough cleaning before storage helps to prevent damage from both of these enemies.

Mold develops in damp, warm, poorly aired and poorly lighted places. Sun and air clothing and other articles stored in closets from time to time. Moisture and heat in a closed bag make an ideal place for mold to grow.

Clothes moths and carpet beetles are the most damaging insects in clothing. Thoroughly clean all woolen garments to kill eggs. Sunning and hard brushing

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Battle Vines From Top Down

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Of all the sweet smelling plants common to our Southland, the Chinese-and-Japanese honeysuckle is the most widespread. In fact, there is surely not a corner of the South except in the high mountains and in the deep swamps where this invasive vine has not established itself. When it blooms every year, we exult in its fragrance at night. When it has passed flowering time, however, we slave over it trying to eradicate it from gardens, grounds and woods because it is wearing out its welcome.

FROM ORIENT

It is rather surprising that this oriental plant was not sent home to England until 1805. In that year, the Court of Directors of the East India Company had it sent by Mr. William Kerr in their ship, "the Hope, Capt. Pendergrass." This was the same botanist from Kew Gardens for whom they named Kerria japonica. In America, this vine was much admired and sold by the nurseries as a choice fragrant vine.

Like many other Chinese plants which have found a home here, the honeysuckle has come to be a very great menace to our woods and to the wild flowers. As we have mentioned in the column several times, we shall have to defend our wild vines and plants from it or face their eventual destruction. Many a large tree in our woods has the deep scars of the honeysuckle vines that tried to choke it to death when it was a sapling. Few little trees can ever survive this strangling. Although honeysuckle is vulnerable to weed killers, the dead vines left behind after its destruction with these chemicals look very bad. So one is faced with the choice of spraying it first and then pulling down the dead vines or pulling down the new shoots and then spraying the new shoots as they reappear. If you have a great deal of honeysuckle to get rid of, you can save some money by removing the vines first. It will take much less spray to kill the roots through the new shoots.

We reported some years ago in the column that some institutions had found it possible to spray honeysuckle which had encroached on periwinkle patches. The practice is to wait till August and September when the periwinkle has hardened off its foliage for the winter, and then spray the honeysuckle. This practice does not seem to harm the periwinkle at all.

If we are going to enjoy the are two new titles in this category. They are "War is a private affair" by Edmund G. Love and "D-Day the 6th of June, 1944" by David Howarth. Coin collectors will welcome "A simplified guide to collecting American coins" by Hugh M. Knight.

Filter Butts Pose Problem In Etiquette

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — There has been very little written about garden etiquette and until recently there was really no need to say more than:

1. Return borrowed tools promptly and in the same condition they were received.
2. Never step on seeded areas or areas you think may be seeded.
3. Never give in to an impulse to pull weeds in someone else's garden without permission. Those little spears of grass may be the owner's prized miniature gladioli; that purslane may be portulacae; that Joe Pye - weed may there be there by design rather than chance.
4. If you are a cigarette smoker, ask the groundskeeper what to do about the butts. Some gardeners prefer that you throw them on the ground to burn out to ashes; others ask that you spit them horizontally scattering the tobacco and then crumple the paper into a tiny ball which will disappear into the grass.

Etiquette's item four has a new aspect, however, which so far has defied solution. That is the increasing popularity of the filter cigarette. Filters don't burn out. If one opens them up they make more of a mess than if left alone. And no smoker, as far as my observation goes, carries an ashtray with him. Nothing is uglier than a filter-butt-studded lawn. Receptacles may work when placed around a sitting area but you can't scatter enough of them around the garden to do much good. Best way of controlling the filter cigarette problem — and it may be a little rude — is to ostentatiously bend over and pick up a butt shortly after it is thrown.

There are so many outdoor chores to be undertaken now that one has little time for such unnecessary work as picking up cigarette butts. In most sections of the country the soil has warmed up sufficiently to set the seed-helps to remove insect eggs. Clothes and storage containers need protection in order to completely control insects. Buy a high quality mothproofing substance. Read the directions on the label and use the required amount to kill fabric pests. Still hanging paradichlorobenzene containers in a closet will not do the job.

Spray the inside surface of all closets and storage containers with a good insecticide. Also spray suits and coats along the seams in the cuffs under collars and around the hems. If you want your clothes to be in good shape this fall, get them in good storage now.

FREEZING FOODS

It's that time of the year again when we hear everyone saying, "My food freezer is about empty. I must make plans to fill it again." Here's some things to remember if you want quality frozen foods.

Use only moisture vapor proof containers and wrapping materials. When buying freezer paper look for the word laminated on the wrapper or box.

Vegetables should be young and freshly gathered. Louisiana grown fruits best adapted for freezing are: peaches, berries and figs.

Apples to be used in pies and cobblers freeze satisfactorily. Blanch vegetables according to proportion of one gallon boiling water to 1 lb. or 1 quart of the prepared vegetable.

When preparing peaches, apples or figs for freezing, use one of the recommended methods of controlling discoloration — ascorbic acid or one of the commercially prepared mixtures. Most people spend more time and energy going around problems than in trying to solve them.

lings into their permanent growing positions.

If the plants are going from a flat into the garden bed, take as much soil with that plant and its roots as possible. Keep the plant out of the ground the very shortest possible time. Put it into a hole large enough to accommodate the roots comfortably — and not all balled up. Use plenty of water, both to settle the soil around the roots and to help get the plant over the shock of movement. And cover the plant for a couple of days as it recovers.

Any plant dug up from its growing place suffers a certain amount of setback from the disturbance. If you are buying seedlings, it may be a bit more expensive, but invest in seedlings growing in plant bands — light, bottomless wooden containers which may be peeled away from plant and soil, which may then be set into the ground with all minimum of setback. Those who raise their own seedlings might experiment with growing plants in special pots of pressed peat and other organic substances which may go right into the soil along with the seedling.

Public Usage Outgrows Size Of Play Areas

VICKSBURG, Miss. (Special) — The American people are rediscovering the great outdoors. In 1957 visitation at recreational areas bordering Army Corps of Engineers reservoir projects totaled 84,700,000. Popularity has greatly increased in hunting, fishing, boating, swimming, picnicking and many other outdoor activities and these public use areas provide some of the few remaining places where there are no posted signs.

The recent greatly increased public use has completely outgrown the existing facilities such as access roads, parking areas, drinking water wells, sanitary facilities, picnic and camp site areas, boat launching ramps, and other improvements designed to improve safety, sanitation and greater use of the recreational facilities. For this reason limited funds have been made available to the Corps of Engineers for improving recreational facilities on 35 Corps of Engineer Projects during the fiscal year 1959.

Of these funds, for projects in the U. S. Army Engineer District, Vicksburg, $20,000.00 has been allocated to the Blakely Mountain Reservoir on the Ouachita River and $10,000.00 to Narrows Reservoir on the Little Missouri River. Work is now underway to provide additional facilities and at Blakely Dam, four new comfort stations are being constructed, three wells for drinking water are being drilled, circulation roads for picnic areas are being built as well as parking facilities at these areas, two new swimming areas are being buoyed off and additional concrete picnic tables, fire places and trash cans are being provided. At Narrows Reservoir new facilities being provided are two new comfort stations, drilling two wells for drinking water, and concrete picnic tables, fire places and trash cans.

All of these additional facilities will be completed and ready for use before the summer season begins.

The Corps of Engineers is trying to provide and maintain necessary basic facilities for access and public use which will point the way to full development by non-Federal interests. State and local government are encouraged to develop and operate public parks on Corps of Engineers' lands, subject only to requirements specified in the Master Plans for Reservoir Management.

Swiss Slate Flower Show For Summer

One of the largest flower shows in the world will take place on the shores of the Lake of Zurich, Switzerland from early summer to October 11th. 1,600,000 square feet of ground will be converted into a panorama of beautiful flowers for the first Swiss Horticultural Exhibition.

As part of the exhibition which will cover both shores of the Lake of Zurich, "poets' gardens," "philosophers' gardens," "lovers' gardens" and "French gardens" modeled after those of 18th century Paris will be created. In addition, there will be a variety of modern suburban landscaping on display.

Special features of the Horticultural Exhibition will include music and theatrical performances, fashion shows, ballet and many unique exhibitions of flowers from all over the world. Several restaurants will be constructed which will serve rare Swiss specialties. Transportation for visitors between both shores of the Lake of Zurich will be provided by a chair lift.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Daylily Time Again In Area

By MARY JARDINE

Maytime is here again and the month of May in North Louisiana is daylily time. These versatile flowers are just beginning to bloom in gardens all over the Fifth District and by the latter part of this month will be at their peak.

The name hemerocallis has been given the daylily. The word is derived from the Greek language and means "beautiful for a day"; this name, however, does not reflect the full truth. While it is true that individual flowers last only for a day, some of the well established plants have as many as 50 buds to a scape, which bloom on successive days.

If you dig into daylily lore you will find that Pliny, that great Roman botanist and naturalist, made reference to it sometime during the latter part of the first century, A.D. and prior to 1575, long before the first pioneers ventured across the Atlantic to settle at Jamestown, it was featured in many European gardens.

HYBRIDS

One who is familiar with the newer hybrid daylilies with their great variety of color, form and size would hardly suspect them of being direct descendants of such common plants as the lemon and tawny daylilies. However, our modern daylilies have all been bred from the imported Asiatic species of these plants. Daylilies are one of the most up-and-coming perennials we can choose for our gardens, and they are growing rapidly in popularity. There are over 7,000 named varieties of daylilies from which we may choose. If we select from plants in bloom for our individual needs, the selection is more likely to give us satisfaction and beauty in our garden. With very little care, the plants will grow more beautiful through the years. The plants are simple to grow, require no pampering, and are resistant to most insects and diseases. They can be easily crossed to produce new varieties.

Appropriately enough our exhibitors this week were members of the Dixieland Daylily Society. Each day we have had on exhibit colorful trays of seedling blooms from the gardens of Mrs. Collier

NEW FOR CELESTE

NEW YORK (AP) — A complete change of pace is being prepared for the next stage appearance of Celeste Holm.

Miss Holm, who has appeared in big musical, drama and comedy, is in line for "What A Day!" described as a commentary with music. The story concerns a busy woman's day.

GIELGUD READIES PLAY

NEW YORK (AP) — Broadway's fall season gets a notable early arrival Sept. 17 with Sir John Gielgud and Margaret Leighton in "Much Ado About Nothing."

The production is the same one Gielgud staged in London in 1952 and which set a record run of 227 performances.

Ballet Boss Likes U.S. Audiences

NEW YORK, (AP) — "We specially like the warmth of American audiences," said the big boss of the Bolshoi Ballet after he had seen and heard his famous company applauded time and again in the Metropolitan Opera House.

"The fact that your audiences like us more and more as they see us more and more," he went on, "is due in part to the dancers' response. Finding out that you like them, they like all the more to dance for you."

Were his programs, "Romeo and Juliet," "Swan Lake," "Giselle," "The Sleeping Beauty," and selections of high lights, chosen purposely to please us, or did Russian audiences see the same things?

"The programs are our own choice, and they are the same here as in Moscow," Georgi Orvid told me.

HEADS OPERA

He is director general of the Bolshoi, which puts him in charge of two arts, opera and ballet, and two theaters, the Bolshoi and an associated house. He is also the Soviet Deputy Minister of Culture.

"It shows," he continued, "that you Americans and we Russians have just the same opinions about good things in art."

Occasionally as he spoke I caught a word that sounded like our "spectacle," "choreograph," "theater," and "ballet," and the French word for ticket, "billet." But Orvid talked through an interpreter, an attractive young woman named Julia who learned all her fluent English right at home in Moscow, and who when I told her her blue and white blouse was pretty, spoke up proudly:

"You mean you think I bought it in New York? But I didn't, it's from Moscow."

Orvid said his city had a 10-month opera and ballet season, about a third of it ballet. Even with 100 of his dancers appearing in New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Toronto and Montreal last month and this, 120 were left to perform on their two stages in Moscow. Top prices in one house there are about $3.50 and not much over $2.50 in the other for exactly the same dancers, orchestra and repertoire. The ballet also has the great benefit of a state subsidy of 40 per cent of its costs.

How does a Russian dancer get a start? "There are many groups, or circles, we call them," he explained, "in all the schools. Any particularly gifted youngster is spotted easily, and then taken under the government's protection. He doesn't need to spend any of his own money to study either ballet or opera."

In what specific way does ballet serve the Soviet state? Here, I pointed out, we have one standard, an aesthetic, creative, humanitarian one, while he must keep his government in mind. He illustrated with a couple of the numbers danced here:

GOVERNMENT

"We Stalingraders" obviously is a tribute to World War II soldiers. But can't you also see an advantage to the state in a more abstract work like "Dance Suite"? There certainly is. It shows how Soviet youth feels, it lets the young display their abilities, it reveals how glad they are, and grateful for the kind of life they lead.

"The same ballet that deals with art deals with people, and when it deals with people it also deals with the people's government. Even in your country you can't divide people from art, people from government, and art from government. It all goes together, these things can't be separated."

I mentioned Shostakovich and he answered:

"The composer made a mistake. He got too far from the people. But he soon realized what he'd done and drew close to them again, in his 10th and 11th symphonies"—which American criticism, incidentally, has regarded as particularly uninspired.

Son of a military bandmaster, expert on the trumpet, onetime Moscow Conservatory professor, Orvid has a high forehead with thinning hair apt to leave it higher. His face is round, his eyes small and pale blue, his nose turns up. He looks like a man always ready with a joke. How did it happen he had such a jovial disposition? I asked, like other countrymen of his I'd met here?

CONDEMNED PASTERNAK

He answered with a quick laugh: "You haven't asked me any bad questions."

I told him I been saving one, about Boris Pasternak and the novel "Doctor Zhivago."

"I have read some of the novel but not all of it," he emphasized. "And I feel hostile to it not because that's the proper recommendation opinion but because I honestly disapprove. You (to me) say you like it. But we are better judges of whether it is truthful, and I think it is not."

"Remember, Pasternak didn't fight in our civil war, he sat in his studio all that time. I took part. He has eaten the bread we earned. He doesn't know at what a cost we built our society. I think the book is not creative, and doesn't give a correct picture."

His Bolshoi is the third Russian ballet company to visit America, all sponsored by Russian-born impresario Sol Hurok. Moiseyev came first and scored an unforgettable triumph. Next came the Beryozka Dance Company of which the director, Nadezhda Nadezhkina, is Orvid's wife. But the Bolshoi is really official; on its handsome red curtain you see an effective design motif made out of what looks like "cccp" meaning USSR.

Characters List

The Transatlantic Smiths. By Robert Allerton Parker. Random House, $4.

Tales of American heiresses being married to European titles used to be popular fare in books and newspapers. But the parallel story of the influence exerted by American money on the culture of the Old World is not so familiar. We know about expatriates like the Steins and Henry James, who went to the Continent to do their own individual work. Now Parker tells of another family that worked abroad and spent wisely, that left a proud distinct mark on book and painting, that began as Quakers but shed its brains, energy and uncommon sensitivities to the cultivation of the sensual and sensuous.

In 1851 Robert Pearsall Smith married Hannah Whitall, of the Whitall-Tatum glass works, in Philadelphia; they had three children who grew to be adults and are the principal figures in this intriguing biography.

Mary, born 1864; Logan, born 1865; and Alys, born 1867. Alys was the last to die, just a century after her parents' wedding.

Robert, though taken into the prosperous business owned by his wife's father, finally decided, with the old Quaker gentleman's unhesitating approval, that he should give his time to spreading a good word of human fellowship and salvation. He made two trips abroad, particularly to England and Germany, and for a time, until a possibly unjustified charge of scandal attached to him, won a considerable body of followers. Hannah, in the meantime, wrote best-selling inspirational books.

But most importantly this travel incultured in his family the European habit. Mary studied in Cambridge, where Logan followed her—conversely, Gertrude Stein was to follow brother Leo to the same seat of learning. It was Mary who boldly interested the other Smiths in their half notorious half famous Camden neighbor Walt Whitman—they invited him for a night, he stayed a month.

In 1888 they all moved to England and settled just south of London at Friday's Hill. Here they began to make their literary marks on their generation and ours, too. Alys was Bertrand Russell's first wife; Mary married a barrister named Frank Costelloe to whom she had two daughters, one of whom married Lytton Strachey's brother, and the other, Virginia Woolf's brother. Then she deserted this family for Bernard Berenson, whom she finally married when Costelloe died in 1899. Her money helped build I Tatti, Berenson's fabulous villa and art treasury outside Florence, and she managed to survive the terrible war and occupation by the Nazis.

Logan, not the marrying kind, became the author of that near classic, "Trivium," first privately printed half a century ago and offered to a grateful general public in 1918.

Parker writes many absorbing pages—James and Logan Pearsall Smith doing imitations of other authors, on the satiric side; Logan torturing his sister Alys, on the tragic; and on the social, American money, from an upstate New York heiress, from a Brooklyn department store, from a California law office, spreading its munificence benignly in Florence.

His larger question is whether the three children after their fashion did not act out of fundamentally the same compulsive emotions as their missionary parents even though they diverged so radically from what Parker calls Quaker ideals and principles. He calls them the forerunners of our footloose expatriate intelligentsia and fears they suffered for the break from their original life-giving roots. The name Smith is "ubiquitous and noncommittal," he acknowledges; you would never dream you'd find so much fascinating in Smiths. This is a gallery of unique flavorsome characters, and a grand dramatic encounter of art and literature with life.

BOOKS

The Marauders, by Charlton Ogburn, Jr. (Harper): The triumphs and final tragedy of one of America's most famous battle organizations—Merrill's Marauders, 3,000 volunteers who fought up to 27,000 Japanese in northern Burma in the early days of 1944. The Marauders waged five major and 17 minor battles in three months, during which they marched 600 to 700 miles over some of the toughest terrain on earth. Few U.S. soldiers have ever been asked to give so much in return for so little recognition, and in time the Marauders became discouraged and angry. An inspection in May, 1944, revealed "an almost complete breakdown of morale" and the unit was disbanded. Few books have captured the sound, smell and strain of battle as accurately as this one.

Joy Ride, by Dwight Taylor (Putnam): Among the golden lads and lasses of the 1920's, Taylor had a special privilege: he was not only a talented artist and writer but through the friends of his mother—Laurette Taylor, the beloved actress—he had access to the intellectual elite of the age. On John Barrymore's advice he went to art school rather than college; Somerset Maugham saved him from shipboard card sharps, and F. Scott Fitzgerald remembered him in a story ("Crazy Sunday") which proved that fiction can be stranger than truth. This is less of a memoir than a collection of anecdotes.

DUBLIN (UPI)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner and his wife will lead the New York contingent to the Festival of Kerry this August, festival organizers said Friday.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Nancy Wickwire, who has known employment as TV "soap opera" leading lady, is going to get a real work-out this summer at the American Shakespeare Festival Theater.

The blonde, green-eyed actress from Harrisburg, Pa., will be seen first at the Stratford playhouse in "A Midsummer Night's Dream," playing the pivotal role of Titania. This is a hold-over production from last season, at which time she was the Hippolyta of the cast.

While getting ready for the Titania role, Miss Wickwire also is preparing for the role of Lady Capulet in "Romeo and Juliet." Later she will appear as Mistress Ford in "The Merry Wives of Windsor" and as Helena in "All's Well that Ends Well."

Miss Wickwire burst upon the Broadway scene in 1951 in the Theater Guild's production of Shaw's "Saint Joan" starring Uta Hagen. She had just returned after studying under a two-year scholarship at the Old Vic in London which had followed her graduation from Carnegie Tech.

Few actresses have worked more steadily in off-Broadway productions or have been more in demand for same. This past winter she was busy in "A Clearing in the Woods" at night. During the day she appeared regularly on the dotes recalling Taylor's experiences with the notable and the grotesque during his early manhood.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Nancy Wickwire, who has known employment as TV "soap opera" leading lady, is going to get a real work-out this summer at the American Shakespeare Festival Theater.

The blonde, green-eyed actress from Harrisburg, Pa., will be seen first at the Stratford playhouse in "A Midsummer Night's Dream," playing the pivotal role of Titania. This is a hold-over production from last season, at which time she was the Hippolyta of the cast.

While getting ready for the Titania role, Miss Wickwire also is preparing for the role of Lady Capulet in "Romeo and Juliet." Later she will appear as Mistress Ford in "The Merry Wives of Windsor" and as Helena in "All's Well that Ends Well."

Miss Wickwire burst upon the Broadway scene in 1951 in the Theater Guild's production of Shaw's "Saint Joan" starring Uta Hagen. She had just returned after studying under a two-year scholarship at the Old Vic in London which had followed her graduation from Carnegie Tech.

Few actresses have worked more steadily in off-Broadway productions or have been more in demand for same. This past winter she was busy in "A Clearing in the Woods" at night. During the day she appeared regularly on the dotes recalling Taylor's experiences with the notable and the grotesque during his early manhood.

RUNNING THE SCALES

With JOHN CALE

With some of the larger southern cities as Dallas and New Orleans musical events—the heat seems to draw on musical comedies and entertainers rather than more serious efforts—northeast Louisiana is working its way through faculty and student recitals to end the spring semester.

In connection with this, the Northeast College Faculty String Trio pointed out their program slated for tomorrow has been postponed until the first week in June. It will be recalled this group won praise for its initial performance several months back.

As the abbreviated comic strip "Peanuts" in the Morning World—Monday through Saturday—points out sometimes, there are those people who scream "Good Grief!" whenever string trios and quartets are mentioned. Let's face it, these classic combos have a good amount of the snob appeal element.

Composers and music "shop talkers" are inclined to like the smaller outfits, though, because they furnish the opportunity for a tryout of a new idea which may be put into action later in a full symphony or opera.

An automotive engine designer is afforded a like opportunity when he watches one cylinder out of eight or more go through its paces. Then he—like the composer—may conclude if his idea works in one unit, it should with certain adjustments fill the bill when the complete power plant swings into action.

Incidentally, the trio is not quite as thin as the quartet because the piano in the trio does a fine fill-in job.

FOR SOLOS

Aside from the fill-in job in the trio and yeoman duty as furnishing accompaniments, the piano still survives as a solo instrument as attested by Duchein Catechess' Tech faculty recital Friday of last week.

The "Prelude Chorale and Fugue" of Cesar Frank emphasized the harmonic depth which the instrument can reach and the pieces by Milhaud leaned toward the novel percussive effects noted in more modern compositions.

From our 20th Century vantage, we often think of the piano as the modern version of the harpsichord of Bach's day. While the piano all but displaced the old harpsichord and clavichords for nearly a century and a half, the history book boys have finally convinced some circles that the older instruments had a place all their own. So we can expect to see more harpsichords—possibly in colleges and universities—throughout the country during the coming generation.

The basic difference—the piano evolved from a big zither played with felt hammers and the harpsichord grew out of the plucked string guitar category. The fact that a keyboard was attached to the business end of both instruments did not make them one and the same, especially in regards to the sounds seeping out from under the lids.

So with many recordings now available featuring both instruments, the age of Bach and the other 18th Century composers may come back with a renewed surge of popularity.

Enjoyment Without An Involvement

THE THIRD CHOICE. By Elizabeth Janeway. Doubleday, $3.95.

An aunt and niece and the men in their lives are the subjects of this new novel. a Book - of - the - Month Club choice, from a writer who without the help of clubs enjoys already a wide following among readers of magazines and books and the public that sees movies made from them.

While Diana, seriously injured in an accident, recalls from her hospital bed the men she both married and loved, niece Lorraine goes through a crisis brought on as much by her stuffy husband as by the attraction exerted by her aunt's handsome Dr. Savage. It is the aunt who, from the perspective of her years, does the moralizing, though at the same time she has not learned to control the fiery temper of her youth. The story wanders freely over the last half century and in and out of European as well as American cities.

You will not find yourself involved in the least, but you are always conscious of the professionalism of this work. You admire the poise and urbanity of the author as author, and the even pace of the story; you don't read breathlessly, but you don't falter.

MISS McDONALD RETURNS

NEW YORK (AP) — Marie McDonald, actress - singer, is in Broadway producer Michael Myerberg's plans for two Broadway shows. She last appeared here in the 1939 "George White's Scandals."

Miss McDonald is due next season in a musical version of Thornton Smith's "The Bishop's Jackers," and the following year is to appear in "Lillian Russell."

Paul Anka Has School Problems

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—His millions of teen-age fans will be interested to know that singer Paul Anka has school problems, too.

Paul is the 17-year-old Canadian who claims eight gold records for one record alone—"Diana," which he composed himself. He is here for his first movie, "Girls Town," and he ran smack-dab into California laws concerning under-age actors.

"I finished my junior year in high school in my home town, Ottawa, and I quit," he said in his Beverly Hills Hotel suite. "I was traveling around the world too much to continue school work."

"But the California law says I have to keep studying until I'm 18, which is three months away."

So every day at the studio I have to spend three hours at school work."

Paul argues that he's getting his education through travel. His argument is pretty convincing. In two years, he has sung from Tokyo to Algiers.

"Everywhere I go, I try to learn about the people," he said. "When I was in Algiers, I wanted to see the rebels and how they lived. I went right into their country."

The lad didn't get shot at, perhaps because he looked like one of them. His grandparents came from Lebanon.

Paul's saga is another example of the fantastic music business. In his early teens, he formed a quartet called the Bobbys in Ottawa. The group was soon earning $250 a week. Paul quit to become a single singer, and his school grades suffered as he gained success.

Caldwell Not As Bitter As He Once Was

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Still as banned as ever, Erskine Caldwell appears to be following toward those who ban him.

A little, anyway. Perhaps it is his ailment that has softened his indignation. He suffered a painful calcification of his hand and underwent an operation to cure it.

The hand must remain in a cast and elevated, so Caldwell's vast literary output is stopped temporarily.

"I've always typed with two fingers—couldn't possibly dictate," he says.

Caldwell and his lovely wife had come here from their San Francisco home to discuss filming of his 35th and latest book, "Claude's English," with Warner Brothers. So far no area has banned this one, but it's early yet.

"I had to change the title for England because the spelling of English was considered to be an affront over there," he reported.

"Also in France, because it was considered insulting to the memory of a writer named Claudel who had died recently."

The chronicler of raw life in the South said he is banned regularly in Boston, but "Detroit is worse. There they have three members of the police department who pass on all the books, plays and movies. They've got to ban something, in order to justify their jobs."

Caldwell's treatment of Negro-white themes has caused him to be banned in South Africa. Even his native Georgia gives his works the heave-ho at regular intervals, he said.

Moving around is part of Caldwell's nature. He has lived all over the East and West coasts, and he may move anywhere next. Anywhere but Chicago.

"Chicago is a moneymaker's town," he said. "It holds nothing for me."

"Besides, Chicago is the only major city in the United States where 'Tobacco Road' couldn't play."

COX TO BROADWAY

NEW YORK (AP)—Wally Cox, the "Mr. Peepers" of television, is being lured back to Broadway after a nine year absence.

Producers Leo Kerz and George Justin have signed him to portray in "Moonbirds" a man who can transform people into birds. The Marcel Aymere comedy is to be directed by Jules Dassin, noted French filmmaker.

'Young Land' Opens Today At Paramount

"The Young Land," a major-scale Technicolor production stirring dramatizing the struggle for law and order in California just following its acquisition from Mexico after the Mexican War, opens today at the Paramount Theatre. The exciting saga stars Pat Wayne, Yvonne Craig, Dennis Hopper, and Dan O'Herlihy.

"The Young Land" is a powerful and exciting screen drama written by Norman Shannon Hall from a story suggested by the novelette, "Frontier Frenzy," by John Reese. It is the re-creation of the turbulence first trial held under American law for the slaying of a Mexican by an American.

In a sense, it shows American justice on trial in a sensitive and proud young land, the California of more than a century ago.

Produced by Patrick Ford and directed by Ted Tetzlaff, "The Young Land" also promises to be history - making cinematically, for it presents together three brilliant young screen personalities.

The trio of new stars includes Pat Wayne, the handsome he-man of John Wayne, Yvonne Craig, lovely ballerina from Dallas, Texas, and Dennis Hopper, the gifted youth who gave distinguished acting performances in featured roles in "Giant" and "Gunfight at the O.K. Corral."

The fourth actor starred in "The Young Land" is Dan O'Herlihy, the Irish actor who won an Academy Award nomination for his portrayal of Robinson Crusoe a few years ago.

As for the rest of the eighty-odd characters re-creating the drama - packed story before the cameras, producer Patrick Ford planned to have an astonishing sense of realism. One look at the set of "The Young Land" shows

TOURING THEATER

NEW YORK (AP)—A series of flexibly - designed stage productions is being planned for cross-country tour by Sol Hurok, Broadway impresario.

Included on the agenda are the Katharine Cornell-Brian Aherne play, "Dear Liar," the Dorothy Stickney version of Edna St. Vincent Millay's "A Lovely Light" and works of Schiller and Shakespeare. The show formats are being planned so that they can travel light and alternate bookings in regular theaters with appearances on college campuses and other non-theatrical centers.

Break For Badman

U.S. May Fire New Type Atlas Missile In Week

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Air Force Secretary James H. Douglas said Friday the United States should fire its first production-line Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile in the next week or two.

He said in an Armed Forces Day speech that this country was proceeding on schedule with its plan to "equip our first Atlas squadron with missiles this June."

He said the Atlas, as well as the Thor and Jupiter intermediate missiles, are proven weapons.

Comparing U. S. and Soviet missile strength, Douglas said this country has no evidence that Russia has intercontinental ballistic missiles on the firing line. But he said the Soviets could have a small unit before the end of the year.

Douglas said U. S. military strength should deter Moscow from starting a war unless Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev is grossly misinformed on the strength of our air power relative to his own.

ILLNESS CAN STRIKE AT ANY HOUR... That's why we're ready around the clock.

Hi-Y Club Honored

The "Club of the Year" Award was presented by David Barker (left), president of the Ouachita Parish High School Student Council, to the McCranie Hi-Y Chapter of the Y.M.C.A., at a recent assembly of the student body. Receiving the award is Gary Futch, president of the Hi-Y Chapter. The club is selected on the basis of projects and member participation.

Salvation Army's Role Is Explained

The religious and welfare activities of the Salvation Army in Monroe were outlined today by Major Louis Mockabee in connection with the observance of the week of May 17 thru 24 at Salvation Army Week.

This week recalls that the Salvation Army has been established in Monroe since 1927, and focuses attention on the dedicated service rendered by The Salvation Army in this community.

In Monroe, The Salvation Army offers not only spiritual guidance and a way of life to those who have no church, but a diverse program of aid to the troubled, needy and unfortunate.

The Headquarters at 510 Harrison Street provides service for transients, homeless men, women and children, family and spiritual counseling, welfare for families in need, camp vacations for children, youth clubs, aid to prisoners' families, jail services, and a League of Mercy.

In connection with the observance of Salvation Army Week in Monroe, Major Louis Mockabee has issued an invitation to the community to view, first hand, the facilities and work here. The doors of the Salvation Army will be open from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday, May 24th to an informal open house.

During this "come and see" tour of the institution, on hand to greet the guests will be Major and Mrs. Mockabee, Hugh Balfour, chairman of the Advisory Board, and members of the board. During World War I, when American troops marched into Europe, The Salvation Army was beside them. Through the grimmest and most dangerous days of battle, the cheerful "Sallies" provided a note of hope - a touch of home - for the boys at the front.

After the war, the troops came home shouting the praises of the gallant service of the blue-bonneted women and the blue-uniformed men of The Salvation Army.

Devoted service to the armed forces, however, is but one aspect of the manifold program which The Salvation Army conducts in cities and towns all across the country.

There is a record of family circles restored and strengthened, alcoholics given a faith to cling to, unmarried mothers sheltered and given care, prisoners visited and their families assisted. No set of statistics can encompass the work of The Salvation Army, but yearly through quiet, devoted service, their hands have reached out with help to millions of Americans.

In 1865, William Booth, a Methodist minister, began preaching Christ's message on the street corners of London's worst slums. The converts who accepted his words of hope and salvation joined him in carrying the Gospel to others among the poor, illiterate and dissolute.

Under William Booth's leadership, this group became The Salvation Army, a religious organization dedicated to the spiritual, moral and physical reformation of all who need it and to the care of the poor and sick.

Today, throughout this country and the world, The Salvation Army offers its helping hand in the name of God to everyone in need without distinction as to race or creed.

This has been designated National Salvation Army Week. It gives the people of our community an opportunity to become acquainted with the work and faith of The Salvation Army - A peaceful Army whose creed is Christ's words: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, My brethren, ye have done it unto Me."

Plans Complete For Ouachita Alumni Banquet

Plans for the Ouachita Parish High School Alumni banquet, set for Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Virginia Hotel, neared completion today, according to Fred Hunefeld, Jr., alumni president.

The banquet will honor this year's graduates, Hunefeld said, and a musical program and a guest speaker have been arranged for. He said tickets were available at the school or at any branch of the Ouachita National Bank, Central Savings Bank or the People's Homestead Association.

Thomas Spurlock Junior and the Ouachita choir will be presented in an outstanding musical program. The main address will be given by James T. Adams, City Attorney of Shreveport.

Senior Class Officers are: President, David Barker; Vice - President, Jack Oglesbee; Secretary, Alice Smith; Treasurer, Carol Shipp. Alumni Officers are: President, Fred Hunefeld Jr.; Vice-President, Ford Pipes Jr.; Secretary - Treasurer, Mrs. Hoyt Moncrief; Publicity Chairman, Mrs. Nathaniel R. Spencer; Decoration Chairman, Mrs. Albert F. Mc Mullen; Co - Sponsors of Senior Class, Miss Grace Carter and Miss Josephine McCranie.

The Alumni of the Class of 1909 are particularly urged to attend their Fiftieth Class Reunion, and the Alumni of the Class of 1934 are to attend their Twenty-Fifth Class Reunion.

DON'T NEGLECT YOUR CHILDREN!

Polio isn't licked yet! In fact, among children not vaccinated, paralytic polio cases actually increased in 1958 over 1957. More one-year-olds were stricken than any other age group.

If your youngsters are still not protected against this feared disease, insist that they start and complete the full series of polio shots NOW.

The 1959 polio season is almost here. The sooner your children are polio-protected, the safer their futures will be. And since polio strikes all ages - be sure to get your shots too. See your doctor or health department NOW.

DON'T TAKE A CHANCE - TAKE YOUR POLIO SHOTS!

STUDENTS HERE PURSUE Art Appreciation Study

By BILL HARDIN
Staff Writer

"The beautiful is as useful as the useful."

That is one of the remarks of the renowned Victor Hugo, but the statement is as true today as when the great European said it. Many know it to be true, many others accept it in a routine way; many others never heard of it so never bothered to know of its true value; and still many others know it, believe it, but never do anything about furthering it. In this last category most of us remain, perhaps not enjoying this fatalistic acceptance, but nevertheless, doing nothing to move into one of the other spheres.

And so it has been with most of the educators of today when one regards the lack of education of the finer things in life. Take the arts, for instance. In today's world of the spunkies, in the passing age of the jet planes and into the guided missile, few if any think of other fields of education than physics, mathematics and the related sciences.

But if the children of today must live in a world which has inherited the arts of the masters of the past centuries, they should learn to enjoy them. . . to appreciate them. . . and to know the full meaning of the arts, particularly the paintings which the civilized world has cherished for all these years.

SPECIAL

It is with that in mind that a group of educators in the Monroe City School system have begun a special course in art appreciation. While it is not specifically confined to the great paintings, it must necessarily deal with this particular field. For through the appreciation of the great paintings of the past, the quest for the finer things in art can and will be brought into being.

and that of the consumers. One without the other cannot be full. Since there was no basic guide for the faculty to go by, the teachers under the general chairmanship of Mrs. Sara Ellen (Bruno) Bottorff have worked out a guide for themselves. The compilation of the information has been termed an excellent outline and is being watched by more than one person higher up in education fields. One of the principal persons both aiding and watching the work is Mrs. Irma S. Willard, state consultant in art education, Louisiana State Department of Education.

The study, which Miss Rosa Belle McDonald, principal at Lexington School, says will continue until "all of us are satisfied with the work" is basically an attempt to lead children to see that it is a great experience to be able to create anything truly beautiful. But as important in the eyes of the teachers is the effort to guide the children in observing and enjoying the beautiful everywhere.

This, then, does not mean that this small group of teachers believe the children should learn to enjoy a certain picture and disregard that which is all around them. The relationship of one thing to another is basic in the appreciation of the arts.

IMPORTANCE

Mrs. Mary Fink, one of the principal workers in the movement, points out the importance of proper use of leisure time. This, she says, is one of the most important phases of a liberal education, yet it is being ignored, or at least, given little emphasis. The future with its promise of automation will give more leisure time.

The study of art in the schools deals not only with drawing and the other manipulative skills, but the appreciation of art as well. Its purpose is not to make artists of all students, but "to enhance the powers of observation and encourage art as a medium for the expression of ideas."

One of the foremost of the modern artists, Valenti Angelo, once said "If children are given no guidance in the matter of beautiful things they are bound to acquire or take whatever is at hand. If children are to get on the path to appreciation of art, they must be given those things that enrich their lives. Children will grow to recognize that things are beautiful providing these things are placed constantly within their sight and reach."

This statement provides the basis for the entire program being conducted at Lexington Elementary School.

A glance around the school shows reproductions of many of the great paintings of the past. "The Madonna of the Chair" by Raphael, "The Fog Warning" by Homer, and the "Boy with Rabbit" are some of the many reproductions. They, along with many other pictures brought fleeting moments of the years in another grammar school, Georgia Tucker when a number of years ago, I, too, heard about these same paintings. To this day, the brief history of the picture and the artist remain.

CONTRAST

What a contrast these pictures are from the "zig-zag" of today's art!

When one looks at these pictures of old, he can see almost a story without any explanation. Take "The Fog Warning," for instance. The fisherman weary from his day's toil, tugs at the oars of his open boat in an effort to reach the shore before the oncoming fog spreads over the entire sea, blocking his vision. In the rear of the boat is a large fish, a halibut.

The choppy seas, the apprehension of the fisherman and the distant fog. . . all combine to create an illusion of action.

A child can look at the picture and grasp the magic of the sea. An adult views the painting and feels the tense feeling gripping the fisherman. There is no need for an explanation; it is all there in the picture.

With a knowledge of those paintings, the children in their art classes can use their own imagination, creating their own pictures. There is no set picture for an entire class, rather each child draws what he wants.

The results in the art classes at Lexington have proved that this program is rewarding. These experiences, as the teachers prefer to call them, show continued improvement with each grade. No two are alike, but all show an originality of the children.

And, what is more rewarding to many, particularly those who do not enjoy and/or understand the modern art, few if any of the "experiences" in art at Lexington must be explained to the viewer. The pictures show a definite trend of the children to depict some item of life as it is through their eyes. Perhaps the trail on a dog is too long, or the coloring is not according to the strokes of the masters, but it is as the child sees it. That is what is most important.

As he or she progresses into the next higher grade, the pictures become progressively more lifelike.

Perhaps the results of the art program can best be summed up in statement of purpose, printed in the outline of art appreciation, compiled by the school faculty:

"The study of art in the schools includes not only drawing and other manipulative skills, but art appreciation as well. Its purpose is not to make artists of all students nor to develop high artistic skill, but to enhance the powers of observation and encourage art as the medium for the expression of ideas.

"It is our goal to provide the children with an outlet for inner expression and to enjoy art with them.

"Our hope is to create the supportive king of environment needed for children to gain a measure of confidence in the field of creative expression."

Ike Approval For Nuclear Plane Likely

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Melvin Price (D-Ill.) said Saturday there is "a good chance" the White House will approve a revived Defense Department plan to build a nuclear-powered plane to be completed in 1963.

Price, chairman for research and development on the Joint Congressional Atomic Committee, revealed in an interview that the project would not require additional appropriations this year. Over the next four years, the additional cost would be about 300 million dollars.

The Illinois Democrat has been leading a fight to rescind an administration order delaying construction of the plane until a high - performance military aircraft can be built.

Lt. Gen. Roscoe Wilson, Air Force deputy chief of staff for development, said Friday the last decision of the late Deputy Defense Secretary Donald A. Quarles was to appeal to the President for the construction go-ahead.

The Pentagon, meanwhile, said nothing in writing has gone to the White House as yet on the subject. A spokesman added that a series of meetings has been held to discuss the matter. Price also

DISTRICT OIL AND GAS

Two New Producers Are Reported In Monroe Area

Last week a dual gas completion in Caldwell parish and a new wildcat oil producer in LaSalle parish were reported to the Monroe District office of the state department of conservation.

Of the 12 new locations staked in the Monroe District, three were wildcaters.

In Vixen Field of Caldwell parish Barnwell Drilling Company's Louisiana Central Oil & Gas No. 1 was dual completed on May 9. It is in section 23, township 15, range 2 east.

The well is flowing an estimated

3,200 million cubic ft. from the Hill Sand at 6605 ft. and 3,300 million cubic feet from the Gloyd Sand at 6630 ft.

Both sands are in the Rodessa Zone and are producing through one-quarter inch chokes.

Justiss-Mears Oil Company's Harter-Tensas Delta No. 1, a wildcat in LaSalle parish, is pumping 14 barrels of 20 gravity oil from perforations at 1534-37 ft.

Completed May 7, the wildcat is in section 14, township 9, range 1 east.

The following new locations were staked last week:

IN SHREVEPORT DISTRICT

12 Completions Seen Last Week

SHREVEPORT (Special)—Eleven oil wells and one oil and gas well were completed during the past week in the Shreveport District, the Conservation Department reported.

One producer was the wildcat A. D. Holloway, et al, No. 1. Oil and Gas, a Desoto Parish well completed to flow 91.64 barrels of oil daily from the Paluxy zone at 3,000 feet.

The Robert F. Roberts No. 1 M. S. Ratliff, et al, 16-8, a wildcat in Bienville Parish, was reported last week drilling below 5,100 feet. One well was reported temporarily abandoned and seven were plugged and abandoned.

C. H. McDuff, conservation Department district manager, reported 41 rigs active in the area during the week.

Well completions for production by parishes are:

CADDO
Caddo Pine Island Field—Bill Gary's No. 3 Survey Oil & Gas, completed to pump 4 barrels of oil daily from the Natatooch zone at 2,320 feet.
Juan and Kendrick Bros.' No. 4, et al, et al, et al, completed to pump 20 barrels of oil daily from 2,520 feet in the Woodbine zone.

AT OIL EXPOSITION

Cost Saving Items Sought By Oilmen

By MAX SKELTON
TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Cost-conscious oilmen are easy to find at the 14th International Oil Exposition.

Operators are searching for time and money saving items.

Hundreds of exhibitors at the exposition are pushing new or modified equipment designed for economy as well as efficiency.

The recent recession set off an economy wave within the oil industry.

Crude production and products demand are increasing but the oilman continues to emphasize his cost reduction efforts. The improved conditions offer little hope for crude or products price increases.

A survey emphasizing spiraling costs was released to the industry last week. Another is expected in a week or 10 days.

The cost survey committee of the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America (IPAA) estimates the costs of such major items as labor and equipment have increased over 57 per cent since 1947-1949. Some of the increase has been offset by improved efficiency but prices have increased only 4 per cent.

The survey soon to be released will emphasize drilling costs. It is the second such study to be made jointly by IPAA, the American Petroleum Institute, and the Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Assn.

The high cost of dry holes will be among the points to draw emphasis in the joint survey.

An average of 145 wells are expected to be completed by the domestic industry every 24 hours in 1959. Included will be 87 oil or gas producers and 58 dry holes. Each day's operations are expected to require over 111 miles of drill pipe costing over $65,100 a mile.

here range from devices for rapid duplication of office records to portable drilling rigs that can be moved by helicopter.

Nearly a dozen chemical companies are emphasizing the latest process for combatting corrosion. In the past five years the industry has developed extensive programs to combat this high cost enemy.

General Electric Co. has a vehicle wheel that reduces maintenance by elimination of transmissions, axles and gearshifts.

The wheels utilize power from a single direct current generator. Four or more can be bolted to heavy equipment haulers.

Equipment for simultaneous recording of a complete log for wells is being displayed by Schlumberger Well Surveying Corp. Schlumberger spokesmen say the average operating time for running the technical tests separately can be cut as much as 25 per cent and reduce costly rig time.

Caterpillar Tractor Co. is demonstrating a tractor and pipeline contractors a tractor with special blade that reduces the time required to knock down and shear off trees from 1.71 hours per acre to 1.45 hours.

U.S. Steel has a new oil storage tank designed to reduce fabrication, freight and erection costs. The use of constructional alloy steel for the shell is estimated to save up to $14,000 per tank.

PREVENTS THEFT

LONDON (UPI)—U. S. Army officials Friday credited Sgt. Frank O'Neal, 63, of Boston, with preventing the theft of $33,600 from two messengers. O'Neal hit one of the holdup men with a pair of handcuffs and forced him to drop the money bag before fleeing. The money was being delivered by American Express messengers.

CHARTER PRESENTED

Ouachita Federal Organized Here

The Ouachita Federal Savings and Loan Association, after many months of work and planning by its organizers officially came into existence Friday night when stockholders accepted a charter, and elected officers and directors of the institution.

The formation of the institution was completed in a brief, methodic and formal session, directed by J. A. Norris, chairman of the organizational committee, and F. N. Chambliss, legal counsel.

Serving as the first officers of the Association will be J. A. Norris, president; J. H. Butler, vice president; J. W. Robertson, treasurer; James L. Dana will serve as secretary and manager.

Members of the board of directors are: Bruck Brooks, J. H. Butler, George M. Cox, F. N. Chambliss, Ike Hamilton, Hilton Heard, Ed Hisslop, Jr., O. T. Lindsey, Jr., J. A. Norris, Fred Riser and J. W. Robertson.

Secretary Dana announced that payment for stock subscriptions is now being received at the Ouachita Federal domicile at 311 Natatooches street. Stock subscribers were urged to mail checks at an early date.

Near the conclusion of the first stockholders meeting, Organizational Chairman Norris and Robertson extended thanks to the stockholders in their support of the effort to secure the Association charter.

Ouachita Federal is the only building and loan institution west of the river in Ouachita parish. Robertson called the institution "an important facility in the growth pattern of West Monroe. Such an institution is needed and will do much to further the growth of our city," he said.

Cotton Mart Prices Close On Soft Note

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures prices turned soft this week after a firm start.

At the close of trading Friday, active contracts on the New York cotton exchange from July, 1959 through July, 1960 showed net losses ranging from 55 cents to $3.10 a bale.

The distant October position scored a net gain of 65 cents a bale. The May 1959 contract which expired Wednesday, went off the board unchanged from its closing prices on Friday, May 8.

Steadiness in the spot market bolstered the entire market at the outset of the week, but once May went off the board, the list weakened. Bullish influences included liquidation prompted by favorable weather reports from the belt, and a commodity credit corp. report showing an increase in loan repossession.

Uncoupling of stop-loss orders hastened the decline.

Exports of U.S. cotton for the week ended Tuesday amounted to 57,000 bales vs. 46,000 the previous week and 135,000 in the like week last year. This brought the season's total to 2,224,000 bales, 51 per cent below the 4,506,000 bales exported at approximately the same time a year ago.

Trade sources predict exports for the full 1958-59 season will total no more than 2,850,000 bales, compared to 5,717,000 last season.

Masonic Banquet

Slated May 21

Western Star Lodge No. 24 will hold its annual Past Master's Banquet May 21, at the Masonic Temple in Monroe.

There will be no degree work, but Judge Jesse Heard, well known local jurist, will be principal speaker, according to W. G. Nixon, worshipful master.

Judge Heard is well qualified as a speaker, and Western Star Lodge is very fortunate in having Judge Heard on the program," the worshipful master said. All master masons are invited to attend. The banquet will begin at 6:30 p. m.

Oil Compact Is Up Again For Renewal

WASHINGTON (AP) — In February, 1935, in the era of rich oil strikes in Texas and Oklahoma, representatives of several states met in Dallas, to seek a united front against waste of the nation's oil and gas resources.

Out of that meeting came the draft of an interstate oil compact for conservation of oil and gas. Legislatures of Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Illinois, Colorado and Kansas ratified the compact in short order and in August of the same year Congress approved.

The compact now is back before Congress, for its eighth renewal, and there seems little doubt of a new extension for it.

A House Commerce subcommittee readily approved, after hearing the compact praised as a substantial success.

The compact, which now has 30 oil states as members, would be extended under the pending legislation, for four years from Sept. 1, 1959, when its present life expires.

Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) of the House Commerce Committee wrote the extending legislation approved by the subcommittee after a brief hearing. The legislation will go before the full committee soon.

Harris and Navy Capt. M.V. Carson Jr., director of the Interior Department's Office of Oil and Gas, supported the extension at the hearing.

Carson recalled that in the 1920s and 1930s, when lush oil fields were being discovered in Texas and Oklahoma, there were no adequate conservation measures.

Then some oil men and state officials, he said, saw the need for conservation and that led to drafting of the compact.

The meeting at Dallas followed a conference of oil state representatives called by Gov.-elect E.W. Marland in Ponca City, Okla. in December 1934.

Carson said the primary purpose of the compact is to prevent the physical waste of oil and gas.

The compact is administered by a commission from headquarters in Oklahoma City. The commission operates through various committees whose overall job is to improve conservation practices.

Stock Averages Rise Sharply

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose sharply for the first time in three weeks when it closed Friday at 229.2 from 225.5 a week earlier. For the first time in five weeks the commodity index moved higher, finishing at 171.1 from 170.8 in the preceding period. Livestock showed the widest gain. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

Moderate Gains Registered By Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP) — Moderate gains were the rule this week in grain futures prices on the Board of Trade but they did little more at best than cancel out last week's setbacks. In some instances, they fell slightly short.

May wheat and rye, both long-time steady losers, were the only contracts to show additional losses for the week. May rye slumped as much as 5 cents a bushel and May wheat another 1 1/2 cents. Most other contracts finished on the plus side in the 1 to 2 cent range.

Significant commercial influences were scarce and at least some of the firmness was attributed to a somewhat general move among dealers to establish long positions in distant deliveries.

With trading in all May contracts ending next Wednesday, interest in those deliveries sagged except for evening up transactions. However, there appeared to be more short covering than liquidation of those contracts.

At the end of the week, wheat futures were 1 1/4 cents a bushel lower on May to 1 1/2 higher on new crop months, May 1 1/2-1 3/4, corn 1/2-2 cents higher, May 1 1/2-1 3/4, oats 1 1/2-1 3/4, May 68 1/2, rye 5 cents lower on May to 1 1/2 higher on new crop months, May 1 3/4-1 3/5, soybeans 1 1/2-2 1/4 higher, May 2 3/4.

CHEVY'S ROOMINESS

(MOST SPACIOUS IN ITS FIELD... MAKE THE YARDSTICK TEST)

You'll find Chevrolet seats are up to a full 5.7 inches wider than those of the other leading low-priced sedans. And Chevy gives you even more head room than most of the highest priced sedans.

CHEVY'S BIGGER BRAKES

(BUILT FOR UP TO TWO-THIRDS LONGER LINING LIFE)

Chevrolet's new brakes are the biggest in their field—bigger, in fact, than those of many heavier, higher priced cars. And Chevy's bonded linings do away with drum-scoring rivets.

CHEVY'S FULL COIL RIDE

(NO OTHER LEADING LOW-PRICED CAR HAS A RIDE LIKE THIS)

A few minutes behind the wheel will show you why Chevrolet engineers have put leaf springs out to pasture. No other car near the price has come up with a ride that coddles you like this one.

CHEVY'S FRESH STYLING

(THE ONLY UNMISTAKABLY MODERN LINES IN ITS FIELD)

You don't have to look twice at Chevy's clean-swept silhouette to know it's a new car. And, besides the satisfaction it brings, Chevy's style will mean a higher allowance at trade-in time.

CHEVY'S BIGGER SAVINGS

(MORE MILES TO THE GALLON THAN ANY OTHER FULL-SIZE CAR)

A pair of Chevrolet 6's proved this emphatically—coming in first and second in their class in this year's Mobilgas Economy Run. And the winning mileage was a whopping 22.38 m.p.g.

CHEVY'S HIGHER TRADE-IN VALUE

(BY NATIONAL AUTOMOBILE DEALERS ASSOCIATION FIGURES)

The N.A.D.A. Official Used Car Guide Book shows that Chevy consistently brings a higher trade-in allowance than any other low-priced car. Last year Chevrolets averaged up to $128 higher than comparable models of the "other two."

CHEVY'S ADVANCED-DESIGN ENGINES

(AND YOU GET THE WIDEST CHOICE IN THE INDUSTRY!)

Chevy's the only car in its field that gives you oil-hushed hydraulic valve lifters on all standard engines for smoother, quieter performance. It's the only American car at any price with a high-performance V8 that packs more than one horsepower into every cubic inch of displacement. And you get nine engines in all to choose from... every one of them with the convenience of automatic choke.

AS STEEL TALKS GO ON Business Tempo Continues Brisk

NEW YORK (AP) — As steel goes, so goes the nation. That's what captains of industry, finance and labor were telling each other this week as steel company and union chiefs settled down to two-fisted bargaining on a new wage contract.

President Eisenhower, on a flying trip to New York, met briefly with President David J. McDonald of the United Steelworkers but gave every indication that the White House is still maintaining a "hands off" attitude toward the steel wage poker game.

Still unanswered at week's end were three key questions:

Would the contract talks result in another year of labor peace? Would they produce a new inflationary round of steel price boosts? Or would they bring on a strike that could stifle the nation's industrial comeback?

Wall Street didn't know the answers, but the guessing was that it came to a strike, the walk-out might not be as long or as severe as some steel executives had expected.

Whatever course the steel bargaining might take, most segments of the nation's business kept rolling right along as if there were nothing but blue and cloudless skies on the economic horizon.

Big banks around the country raised a "go-slow" signal — and lifted their prime interest rates. This is the rate charged big borrowers with top credit ratings. Starting Monday, blue chip corporations borrowing in New York will pay 4 1/2 per cent on short-term loans instead of 4. Rates charged other borrowers are scaled upward from that floor.

Banks usually raise their interest rates in times of high-stepping prosperity. The psychological effect is to keep optimism from running wild, discourage over-ambitious expansion plans, and put a damper on reckless speculation.

It also indicates the banks feel demand for funds is so strong that they can earn a better return on their money.

Just about all the other news this week spelled "boom" in capital letters.

The Federal Reserve Board announced that the nation's industrial output last month crashed through to a new record — a sizzling 149 per cent of the 1947-49 average.

Housing starts in April were the highest yet for that month. Employment climbed to an April high of more than 65 million. Unemployment dipped to 3,627,000 — down 735,000 from a month ago and 1,493,000 below the recession-swollen total of April last year.

Average pay of factory workers inched up to a record $89.87 a week. That's a gain of $9 since April 1958. The average work week stretched to 40 1/3 hours, up two hours from a year ago.

Auto output this week climbed to within kissing distance of the 1959 weekly high of 137,000 cars set in January.

LITTLE THEATRE

Before we continue our saga of players in search of a playhouse, we must head this column with an "Ivan Needs" paragraph. Because there are four scene changes in Country Girl, Ivan needs a crew of seven men and two or three women. Please give him a ring at FA 3-4263. He also needs a small chaise longue; it doesn't have to be elegant or even very long. And he needs a pier glass on a stand. We need not exactly sure what a pier glass is, but anyone who owns one surely knows and we'd surely like to borrow it.

Now, on with the story of our ravings. During 1946-48, with Kay Causey as director, our plays were given at Neville which cannot by any stretch of the imagination be regarded as a little theatre. Though equipped with excellent facilities, the huge stage and auditorium precluded that feeling of rapport between actors and audience which is so warm in our present little playhouse — dilapidated though it may be. There too, conflicts in schedule were unavoidable. Furthermore, plays which were very good theater of Broadway sometimes seemed unsuitable when given in a school. The crisis was precipitated by the fire cracker explosion in "You Can't Take It With You" and a bar room scene in "Uncle Harry". Little Theatre was again without a stage. We did not even have a place to store our scenery until Tony Veasey came to our rescue and allowed us storage and rehearsal space at the Red Cross. In gratitude, Little Theatre gave a Christmas play at the Veterans Hospital in Alexandria every year for seven years.

In 1948 we borrowed the court-house for our play "The Night of January 16th". That locale was not only compatible but agreeably economical, for we did not have to construct any scenery. Unfortunately, we could not make an entire repertoire of court room dramas and we went house hunting again for "Dear Ruth". We think this was performed at performed at Georgia Tucker with out a single on-stage rehearsal; in fact, we had nearly a whole season there. Continuing practice sessions at the Red Cross, we were allowed dress rehearsal and two night at Ouachita Parish High School and Mr. Hays stayed back stage the entire time, warning that if he saw anything at all amiss he would bring down the curtain at once and declare the entertainment to be over. We gave the proceeds of one show to help the choir of O P H S take its memorable trip to Wales. The students and their parents turned out in droves, filling the auditorium and swelling the coffers of the Wales fund.

But obviously we could not go on like that. In 1949, Gilbert Faulk, who was President of the Board of Directors at the time, explored Selman Field looking for a building we could use. Having negotiated with the city to allow us to use our present playhouse, our devoted members (some of them) scrubbed, painted, and patched, adapting everything that was donated or scrounged to some decorative and practical use. For example, we used an old bath tub for our pool in the lobby. Don't you remember how we had a fountain in it for awhile? Outside we had to build a bridge across the ditch and from time to time we were plagued by vandals who broke the windows and poked holes in the walls. Years passed before we had a concrete walk.

Stocker Fontellieu was our first director at Selman Field, giving a professional smoothness that has been as brilliantly continued by Ivan Uital, our present director.

Our dilemma for some time now has been what to do about the physical condition of our little playhouse. We either had to spend a great deal of money on a new roof, a big paint job, adequate plumbing, and other expensive repairs or find another theater. In either case, where would we find the money? Then came this splendid offer of the Strauss Foundation to match any amount which we could raise up to $50,000. This is our chance of a life time. Think what it will mean to mean to Monroe and the surrounding area. We are depending on our public to make this proposition a reality.

Rainach Claims Long To Offer Voter Law Bills

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Sen. W. M. Rainach of Sumnerfield, Louisiana segregation chief, said Saturday he has learned Gov. Earl Long plans to offer the Legislature two bills aimed at the white citizens councils in their negro vote purges.

There were indications Rainach's segregation forces headed for a showdown with Long on the measures if they are introduced. Rainach said the Long bill is intended to revise the voter qualification laws.

He said the changes would prevent removal of any voter from the registration rolls who has been on the rosters more than one year — regardless of whether he was qualified properly — and make it difficult to remove a registered voter for errors made in filling out application cards.

A showdown on the segregation matter would put lawmakers on the political spot since they will be standing for re-election.

Building Trades Wage Scales In South Advance

ATLANTA (AP) — The Department of Labor said Saturday that Southern building trades wage scales advanced slightly during the past year.

The federal agency said increases ranged from 2.7 per cent for bricklayers to 6.6 per cent for building laborers in the South between April 1 last year and April 1, 1959.

The department said bricklayers in Jackson, Miss., made $3.50 per hour on April 1 this year, while carpenters got $2.85, electricians $3.10, plasterers $2.87, plumbers $3.40 and building laborers $1.45.

Part Of Power Plant For Project Saturn

Eight of these H-1 liquid propellant rocket engines, will be clustered to form the 1 1/2 million pound thrust propulsion system for the Advanced Research Projects Agency's new Saturn space vehicle, according to the Defense Dept. which released the photo in Washington. The engines are simplified versions of those now used in the Jupiter and Atlas rockets.

This one is in place on a test stand in a field laboratory. Dr. Werner von Braun, the Army's top missile scientist, described the Saturn project, under way at Redstone Arsenal, as bigger than anything Russia has yet demonstrated. (Defense Department Photo via AP Wirephoto)

Registration For Summer School Slated

Northeast Louisiana State College will open the nine-week summer school with registration beginning June 5 and closing June 6 at noon. Class work will start June 8 and the semester will end on August 7.

The schedule provides for classes on a five-day basis, Monday through Friday, and the time program extends from 7 a. m. until 12:50 p. m.

Persons wishing to earn credit in the college should file with the Office of Admissions an application for admission on an official form and a certificate of eligibility signed by his high school principal, and parish superintendent, as required by legislative act. He also should file official transcripts of high school and college records and results of a physical examination on a form supplied by Northeast.

All veterans entering college for the first time should have at the date of registration certificates for education and training. Questions concerning veteran eligibility should be addressed to the nearest Veterans' Administration Office, the director of admissions said.

The college provides housing facilities during the summer term and meals may be obtained at the cafeteria on the campus. All inquiries concerning dormitory applications and deposits should be sent to the Director of Housing at Northeast State.

A room deposit of $10 should accompany application for a dormitory room. The dining hall will be open for students beginning with the evening meal on June 4 and meals will be served seven days per week.

Summer study provides special opportunities to students graduating from high school this spring who wish to begin their college work this summer. Students taking courses for degrees in various fields at other colleges or universities will find sufficient work offered at Northeast to apply toward their degrees. Through the history of summer terms here, records show that many regular Northeast students attend the term to shorten the time required to graduate.

Studies will be offered this summer in the following curricula: agriculture and home economics, business administration, education, fine arts, liberal arts, pure and applied science and pharmacy.

Dr. D. Cronk Participating In Convention

Dr. Dale H. Cronk, associate professor of pharmacy at Northeast State, will take part in the national convention of American College of Apothecaries, which opens today for a three-day session in New Orleans at the Roosevelt Hotel.

The Northeast instructor is a member of the Pharmaceutical Education committee for the 1959-60 year. He is a faculty fellow of the organization which includes professional pharmacists throughout the nation.

Gerald Nutter of Tulsa is president of the American College of Apothecaries and Edward F. Keating, professional pharmacist from Chicago, is the president-elect.

Emphasized on the convention agenda will be discussions of trends in pharmacy, new drugs and problems related to pharmacy today and tomorrow. The organization's personnel strongly endorse attendance at the meetings, Dr. Cronk said. He pointed to the effort which leaders in the field are making with a view toward stimulating the professional area of pharmacy and problems related to it.

The pharmaceutical education committee of which Dr. Cronk is a member is headed by Louis Zopf, dean of the College of Pharmacy at the University of Iowa, and who was a participant at a two-day Pharmacy Seminar recently held at Northeast State.

Consideration of this committee will be given to the development of a close liaison between the practicing professional pharmacists and those involved in pharmaceutical education to assist in the furtherance of training in this field.

Dr. Cronk explained that one of the committee problems is to establish an understanding of relationship of faculty fellows of the American College of Apothecaries within the college activities. "We should establish a clear definition of what the faculty fellow should expect from the college and in turn what the college can expect from fellows," Cronk said.

ON HOUSE FLOOR

Showdown Near On Housing Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A key House Democrat claimed the votes Saturday to block a coalition attempt to cut the Democratic housing bill even below the amounts sought by President Eisenhower.

A showdown on the issue is due next week when the controversial Democratic bill, which carries a $2,100,000,000 price tag, comes up for House debate and amendment.

Many southern Democrats and Republicans are expected to rally behind a move to substitute a scaled-down bill by Rep. A. Sydney Herlong (D-Fla.). His is a $1,300,000,000 bill, compared with the administration's $1,660,000,000 plan.

A forecast of defeat for the Herlong measure came from Rep. Albert Rains (D-Ala.), chairman of the House banking subcommittee on housing. Rains told a reporter the vote might be close but that he was confident the House would reject the substitute.

Rains said he looks for crucial tests to come on amendments to water down the public housing and urban renewal provisions of the Democratic bill, after the Herlong bill is turned down.

The $2,100,000,000 Rains bill would authorize $1,500,000,000 in grants for urban renewal and slum clearance over three years. This compares with a six-year $1,450,000,000 plan of the administration and a two-year 600 million dollar program in the Herlong bill.

Rains' legislation also would authorize 35,000 new public housing units a year until all funds authorized by Congress for this program are exhausted. Rains has said this would mean 140,000 more units.

The administration, which like Herlong would provide for no new public housing, has challenged Rains' interpretation of that provision in his bill. The administration contends the bill would authorize 190,000 units and boost the cost of the measure by $3,700,000,000 over a 4-5 year period.

ON PRESIDENT'S PROGRAM

Demos Assailed For Slow Action

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Republican National Committee said Saturday the Democratic Congress has ignored the nation's needs while engaging in bickering, "self-righteous uproar" and harassment of presidential appointees.

The GOP berated the Democrats in Congress in one of its "battle line" memoranda to party leaders.

It cited President Eisenhower's special message to Congress this week calling for action on bills dealing with his requests for higher gasoline taxes, home mortgage guarantees, and the wheat surplus.

"The President limited his plea for action to those three programs in which the time element is vital," the GOP said.

"But he could have broadened his challenge to encompass almost the entire spectrum of legislation."

The memo said that in more than four months the 1959 session of Congress had passed only 31 public bills, of which only Hawaiian statehood, extension of the draft law and unemployment benefit legislation could be called major bills.

"With the rest of the nation's needs left hanging, the Congress has been occupied with bickering among Democrats, much running for the presidential nomination, much haggling over the bungling of the majority leadership, much self-righteous uproar over nepotism and related payroll scandals," the Republicans said.

"Harassment of qualified presidential appointees to gain headlines has been a major partisan activity which has failed to produce the political dividends intended."

The memorandum charged the Democrats with a "concerted plan to hamstring" the administration by inaction on presidential appointments. As of Thursday, it said there were 913 presidential nominees awaiting Senate approval, including Secretary of Commerce Lewis L. Strauss and other Commerce Department executives, and 39 federal judges.

PLUMB OUTA GAS! WELL, NEPHEW, I GUESS YOU'LL HAVE TO GO GET SOME. THEN WE'LL TAKE OFF FOR THAT GOLD MINE I'M GONNA GIVE YOU.

BUT WHAT'LL YOU DO WHILE I'M GONE, UNCLE LUCKY?

DON'T WORRY. I'LL JUST SET IN THE SHADE AND WAIT.

LATER...

GOSH!... (PUFF, PUFF!) NO TELLING HOW FAR TO THE NEAREST TOWN!

HIDY, STRANGER. HAVING TROUBLE?

WHY, ER, YES, I GUESS I AM. NOW, LET ME THINK... OH, YES, I REMEMBER. I'M OUT OF GAS!

YOU'RE LUCKY I HAPPENED TO HAVE ALONG SOME EXTRA GAS.

YEP! ALWAYS WAS LUCKY!

THAT GOLD MINE MAY BE A GIFT, BUT BELIEVE ME, I'VE EARNED IT!
